New Soviet Secret Weapon Could Destroy All Life on Earth, Nikita Says

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev says the Soviet Union has a new secret weapon which could destroy all life on earth. His words seemed to be aimed primarily at Red China and not at the West.

Khrushchev, who did not describe the weapon, was speaking to a Japanese parliamentary delegation Tuesday. The Japanese said he mentioned the weapon during a blast at Chinese Communist leader Mao Tze-tung.

Khrushchev accused Mao of wanting to take over Soviet territory. The Japanese said Khrushchev told them the Soviet Union hates war and doesn't want to use its new weapons, but "if you live among wolves, you should howl like a wolf."

Khrushchev made no mention of the West during his discussion of new weapons, the Japanese reported.

He told them that Soviet military men and scientists on Monday had showed him "new means of destruction" which the Soviet Union now possesses. He said he is amazed to learn that it could end all life.

Kenzi Fukunaga, leader of the Japanese delegation, told a news conference today that he had the impression that Khrushchev was referring to one weapon, not several.

In Washington, U.S. government experts said Khrushchev might be talking about a cobalt bomb, which would produce huge amounts of lethal, long-lived radioactive fallout; a "death ray," possibly a highly concentrated, intense beam of light; a neutron bomb that

West Is Kept Guessing About New Red Weapon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The "new means of destruction" claimed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev could be a major advance in chemical or germ warfare, government experts said today.

Defense sources stressed they were speculating in the absence of any hard intelligence information about what Khrushchev meant in a talk to a Japanese group in the Kremlin Tuesday.

Developments considered in the realm of the possible included:

—The dread cobalt bomb, a nuclear device using a shell of cobalt instead of steel. Explosion of such a bomb would unleash huge amounts of lethal and long-lived radioactive fallout.

—A "death ray," possibly a highly concentrated, intense beam of light.

—The neutron bomb, another kind of death ray weapon whose emissions would destroy all life in a target area but would do virtually no damage to structures.

Defense experts were not disposed to dispute the existence of a significant new Soviet weapon out of hand. They noted that Soviet boasting of this sort generally has had some basis, although often inflated for propaganda effect.

At the same time they were not dismissing the possibility that this might be a play by Khrushchev to frighten his Communst Chinese foes — and that the Soviet leader might have taken liberties with the truth.

Officially, the Defense Department declined comment. This is usual in such instances.

Authoritative Pentagon sources said they had seen no indications in recent intelligence reports that the Russians might have come up with something new and significant in the way of weaponry.

There was evidence that defense officials were caught by surprise. Though deeply interested, there was no sign of anxiety over the reported development.

Experts read carefully the words attributed to Khrushchev

Third Annual Aspen Drive Planned in Cripple Creek

It's aspen time in Colorado . . .and free jeep tours across the brilliantly multicolored mountainsides, and through several ghost mining towns, will be conducted by Cripple Creek businessmen and drivers Saturday and Sunday and the following weekend, Sept. 26 and 27.

This is the third year such tours have been conducted. Last year, more than 600 Coloradans and visitors from other states took the conducted tours, and many more are expected this year.

Since Mother Nature decides to touch the aspens with vivid color apparently according to whim, the dates for the tour have varied from year to year. The selection of this year's tour dates was made by compiling the carefully considered opinions of may long-time residents of the area.

In addition to the multi-hued aspen vistas, the tour-takers will be shown such 10,000-foot altitude ghost towns as Barry, Winfield, Midway, Elkton, Arequa, Hull City, and Anaconda. These lonely towns were once the addresses of such colorful persons as Jack Dempsey, Gallagher and Sheen, Texas Guinan, Bernard Baruch, Groucho Marx and many others.

In addition to the free jeep rides through the high country, there will also be conducted drive - your - own caravans that will wind along the back trails to such places as Independence, Windy City, Goldfield and Mound City.

It is possible that may visitors will catch glimpses of deer working their way down off the Peak toward winter pastures at lower elevations.

Because there are so many picturesque and beautiful things to see along these tours, visitors are urged to bring their cameras and lots of film.

Miller Charges Discrimination By Johnson

By CHARLES DUMAS

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller pushed on into the Midwest today after unloading a "bombshell" charge in Texas that President Johnson had practiced discrimination in a land sale.

After a Republican rally here this morning, the GOP vice presidential nominee scheduled stops at Lincoln, Neb.; Topeka, Kan.; and Des Moines on the second day of his five day campaign swing.

The peppery New York congressman sailed into the President in Johnson's own backyard Tuesday.

He accused Johnson of inserting an anti-Negro covenant in the deed for property he sold in 1945 to a former mayor of Austin and said this exposed Johnson's current stand for equal rights as hypocrisy.

There was no immediate comment from Johnson.

The Miller charge, delivered in dramatic fashion before a cheering crowd of about 4,200 at the Texas Republican State Convention, was billed by his aides as a bombshell.

"I have in my hand," Miller began, as he brandished certified copies of deeds that he said verified his accusations. Extra copies were distributed to reporters.

Miller said that Johnson and

Barry Continues Hunt for Votes In Deep South

By WALTER R. MEARS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater pressed his hunt for Republican votes in the Deep South today, challenging President Johnson to tell the American people where he stands on Communist Cuba.

The Republican presidential nominee raised that point in a speech prepared for delivery here, in a state with a built-in political question mark.

The question: How will Tennesseeans react to the Arizona senator who has called for the sale of big portions of the giant Tennessee Valley Authority.

Goldwater has said TVA steam-operated power plants, plus the authority's fertilizer program, should be sold to

Five-Point Peace Plan Proposed By Cyprus Chief

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — President Makarios has proposed a five-point peace plan for Cyprus, including the removal of all armed posts manned by warring Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

A Turkish Cypriot spokesman declined comment on the plan. He showed skepticism over a promise by Makarios to immediately lift his economic blockade against besieged Turkish Cypriot Argas.

The government would:

1. End the economic blockade at once and allow supplies to come in from Turkey "through normal channels."

2. Remove all Greek Cypriot armed posts provided the Turkish Cypriots do the same.

3. Provide financial aid for

Frost Reported In Widespread Areas of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frost was widespread today from the northern Great Lakes to New England.

The unseasonable cold dropped temperature readings to 30 at Pellston and Alpena, Mich. Lebanon, N.H., also reported a reading of 30 degrees.

Across the nation's midsection, thundershowers and scattered rain occurred from Minnesota to Texas. Heaviest amounts fell mostly in the central Plains, which received up to a half inch during a six-hour period.

There were thundershowers and occasional rain through the great Plains and the Mississippi Valley.

The weather continued cool in the Northeast but was somewhat warmer in most sections from the central Rockies to the Great Lakes.

In southern Texas and parts of California temperature readings continued in the 80s.

Olin Foundation Chief Tells of Future Challenge

The president of the Olin Foundation, in announcing a $2,-250,000 grant to Colorado College, Tuesday warned the student body of the problems they will face in the next 20 years.

Dr. Charles L. Horn of Minneapolis, Minn., concluded his address at the college's annual fall convocation by making the formal announcement of the foundation's grant, the largest gift ever granted to the 90-year-old independent college.

It was his third address at Colorado College, the first being in 1960 when he announced a $1,520,000 grant for the Olin Hall of Science.

The Olin Foundation grant is above and beyond the college's $5,500,000 Ford Foundation matching campaign, now in its closing stages.

This year, the scholar and industrialist who holds an honorary doctor of science degree from Colorado College, spoke to a capacity audience of students and faculty, stressing five rapidly growing dilemmas that will challenge the students of today.

First, he pointed out the need for new schools so that science and technology can advance to prevent the threatening food shortage. "We must feed the world; we must give food and fertilizer" to provide better production of crops and grasses, he said.

Secondly, he touched upon the depletion of wild life. An ardent conservationist, Dr. Horn is noted for his efforts in conserving the country's natural resources. A recipient of a citation from the U.S. Department of Agriculture for his work in conservation education, Dr. Horn has served as chairman of the Minnesota Conservation Commission and has written several conservation pamphlets.

He also has studied the threatening water shortage. This was his third challenge to the students. He urged the young people to become aware

Strom Thurmond To Bolt Demos; Boosts Barry

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina will bolt the Democratic party tonight and become a Republican supporting Sen. Barry Goldwater for president, according to several sources.

Thurmond, who carried South Carolina, Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi in the 1948 presidential election as the States Rights party candidate, is expected to announce his decision in a television speech from Columbia at 6:15 p.m. EST.

Advertisements in several newspapers in South Carolina and North Carolina today said Thurmond's appearance on a two-state television hookup "will be of vital concern to every thinking citizen."

"Strom Thurmond voices his convictions," the ads said. "Watch history being made!"

Small print at the bottom of the ads said they were paid for by the South Carolina Republican party.

The Columbia Broadcasting System says Thurmond, 61, has decided to become a Republican because he believes "there should be a realignment in American politics — with all liberals in one party and all the conservatives in the other."

Several sources in South Carolina also say Thurmond will bolt the Democrats.

The senator himself, asked by a Washington reporter for comment, said: "I will neither

Two Negroes Win Tuskegee Vote Against Whites

By TEX THOMAS

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — The first two Negroes elected to public office against white opponents in Alabama in almost a century say they will represent all of the people regardless of race.

A clergyman, the Rev. K. L. Buford, and a college professor, Dr. Stanley Hugh Smith, made that promise after winning seats on the Tuskegee City Council in Tuesday's runoff election.

The heavy Negro vote in this racially conscious city where Negroes outnumber white residents both in population and in registered voters also brought the defeat of Mayor Howard Rutherford, who sought a second four-year term.

Rutherford lost to another white candidate, Charles M. Keever, a used car dealer who received the backing of most Negro voters. Keever got 943 votes, Rutherford 732.

Buford was a leading figure in the voter registration drive which, with the help of a federal court order, gave Negroes a voting majority both in Tuskegee and throughout Macon County. He won over incumbent Dr. Riley Lumpkin, 918 votes to 732.

Smith unseated Councilman James Brawell, 918 to 704.

Trailer Plant Destroyed by Paint Blaze

A fire of undetermined origin almost completely destroyed the interior of the Pace Manufacturing Co. early Tuesday afternoon.

The call came in to the North Suburban Fire Department at 12:46 p.m. and the 25 firemen, led by Chief W. M. McGraw, had the blaze under control within 25 minutes.

The department sent two pumpers to the scene and the Air Force Academy Fire Department sent a tanker to aid in the operation.

The fire started in a small paint tank and spread to several compressed gas tanks, containers of acetylene and oxygen, and several 55-gallon drums of paint and paint thinner, causing them to explode.

The company, located at 3920 N. Weber St., manufactures two-wheel trailers for a rental firm.

Firemen were back in quarters by 3:30 p.m. following an extensive mopping-up process.

A spokesman at NSFD said this morning that no estimate had been made of the damages.

Nebraska Candidate Quits Race; Urges Against Voting

OMAHA (AP)—E. Tom Gumbert, employment agency owner and nominee for the State Legislature in the Ninth District withdrew from the race Tuesday and recommended that voters cast no ballots for this office.

"There should be more free enterprise and less government," he said.

"After considerable study about the position I was seeking, I believe that this office should not exist and I am withdrawing," Gumbert said. "Further, I recommend to the voters of this district that they refrain from voting in the hope that no one will hold this office."

Gumbert beat out five other candidates for one of the two nominations in the Ninth District. The other went to the incumbent, veteran State Sen. Sam Klaver, who now is unopposed.

However, Douglas County Election Commissioner Jerry Hassett said the deadline for withdrawing from the race was Aug. 24 and Gumbert's name must appear on the ballot.

All-Out Search Launched for Missing Plane

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — Clearing skies brought an all-out search today for a missing plane with three persons aboard.

Snow showers prevented an aerial search in the mountains Tuesday, and the Civil Air Patrol shifted its operations to the Canon City airport.

A ground search moved eastward to the mountains from Gunnison, where the plane was last reported Monday. At that time, weather conditions were favorable.

However, low - hanging clouds and light snow prevented an aerial search in the mountains Tuesday. Search pilots flew across the eastern Colorado plains to Kansas without success.

The missing plane was flying from Idaho Falls, Idaho, to Liberal, Kan., and then to Miami, Okla.

The pilot, Dale H. Homer, 41, a World War II pilot reported last to the Grand Junction, Colo., control tower. His wife, 38, and her father, J. A. Herndon of Miami, had stopped at Provo, Utah, earlier Monday to visit Mrs. Homer's niece, Mrs. Tom Hudspeth, wife of the Brigham Young University football coach.

In Kansas, bad weather also limited CAP search planes as well as ground parties.

Major Leo Wells, commander of Group Five, has taken a radio relay outfit part way up Pikes Peak, to provide a radio relay station to aid in the search.

First Lt. Don Peck of Fort Carson is mission coordinator, and 1st Lt. Henry Hogart is communications officer for the search by the local CAP unit.

UAW Sets Strike Deadline for Ford Motor Co.

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union today set a strike deadline of 10 a.m. (EST) Friday at the Ford Motor Co. in new contract bargaining.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther announced the deadline just before entering the bargaining room.

"We are prepared to join with the company in good faith to resolve the questions that are still unsettled," Reuther said.

Although Ford has offered the union virtually the same economic package the UAW accepted from Chrysler last week, Reuther said there still were questions to be settled on such matters as wage inequities, relief time for assembly - line workers, and production standard.

The UAW leader said he had hoped to avoid the necessity of setting a strike deadline but now that one was necessary he was prepared to spend as many hours as neded at the bargaining table to reach an agreement.

Meanwhile, a new strike threat loomed on the Chrysler scene.

Uneasy Railroad Peace Faces New Threat of Strike

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — New strike talk threatened today to break the nation's uneasy railroad labor peace that followed last April's extraordinary White House settlement.

A different set of unions are involved this time, but the basic issue is the same — demands for job protection in an industry with drastically declining employment.

The 150,000 members of six AFL-CIO railroad shop unions reportedly are ready to walk out Monday, although a management spokesman said no formal strike notices had been served.

"Unless there's some agreement, they don't expect to be at work Monday," said Edward J. Carlough, spokesman for one of the unions.

"We should be given 72 hours notice," commented chief railroad negotiator J. E. Wolfe in Boston. "I have not been told that they have set a strike date."

Other railroad sources said there was no question that a strike by shopmen who maintain railroad equipment would halt most of the nation's trains, precipitating a national emergency like the one that caused President Johnson to step in last spring.

Carlough, organization director of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association, said

Castro, Exiles Blame Each Other For Ship Attack

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Fidel Castro's government and Cuban exiles are blaming each other for the machine-gunning of the Spanish freighter Sierra Aranzazu.

Three crewmen were killed and seven injured when two unidentified speedobats attacked the 1,600-ton ship Sunday night and set it afire off the eastern tip of Cuba.

A survivor said the boats swooped in moments after a speedboat approached the ship, turned a spotlight on its name, and then roared away.

Havana radio said "there is reason to believe" that "pirates" financed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency made the attack.

Two Cuban exile leaders — Manuel Artime and Manolo Ray — denied their men were in-

English 'Witch' Says She Wants to Settle in U.S.

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP) — The lament of the disappointed swain that his date was a witch takes on real meaning after an evening with Sybil Leek.

She says that even if she stopped wearing purple stockings and a black cape that flutters like a bat's wings she'd still be a witch.

Mrs. Leek, about 40, says she's a good witch out of an English forest near moors where the fog hangs low and the hounds bay at night.

Mrs. Leek is in Boston preparing to settle here permanently, preferably in suburban Concord where opening shots of the American Revolution were fired in 1776.

She says she is not concerned that within a few miles — in Salem, Mass. — 19 persons were hanged and one was pressed to death in the 1690s in the belief they were witches.

"Those people in Salem," she says, "were not witches as we know them today. They were wrongfully executed as being bewitched. Actually, they were serving as whipping boys."

Mrs. Leek says, "I'm a good witch. Certainly, I studied black magic, which is vicious and vile, but I have no desire to conjure harm. I have no capability for harm. I expel evil spirits."

Mrs. Leek describes her witchcraft as a religion and the men and women who practice it as "persons endowed with occult powers who can work in another dimension."

For many years Mrs. Leek ran an antique shop and was a practicing witch in a community known as the New Forest, about 100 miles southwest of London — "until my landlord cast me out."

Now she lives in Wooten, near New Milton, until she can move her husband and two sons, aged 13 and 14, to America.

Mrs. Leek is scheduled for a Boston radio program tonight to answer listeners' questions after an interview by, the station's

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D..Ph.D.

Jackie is typical of American coeds who absorb a false notion about life from cloistered professors who aren't out on the real "firing line." Editors, doctors, salesmen and advertising managers, plus you successful mothers, often are much better psychologists than the typical professor of psychology, despite his Ph.D.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-474: Jackie Q., aged 21, is a recent Coed college graduate.

Apparently she has absorbed the superficial attitude of many of the younger psychology professors, for note her remakrs to her editor:

"How this Dr. George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D., ever became a syndicated writer is beyond me!

"He is extremely out of touc with reality and makes very misleading statements.

"For example, he recently said: 'You readers may also be good psychologists even though many of you have never had a single year of college, for you can acquire a wealth of practical information about human relations just by watching people.'

"Mr. Editor, although I have a college degree in psychology. I could never presume to call myself a psychologist until I have earned an advanced degree.

"The field is far too complex to allow the man on the street to be a psychologist by observation!"

This girl reflects the naive attitude of all too many cloistered professors who cannot practice what they teach.

In the first place, observation is the basic means by which all scientific data are derived.

Newspaper editors, doctors, advertising men, salesmen and you smart mothers may not have majored in college psychology at all.

Yet you are generally shrewd Applied Psychologists who can often run circles around the "ivory towers" professors of psychology.

For most of them can't even make a speech that would merit a $50 fee, yet many of you experienced businessmen can hold an audience spellbound!

Dale Carnegie graduates can usually far surpass the average professor of psychology at public speaking, yet the typical college psychology prof sneers at the Dale Carnegie courses because Dale lacked a Ph.D.

This coed says I am out of touch with reality, yet I receive 1,000 letters daily from you fellow Americans who outline your current crucial problems in human relations.

Does any of Jackie's profs have 1,000 contacts daily with the American public?

And how many of her profs could equal most of you life insurance agents or auto salesmen at influencing people?

How many profs could handle the varied psychological duties of any modern newspaper editor, whether he be running a daily or a weekly paper?

The usual psychology professor tries to pat himself on the back by using polysyllables and confusing his students with insipid circumlocutions.

The real professors of psychology are those who are teaching Applied Psychology or similar practical courses, for they can practice what they teach.

But the bulk of them just mouth an esoteric jargon to prevent laymen from understanding what they say. (Actually, even the profs themselves seldom know what they are talking about or they'd be able to put it across simply and effectively).

Jesus thus indicted the typical psychology profs when he said, "They strain at gnats and swallow camels."

They piddle over minutiae yet miss the basic truths of human behavior.

U.S. Ambassador Delays Steps In Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Presentation of credentials by the new U.S. ambassador to Cambodia was delayed Monday because of difficulties in relations between Cambodia and the United States.

Ambassador Randolph Kidder was to have presented his credentials to Chief of State Norodom Sihanouk.

No reason for the delay was given immediately, but later National Assembly President Hongsath told Parliament: "Cambodian-U.S. relations are contrary to what we have always hoped."

He gave these reasons:

"Armed aggression by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces at Kohrokar and Kamsamnar (Cambodia) on Sept. 5.

"U.S. and South Vietnamese charges that Cambodia was the aggressor and was working with the Viet Cong.

"Reinforcement of U.S. and South Vietnamese posts near the Cambodian border.

"A protest by U.S. Charge d'-Affaires Herbert Spivack against a declaration by Prince Sihanouk Sept. 9 when, while speaking of aggression by U.S. and Vietnamese troops, he said, 'We are saddened to see the country of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson do this.'

"An insult against us by (Adlai) Stevenson who said he doubted the independence of Cambodia."

Kidder's nomination was confirmed by the U.S. Senate on July 8.

Halt to Atomic Underground Tests Proposed

GENEVA (AP) — Eight countries at the 17-nation disarmament talks appealed to the atomic powers today to halt underground nuclear testing.

"The delegations of the non-aligned states appreciate the fact that there are differences among the nuclear powers on the question of identification and need for verification of underground tests," a joint memorandum presented by the neutralist bloc said.

But it said the group does not consider these obstacles insurmountable. It urged the nuclear powers "to take all immediate steps toward an agreement to ban all nuclear weapon tests. Such steps could be facilitated by the exchange of scientific and other information between the nuclear powers or by the improvement of detection and identification techniques."

The memorandum was submitted by Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic.

There were enough draft rejects, due to preventable physical reasons, from 1948 to 1961 to man 18 infantry divisions.

Coolidge Declared He Minded Own Business

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — "Perhaps one of the most important accomplishments of my administration has been minding my own business."

The words are those of President Calvin Coolidge to a news conference March 1, 1929.

The University of Massachusetts Press has just published "The Talkative President: The Off-the-Record Press Conferences of Calvin Coolidge," based on records found at the Forbes Library, Northampton, Mass., Coolidge's home town.

The editors, Dr. Howard H. Quint, head of the University of Massachusetts history department, and Prof. Robert H. Ferrell of Indiana University, write:

"We believe the reader of this novel material will obtain a fresh view of Coolidge . . . as a shrewd politician who demonstrated a surprisingly wide comprehension of public issues."

In Coolidge's day the president's remarks to reporters were never quoted. What he had to say always was attributed to a "White House spokesman."

The transcripts were sent from the White House to the Forbes Library in March 1929 when Coolidge moved out of the executive mansion and Herbert Hoover became president.

Forbes Librarian Lawrence E. Wikander turned up a wooden box addressed to the library. It held the verbatim transcripts of all the Coolidge press conferences.

The authors of "The Talkative President" estimate the volume published this week contains approximately one-sixth of the press conference material from August 1923 until March 1929.

Although some of the president's comments were uttered 40 years ago, they could have been made today.

At a press conference July 18, 1924, Coolidge said:

"I don't think I can give any definition of the words 'reactionary' and 'progressive' that would be helpful. That reminds me a little of the old definition of 'orthodoxy' and 'heterodoxy.' I think they used to say that 'orthodoxy' was 'my doxy' and 'heterodoxy' was 'your doxy.'

"Sometimes the person is not well thought of and he is labeled a reactionary. Sometimes if he is well thought of he is called a progressive. As a matter of fact all the political parties are progressive."

The dry wit of Coolidge was ever present, but it sometimes became lost to the casual listener. Hunting brought forth these words on Sep. 14, 1928:

"I think the idea that I might go hunting in Kentucky arose from the fact that the bird dog hat was given me in Superior I had Colenel Starling send it down to a friend o fhis in Kentucky, who is a very fine trainer of dogs. I presume that all the hunting I will do in Kentuck will be done by proxy through this dog."

On Dec. 11, 1928, Coolidge "Mr. Bok is giving the bird sanctuary as a tract of land at his place, he is dedicating it as a bird sanctuary and putting up these bells to interest the birds in music."

Regarding news, Coolidge said after Congress adjourned in May 1, 1925, "My own thought about the situation at the present time is that I would like it if the country could think as little as possible about the government and give their time and attention more undividedly about the conduct of the private business of our country."

Not too far off was the Great Depression — the crash of Wall Street — but Coolidge said at his Jan. 8, 1929 press conference:

"I haven't a great amount of information concerning the business situation, but I was advised this morning by the Department of Commerce that the last six months, according to their reports, was better than the first six months of the year 1928 and was up to the standard of 1927. So far as they can determine present conditions in business throughout the country are good and the prospect for the immediate future seems to be good as usual."

Jewish Chaplain Arrives in Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —The first Jewish chaplain assigned to U.S. armed forces in South Viet Nam has arrived in Saigon.

He is Lt. Col. Meir Engel, who was born in Israel.

COUNCIL MESSAGE

NEW YORK (UPI)—A sound international strategy for economic and social development, designed to narrow the gap between "the peasant wading the rice paddy and the astronaut in orbit," is urged by the National Council of Churches in a message for World Order Sunday, Oct. 18.

The theme of this year's observance, "A World Economy Under God," emphasizes the need for building up deprived areas, especially in 60 new nations born since 1945, said the Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Maxwell, executive director of the National Council's Department of International Affairs.

CAPITOL STUFF

By MICHAEL O'NEIL

WASHINGTON — One of the trends which has been largely overlooked in the search for clues to voting patterns is what has been tagged as the "black backlash," or the shift of sentiment among Negro Republicans.

The polls now indicate that some 750,000 to a million Negroes who voted for Richard Nixon in 1960 are now swinging into the Democratic camp. If the trend continues, this will mean a net loss of two million votes for Sen. Barry Goldwater.

This is another reason why President Johnson and his campaign strategists are no longer very worried about the so-called white backlash. It is simply outweighed by the black backlash and what Johnson calls the frontlash or the shift of white Republicans to the Democratic column.

Surprising as it may seem, the Democrats have not held a complete monopoly on Negro votes. Negro Republicans have been estimated at between 1.5 million and two million, and they played a significant, if unpublicized, role in the 1960 Presidential election.

In the First District of Illinois, for example, some 22,000 Negroes bolted the leadership of their own Rep. William Dawson (D) to back Richard M. Nixon. If they had sided with John F. Kennedy, the President would have carried the state by more than 50,000 votes rather than less than 9,000.

In Baltimore, roughly half the voters who backed Nixon were Negro. The story was about the same in Atlanta. There have been strong Negro Republican contingents in such states as Florida, Tennessee and Georgia. Their effect has been felt in cities like Memphis and Louisville, as well as in Harlem and the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

CIVIL RIGHTS COSTING GOLDWATER VOTES

Samplings of various pollsters now show that these Negroes are moving in large numbers into the Johnson camp because of Goldwater's vote against the civil rights bill. And in some areas the shift is even equal to the white backlash movement.

At present the estimate is that about 8 to 10 per cent of the traditional Democrats in the nation are leaning to Goldwater because of the civil rights issue. In the North, the figure is running about 4 per cent, and in the South, of course, much higher.

Some critics suggest that the polls may be off base because of the difficulty of measuring the backlash. The argument is that many white voters, ashamed to reveal their anti-Negro sentiments to pollsters, will show them in the privacy of the voting booth. The experts insist, however, that a series of special test indicate that the margin of error is probably no more than a few percentage points one way or the other.

On the other side of the scales is what Johnson calls the frontlash, or the shift of Republicans away from the GOP nominee. At present, the polls show that this shift amounts to about 20 to 25 per cent at least. A Pennsylvania poll reported to Johnson in Harrisburg last night that 37 per cent of the state's Republicans favor the President over Goldwater.

POLLS GIVE JOHNSON 60-40 LEAD NATIONALLY

The result of these currents and cross-currents is that Johnson is now being credited with a 60-40 lead nationally. Although the experts agree that significant shifts may occur between now and Election Day, they also note that this lead, historically, has proved to be unbeatable. And they don't consider the backlash likely to upset their calculations.

The Republican National Convention in July jarred Democratic confidence. Although Goldwater had been denounced by the moderate wing of the GOP, Democratic leaders regarded him as the toughest opponent the Republicans could put up. They were particularly worried about his ability to cash in on the white backlash.

Johnson decided to move quickly to counter the sag in party morale. Some of his top advisers warned that he might encourage a dangerous complacency, but Johnson reportedly insisted he had to establish a win psychology at the outset to keep money and grassroots support rolling in his direction. This is the real reason why he suddenly began delivering pep talks about how all the polls showed him triumphantly ahead of Goldwater.

The result is that the Democrats seem to be completely recovered from their GOP convention jitters. They are as confident as a man on pep pills. There seems to be no disposition whatever to doubt that the polls are correct.

PROS REGARD POLLS AS SURPRISINGLY ACCURATE

The pros in politics take the polls seriously. They regard them as surprisingly accurate. Properly interpreted as a reflection of opinion only at a given moment in time, the surveys have seldom missed in recent years.

Even individual state samples are considered important clues to what may happen in other areas. The fact that a GOP-sponsored poll shows Johnson leading by about 65-35 in Pennsylvania prompts politicians to speculate that he may also be leading in a comparable industrial state like Ohio. Ohio has generally been regarded as tipped toward Goldwater.

Illinois also has been considered a tossup. The mess in Cook County and other issues are supposed to be working against the Democrats. But the experts say these factors may not be too important if there is a strong tide for Johnson in similar states.

The problem this poses for Johnson is trying to keep the steam up in the Democratic campaign boiler despite the temptation to be overconfident. Goldwater faces an even more formidable problem — how to overcome a substantial lead in a very short time.

Reporter Finds Novelist Can Talk Brilliantly

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK — We were invited some time ago to set aside an afternoon for tea with Richard Condon. As it is part of our creed to be polite, we declined graciously by explaining that we expected to have both a previous appointmnt and a sick headache on the afternoon in question.

It is also part of ur creed not to talk to people who have just written novels.

Mr. Condon has written several novels, among them "The Manchurian Candidate." But while we enjoyed reading the book, we certainly did not want to meet the man who wrote it.

We have found from hard experience that a novelist under glass is as dry a dish as an actor served up the same way.

Besides, this sort of thing is very hard on the nerves. After you say you have read his book and he says thank you, there is usally nothing left to talk to a novelist about. Except maybe, whether he uses all his fingers when he types.

But the lady who invited us to tea on behalf of the publishers said that it wasn't even necessary to talk bout Mr. Condon's new book because Mr. Condon himself was such an interesting person and capable of speaking at length on so many varied subjects.

Among them, she said, were the motion picture industry, the recent history of Germany, U.S. foreign policy, the expatriate life, current trends in American ficton and the dietary laws of all nations.

But it is a terrible adventure to sit for 90 minutes with a fellow who is generating interesting opinions by the carload for your benefit. And on every topic under the sun, it seemed, except the one closest to his heart—his new novel.

It left us feeling so bad that we apologized all around and went out to our bookstore to order two copies of Mr. Condon's new novel, whatever it is.

It is plain cruel, we think, to force a man to have intelligent opinions simply because he has written a book, whereas otherwise in the entertainment, you would not punish a candidate for public office or a high school principal that way.

But if a man is in show business, it seems that he has to pay for it by having something to say, even if it is only what he eats for breakfast or how he feels about the atomic bomb.

If the fellow has anything to say, he has said it in his last novel or will say it in his next. That is why he is a novelst.

Asking him for more is like trying to get the recipe for chutney from Sam Jaffe because he once played Gunga Din in the movies. There are some kinds of people who are not supposed to be pulled out into real life.

volved. Friends of Artime in Panama said his organization believes the raid was carried out by Castro agents to discredit the exile group.

Other exile sources had said earlier that Artime's organization made the attack.

In Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, there was speculation among government circles that Castro gunboats may have fired on the Spanish ship. These circles suggested that Castro might want to create an incident he could exploit politically.

An anonymous telephone caller in Miami, Fla., said the attack was the work of a secret organization and added: "This is the beginning of attacks on any ship that trades with Cuba."

The Aranzazu was bringing textiles, toys, cork and garlic from Spain to Havana.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said: "Whatever the nationality of the attackers, we cannot but deplore this attack on a merchant vessel on the high seas."

The Spanish ambassador in Washington, Marquis de Merry Del Val, asked to see Secretary of State Dean Rusk in connection with the incident. An embassy official said the attack occured in an area "very well controlled by U.S. forces and we are much surprised and naturally concerned about it."

The 17 survivors from the Sierra Aranzazu were flown to San Juan Tuesday. They told newsmen the attacking boats fired three machine-gun bursts.

"It was too dark to see the boats approach," said Santiago Ibanez of Bilbao, Spain. "They fired machine guns at us and the ship caught fire.

"The attack lasted 5 to 10 minutes. We abandoned ship immediatey for fear of explosion. The two attacking boats approached us and remained nearby for awhile. The captain and two officers wounded by the machine-gun fire died in the launch."

Miller Charges Discrimination By Johnson

his wife acquired in 1938 a tract of land in Austin and that the deed contained no restrictive covenant.

Yet, he continued, when the Johnsons sold seven lots in 1945 to Austin's late mayor, Tom Miller, also a Democrat, an anti-Negro clause was written into the deed that conveyed the property.

He quoted this section from the 1945 deed:

"No part of the above described premises shall ever be conveyed or in any way transferred, demised, leased or rented to any person or persons of African descent; provided that this clause shall not prevent the employment of such persons as domestic servants and providing customary accomodations for them."

Miller declared, "I want to show the hypocrisy of Lyndon Johnson on this issue.

The Republican delegates and convention spectators cheered and hooted.

In the prepared text distributed in advance to newsmen, Miller said that Johnson inserted the clause either because he did not want Negro neighbors "or because he was afraid of lowering his property values." He also said that, while Johnson now presented himself as "the epitome of racial tolerance," the land sale showed him to be guilty of "hypocrisy at its worst."

Miller omitted this language in paraphrasing his text, but his press secretary said the nominee always stood by his prepared remarks.

Miller went from Austin to Denver, where he answered questions at a dinner of the Colorado chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, a fraternity of professional journalists.

He then addressed a dinner of the Colorado Federation of Republican Women and used the occasion to renew his criticism of the affiliation of Johnson's running Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, with the Americans for Democratic Action.

One night this month Mrs. Leek was accompanied to the carriage house of an old castle in suburban Brookline, built by Larz Anderson, ambassador to Japan under President William Howard Taft.

When Anderson died at the age of 71 in 1937, the carriage house was turned into a museum of old cars. Among them are the armored cars used by Adolf Hitler and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Well, well," said Mrs. Leek, "there should be enough good spirits in here to make this an interesting evening," as the party moved to the hayloft.

Upstairs, Mrs. Leek said she would summon some friendly spirits to lift a heavy table off the floor while 13 persons sat around it. There followed 42 minutes of deep concentration.

Disregarding the likes of Roosevelt and Hitler, Mrs. Leek said, "We seem to be dealing with weak spirits. Let's try a lighter table with fewer people around it."

But it wasn't a good night for witches or spirits. Nothing happened.

Goldwater's other stops today on the second of a four-day Southern campaign swing: Memphis and River Bluff, Tenn., Macon, Ga., and Montgomery, Ala.

Goldwater tied into Johnson on the Cuba question by accusing him of "blue-pencil attempts to delete political mistakes" from a speech he delivered Tuesday to the International Association of Machinists in Miami.

Goldwater said Johnson asked reporters to delete two "extremely damaging or at least dubious statements in regard to Communist Cuba" from the text of his Miami speech.

One, he said, "was that Castro has failed to spread communism in this hemisphere. That is incredible."

He said the other statement was that "Castro's Communist dictatorship in Cuba poses no threat to the United States."

After Johnson's prepared text was distributed to newsmen, aides asked that the portion dealing with Cuba be deleted. They said the remarks were premature.

In that section, Johnson said Castro is isolated and his appeal to the rest of Latin America is weaker now than at any time since he took power in 1959. The deleted remarks also said the Cuban regime is no major threat to the security of this country.

"There are all too many questions piling up at the door of the White House," Goldwater said. "Questions about Viet Nam, questions about Bobby Baker, questions about private gains from public office, questions about the political use of defense contracts, and now questions about the President's policy and posture regarding Cuba.

"The questions should be answered," Goldwater said. "The American people deserve the truth before they cast their votes in November."

Time and again as he opened his Southern campaign, Goldwater declared that modern Democrats have forgotten the constitutional doctrines of Thomas Jefferson.

resettlement and protection of Turkish Cypriots who have been forced to abandon their homes.

4. Grant a general amnesty "so that any Turkish rebel who may be under cirminal charges for offenses committed during the rebellion may be relieved of any fear of arrest and punishment."

5. Accept U.N. suggestions for peace "provided such measures do not affect a political solution of the problem."

U.N. troops convoyed nine tons of food donated by Makarios to the Turkish Cypriot village of Kokkina Tuesday, but the villagers who had been described as starving refused it.

"We are Turks and we will die before we accept food from Makarios, the man who wants to kill us," a guerrilla leader told the convoy leader.

"Take back the food! Makarios the murderer!" chanted the villagers.

Turkey announced that emergency rations for Kokkina will arrive at the eastern Cyprus port of Famagusta Thursday and will be taken by truck to the village under U.N. protection.

Dipolmats at the United Nations expected Thant to get authority to extend the six-month-old, 6,160-man peace force. But some believed he would have trouble collecting enough money to keep it going.

Thant disclosed last week that he had not been able to collect all the $12,730,000 in voluntary contributions needed to finance the first six months.

Two Negroes Win Tuskegee Vote Against Whites

National Guard armory where the city's six voting machines were set up, promised to "try to do a good job in representing the total community."

Smith, 36-year-old head of the Department of Sociology at Tuskegee Institute, expressed gratitude that "both races thought we would be able to do a competent job in representing the community."

The city governing body will retain a white majority. Three white council members were elected in the first city election Aug. 11. Buford and Smith fell short of a majority and were forced into Tuesday's runoff.

In the mayor's race, Rutherford led a field of four white candidates last month when the Negro vote was divided. Keever overcame the lead in the runoff.

Negroes outnumber white residents in Tuskegee about 4-1, but only in recent months have they gained a voting majority. The door was opened by a stern no-discrimination order from a federal court which forced the voter registration board to accept Negro applicants.

In the county, the picture is the same. Four Negroes won Democratic nomination for county office in the primary election last May 5.

Buford's election climaxed a long and often frustrating battle to get Negroes registered. A native of Pulaski, Va., he is vice president of the pro-integration Tuskegee Civil Association and pastor of the Butler Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Zion church in Tuskegee.

Smith, who was born at Salisbury, N.C., is a graduate of Fisk University, where he received bachelor's and master's degrees. His doctorate came from Washington State University.

of the growing shortage and not to ignore the warning signals already evident.

The fourth problem he cited was the growing population, telling the students that the world's population is increasing by 60 million each year. Along with the population boom is the demand it makes on schools from elementary to college levels, he said. But, he happily reported, "people of the United States have gone all out for education.

"There is no system for becoming successful in life," he told the students, but there is one system they can count on. 'If you use knowledge, you'll be all right."

Following Dr. Horn to the podium was James O. Wynn, vice president of the Olin Foundation. He asked the students not to look at the grant as a gift, but as a shift of responsibility. "We came back(to Colorado College) because we have had stimulated the hope that you will accept the responsibility for the use of knowledge and the stimulation of thought." Wynn, a New York corporation lawyer, also holds an honorary degree from Colorado College, having received it along with Dr. Horn at the dedication of the Olin Hall of Science in September of 1962.

New Secret Weapon Can Destroy All Life on Earth

would destroy life without damaging structures in the target area, or some major advance in chemical or germ warfare.

The Japanese said Khrushchev did not say specifically that the new Soviet weapon is nuclear, but they understood him to mean that. They said after telling them of it, he discussed the need to use nuclear energy for peaceful purposes.

The Japanese said Khrushchev accused Mao of "spreading warlike sentiments" and that Mao's territorial claims "are not the words of a Communist."

"Our state frontiers," Khrushchev added, "are sacred and we have all the means to rebuff any attempts to violate these frontiers."

He said Mao's claims are similar to Hitler's demands for living space for Nazi Germany.

Two weeks ago, the Russians accused China of wanting about 500,000 square miles of Soviet territory. The accusation was made after Mao had told a delegation of Japanese Socialists that the Soviet Union had too much territory which rightfully belonged to others. Mao said the Russians should give back to the Japanese the Kurile Islands, which the Soviet Union has held since World War II.

Khrushchev told the Japanese the Kuriles would be returned only if the United States gives up Okinawa, also captured from Japan during World War II.

deny nor confirm any speculation about my statement until I present it to the people of South Carolina on television tomorrow evening."

The South Carolina Republican chairman, J. Drake Edens, had no comment on the reports. Industrialist Roger Milliken of Sartanburg, another GOP leader, said he knew nothing about them.

Thurmond, once governor of South Carolina, ran for the Senate in 1950, but lost to Sen. Olin D. Johnson, a Democrat. In 1954, he ran as an independent against Democratic nominee Edgar A. Brown in the general election and was elected to the Senate by a write-in vote.

Like all the states of the old Confederacy, South Carolina traditionally has been Democratic. It has rejected the party's presidential nominee only twice since the Civil War — in 1948, when Thurmond led the States' Rights revolt against Democrat Harry S. Truman, and in 1952, when Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower defeated Adlai E. Stevenson. Even then South Carolina rejected the Republican presidential electors in favor of an independent slate pledged to Eisenhower.

Thurmond said he voted for Eisenhower in 1952. He won't say how he voted in 1960, when Democrat John F. Kennedy carried the state.

Wyoming Passer Keeps Rams Working Hard

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—The specter of Tom Wilkinson, Wyoming's passing quarterback, kept the Colorado State University football team hustling Tuesday.

The Rams, working out in a heavy rain, concentrated on offensive and defensive formations against Wyoming plays. Pass defense was stressed.

Coach Mike Lude said he is worried most about Wilkinson and the Cowboys' hard-driving backs who face CSU in the season opener at Laramie Saturday.

CSU hasn't beaten Wyoming in eight years.

Two game captains were named—Ron Brocavich, senior quarterback from Freehold, N.J., and Dick Evers, transfer tackle from Delaware.

Broker Says More Homes Needed to Boost Revenue

state had more homes, "this would increase the total assessable property, thus providing more revenue with no increase in taxes."

Bodinger discussed the proposed freeport law which would eliminate inventory taxes on items brought into the state from oustid fore storag and those produced here for sale outside the state.

The freeport proposal came up in the last session of the state legislature as a portion of another bill. Bodinger urged Realetors to contact their state legislators in an effort to have the proposal introduced in the next session as a separate measure.

Bodinger said that Colorado needs more industry in order to have the people for more houses.

"Colorado is at a disadvantage because of the inventory tax. All of our neighboring states have the freeport law," he stated. He pointed out that 34 states in the nation exempt property from inventory tax.

"The Freeport law says 'Goods brought into the state for sale and use outside of the state would not be taxed.' " Bodinger quoted. He said that the Kansas freeport law states basically that interstate property in transit to other states is not taxable.

"Colorado would be losing some revenue," Bodinger said. He pointed out that if the county lost a million dollars in inventory assessments, it would lose $60,000 in income.

"But reducing the tax would create new jobs, and 200 such jobs would be enough to compensate for the loss in inventory taxes."

The broker said that a part of the proposed frequent freeport law would provide that the inventory tax be reduced by five per cent a year for five years, completely eliminating it at the end of that period.

Bodinger cited a freeport equity paragraph which would exempt from the inventory tax articles manufactured in this state for shipment elsewhere.

USAC Proposes 'Catch-Up' Rule

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The U.S. Auto Club's rules committee is proposing a change that would allow all drivers in a race to catch up with the leaders while the yellow flag is out.

The USAC board of directors will consider the recommendation and others Friday. If the yellow flag proposal is approved it will apply to the remaining races on the 1964 USAC program — the Hoosier Hundred at the Indiana State Fairgrounds Saturday, the Trenton 200 Sept. 27, the Sacramento 100 Oct. 25 and the Phoenix 200 Nov. 22.

The committee also recommended Tuesday that a minimum of two pit stops be required for each driver during the 500-mile Memorial Day race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and that fuel capacity be limited to 75 gallons.

West Is Kept Guessing About New Red Weapon

in wire service dispatches.

His use of the term "new means of destruction" prompted some experts to suggest that the reported weapon did not involve nuclear explosives.

On this ground, they tended to discount the 100-megaton bomb, which is hardly new in Khrushchev's terminology.

The neutron bomb, it was noted, likely would have a relatively short killing range, and thus would not seem to fit Khrushchev's discription of the new weapon as capable of annihilating life on earth.

As for the cobalt bomb, scientists said such a "dirty" weapon is considered dangerous to the user nation because the heavy radioactivity it would emit likely would be carried around the world on air currents and deposited on the soil of that nation.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said early this year that both the United States and the Soviet Union are trying to develop a death ray.

He did not go into detail, but the House Appropriations Committee reported in April that "a death ray type of weapon might evolve from laser research." Laser derives from "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation," a very intense light beam.

The committee voted funds to push work on such weapons of the future as death ray and chemical agents that could "render persons helpless for short periods of time without causing large numbers of fatalities."

It is no secret that the United States has been experimenting with and manufacturing various kinds of nerve gases, some of which incapacitate and others that kill.

If, as some experts think, Khrushchev was talking about a new weapon of this kind, it would appear he was referring to something lethal and not a paralyzing or incapacitating nerve gas.

But the experts pointed out that the use of such bases or chemical agents carries a danger to the user, as in the case of the cobalt bomb.

They said the user would be in danger of the chemical or germ agents wafting back on his people. Against this there is no defense.

all six shop unions had "agreed to take a united stand."

There has been no report of progress in negotiations since a presidential emergency board last month recommended certain protection for shop men who lose their jobs or are moved to lower paying jobs due to technological changes.

Sweeping changes in equipment and operations that sharply cut railroad employment have been a source of labor friction in the industry for years.

The emergency board recommended a five-year guarantee of present pay to any shop employe whose wages are reduced and five-year guarantee of 60 per cent of monthly wages for any man who loses his job.

A ban on any strike that automatically went into effect when the President appointed the emergency board expired last week.

This is similar to the situation last April when all strike-delaying measures under the Railway Labor Act had expired and Johnson asked five train operating unions to sit down voluntarily with government mediators in the White House. That dispute was settled April 22 after 13 straight days of virtually round-the-clock talks.

The six shop unions involved in the current dispute are the Sheet Metal Workers, International Brotherhood of Boiler Makers, International Association of Machinists, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

Further Vatican, Red Agreements Are Predicted

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican officials look forward to further accords between the Roman Catholic Church and Communist governments.

The historic agreement announced Tuesday between the Vatican and Hungary was seen by sources here as a virtual breaktrhough in relations between the church and Iron Curtain regimes.

Vatican authorities stressed that the agreement meant no lessening of Church opposition to communism as a philosophy. It was unmistakable evidence, however, of the Church's willingness to deal with Communist leaders to better the conditions of Catholics living in Red-ruled lands.

With the accord, both the Church and Communist world clearly arrived at a major turning point. Seldom in the past has the Catholic Church — the world's largest Christian body — and representatives of the atheistic Communist system shown such an apparent inclination to get along despite their diametrically opposed philosophies.

Pope John XXIII set the keynote for this change with his encyclical "Pacem in Terris" — Peace on Earth.

In a statement widely regarded as almost revolutionary, Pope John said that in certain cases Catholics could work with Communists for the good of the world. He said that systems changed even though their philosophies might remain the same.

The Communist world hailed Pope John's stand as a profound move toward peace.

This policy was carried forward under Pope Paul VI in the form of unpublicized contacts between the Vatican and various Communist governments on questions of importance to the Church.

The agreement with Hungary enabled the Pope to appoint five bishops and confirm a sixth for sees in Hungary long vacant because of the Budapest government's insistence on approving church appointments.

The Vatican had left the sees vacant rather than accept such terms. Apparently it finally gave way. Joseph Prantner, president of the Hungarian State Church Office, said the agreement includes the Vatican's right to appoint prelates subject to the Hungarian government's consent.

Vatican sources said they understood the agreement also granted the Hungarian church freedom to communicate with the Vatican, to train priests and members of religious orders and to provide religious instruction. Prantner said priests still would be required to take an oath of allegiance to the Hungarian regime.

It was foreseen that a next step probably would be the transfer of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty from his self-chosen exile in the U.S. Legation in Budapest to freedom in Rome.

He is the highest ranking Catholic prelate still blocked from his duties by a Communist government. Other prelates whom the Vatican considers "impeded" include Archbishop Josef Beran in Czechoslovakia.

There is no talk at the Vatican of establishing diplomatic relations between the Holy See and Communist regimes.

But it is generally accepted that other changes lie ahead, including the end of travel restrictions for priests behind the Iron Curtain, permission to fill vacant sees in Czechoslovakia, more religious tolerance in Poland and lessening of interference by Communist governments in church affairs.

Coach Mel Wright of the Chicago Cubs compiled a 2-4 record while appearing in 58 major league games between 1953 and 1961.

Congressmen's Dining Rooms Lose $240,000

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patrons of the House of Representatives' dining rooms got some bad news today.

While the taxpayers pick up the tab for an estimated operating loss of $240,000 this fiscal year, the diners will have to pay more for their food.

The cost of the No. 5 lunch, commonly known as the Blueplater, will go up from 90 cents to 1.15 next January and the customary dessert will be replaced by a tossed salad.

The price of the home-cured corned beef meal will be hiked from 95 cents to $1.25, including the standard potato salad.

$Baked ham and two vegetables will sell for $1.15 instead of $1.

"A pretty good sized hamburger" with all the trimmings will peddle for 70 cents instead of 60.

Seafood and steak platters will go up, too. the House Appropriations Committee said, but the committee had no specific figures on these.

It also disclosed that the estimated operating losses for restaurant facilities in the new Rayburn Office Building, which won't serve any meals until next January, will be $62,600 for the fiscal year ending next June 30.

That's less than half of the estimated operating loss of $177,600 for dining facilities in the House wing of the Capitol.

The committee got its information from Kermit A. Cowan, who manages House restaurants for the Capitol architect. The deficits have been going on for years. Contributing to them are such factors as full-time pay for waiters and other personnel who have to be on hand daily even when the House is in recess and wage increases recently voted by Congress.

The restaurants are used by House members, their guests, Capitol employes and newsmen.

Even with the raises, Cowan said, House-side eaters will get a better break than patrons of the Senate beaneries. The Senate restaurants are operated under direction of the Senate Rules Committee.

There will be no return to the old days when bread and rolls were served with compliments of the House. That practice was halted years ago when page boys were free-loading on bread and rolls and buying nothing.

One Revolt Chief Still Holds Out In South Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two of three top leaders of Sunday's attempt to overthrow Premier Nguyen Khanh were in government custody in Saigon today, but the situation in the populous Mekong River delta remained explosive.

Maj. Gen. Duong Van Duc was reliably reported under house arrest in Saigon and facing probably trail. Duc commands the 4th Army Corps charged with defending the whole delta and about half the population of South Viet Nam.

A second leader of the coup, the 7th Division commander, Col. Juynh Van Ton, finally was persuaded to leave his stronghold at My Thc, 40 miles south of Saigon, to return to Saigon.

Ton, a Dai Viet, withdrew his division and armor from Saigon Monday morning after his commander, Duc, capitulated to loyalist forces. Ton returned to Saigon by helicopter and presumably also will face some kind of charges. Trouble still was brewing in his command area. Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, the initial commander of the rebels, was reported still in My Tho.

Phat denounced Khanh as a traitor to the nation in a broadcast Sunday after his forces seized Saigon. Presumably he faces more severe punishmen than the others.

Most of the 7th Division area is controlled by the Communis Viet Cong, which complicate the situation still more.

Loyalist generals in Saigo appeared to be exerting mor control over government devel opments than Khanh himsel Air force Commodore Nguye Cao Ky appeared to be the ke man.

Ky, whose defiance of th rebels was a major factor in th failure of the revolt, said diss dent leaders still at large wer not strong enough to stage successful coup.

Calling for a purge of "co rupt and divisive" members the officer corps, he said fiv commanders involved in th weekend rebellion already ha been ousted and he believed 9 10 other senior officers shoul go.

Signal Officer Writes Article On DTO Center

Lt. Col. Charles L. Bachtel, deputy signal officer of the Army Air Defense Command, is the author of an article published in the current issue of the Infantry Magazine in which he outlines a "new approach" for an Army division tactical operations communications center.

The atricle, "DTOC (Division Tactical Operations Center) Communications," is based on Col. Bachtel's experiences in designing a self-contained, pre-wired communications center while he was signal officer of the 5th Infantry Division (Mech.) at Ft. Carson prior to his assignment to ARADCOM last year. It is the third article on Army division communications which Col. Bachtel has had published since last spring.

Bachtel's purpose in writing the DTOC article was to pass along to others in the Army information which may assist them in setting up semi-mobile division communications centers.

Basically, Col. Bachtel's Division Tactical Operations Center designed and constructed at Ft. Carson contained both radio and telephone facilities built into operators' tables. Such tables can be installed and removed quickly merely by connecting communications cables to the pre-wired facility, rather than by installing all of the phone and radio facilities separately.

Although Bachtel's pre-wired facilities were used in a temporary shelter, he asserts that the same principle could apply to installation in vans for greater mobility.

Major Heads Army Signal Section Unit

Maj. James D. Crumpler has been assigned as chief of the Communications Center, Signal Section, of the Army Air Defense Command.

He comes to command headquarters in Colorado Springs after being operations officer of the Strategic Army Communications Station in Vietnam, part of the Defense Communications System.

Council May Have To Choose Victor

DAPHNE, Ala. (AP) — Two contestants for City Council will have to find another way to determine the winner.

Vernon E. Andrews and Clayton Perry each polled 144 votes in Tuesday's runoff. Each had received 121 in the first primary.

It was considered likely that other council members probably would have to choose the victor.

Scientists Not Agreed About Landing on Moon

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.

HOUSTON (UPI)—The question is, will an astronaut on the moon go crunch-crunch?

Or will he silently ooze out of sight?

This, in simplest terms, is the gist of perhaps the hottest debate in U.S. space science circles today. Around this one point may pivot this nation's chances of putting men on the moon by 1970.

Before committing astronauts to a lunar landing, however, it is obviously wise to find out what they would be landing on. Aside from fanciful suggestions such as green cheese, scientists have long had some very definite ideas concerning the moon's physical make-up.

Unfortunately, science is rarely of a uniform school of thought. The two predominant theories are poles apart. One suggests that the moon's surface is hard or, at worst, rather crunchy or brittle. The other speculates that the top lunar layer is a sea of dust from 10 to 100 feet deep.

Along came the spectacular success of the Ranger-7 lunar probe in mid-summer, and for a time it seemed the debate was over. Scientists in charge of that program proclaimed the moon's cup to be running over with good landing fields.

But, often as not, a scientific accomplishment purporting to answer one question serves only to raise two more. Thus it was—and is—with Ranger-7.

The scientific camp still argues crunchy moon versus dusty moon, and each used the spectacular pictures from Ranger-7 to support its view.

Both sides have drawn the support of noted and respected scientists. Dr. Gerald P. Kuiper of the University of Arizona and Dr. Eugene M. Shoemaker of the U.S. Geological Survey contend the moon's skin is rather like that of hard snow, strong enough to support a landing spaceship.

The other view is no less well represented. Foremost is Dr. Harold Urey, Nobel Prize winner and professor at large of the University of California.

Only a-half-step behind Urey is Dr. Thomas Gold of Cornell University, a top astronomer who is perhaps better known for his controversial theories concerning the development and composition of the universe.

Ranger-7, it seems, established no winner. It is doubtful Rangers 8 through 10, scheduled for launching in 1965, will make any greater progress toward resolving the debate.

The U.S. man-to-the-moon Apollo program is proceeding, albeit cautiously, on the presumption that Kuiper and Shoemaker are closer to the truth.

But a final answer probably will be delayed until 1966, when America's rocket muscles are powerful enough to deliver and elaborate payload named surveyor to a soft landing on the moon. Television pictures from the probe should answer this question once and for all.

Two Military Leaders Visit AF Academy

Top military officers of two countries are scheduled to visit the Air Force Academy.

Lt. Gen. Philippe Henri Maurin, commander of the Strategic Air Command of the French Air Force, will visit the Academy Sept. 23. The French SAC commander is touring U. S. defense installations.

He will arrive at the Academy at approximately 10:30 a.m., meet the Superintendent, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, receive a short briefing and tour, and after watching the cadet noon formation, dine in Mitchell Hall, cadet dining hall.

The second visitor is Group Capt. Ata Rabbani, Pakistan Air Attache in Wahington, D.C.

Capt. Rabbani is scheduled to visit the Academy Friday.

Beatle-Style Hairdo Lands Him in Trouble

ATTLEBORO, Mass. (AP) — Georgie Porgie's hairdo has him in trouble with the Attleboro High School principal.

Georgie Porgie — the professional name of 17-year-old George Leonard, a senior — affects a Beatle-style hairdo. He plays piano, guitar and saxophone in a six-piece combo, and says a close haircut would ruin his musical career.

Nonetheless Principal Joseph E. Joyce has ordered the mop trimmed. Georgie has appealed to the school committee.

Says Georgie: "I feel an exception should be made in my case. My musical career is my life and my future."

Academy Staff Members Delve Into Russian

A special week-long short course in Russian enalbed members of the Air Force Academy htaff to polish their knowledge of the difficult tongue or to get their "linguistic feet wet."

The course, taught by Maj. Michael Fatiuk, assistant professor, Department of Foreign Language, had a dual purpose: first, as a refresher course for staff members with prior knowledge of Russian, and second, as an introduction to the language for those without training.

Library staff members found they needed training in Russian because of continuing problems which occur when buying and cataloging Russian books or using them in reference work.

The training program was concerned mainly with alphabet study, transliteration, and translation exercises.

A total of 22 staff members completed the course.

Television is wonderful!

It brings the world into your home. Hour after hour after hour after hour.

But wouldn't it be swell to keep the world out for an hour or two? Or maybe even for a whole evening?

Most people can't tear themselves away from their TV sets for a very simple reason

Most television sets are just too big to ignore.

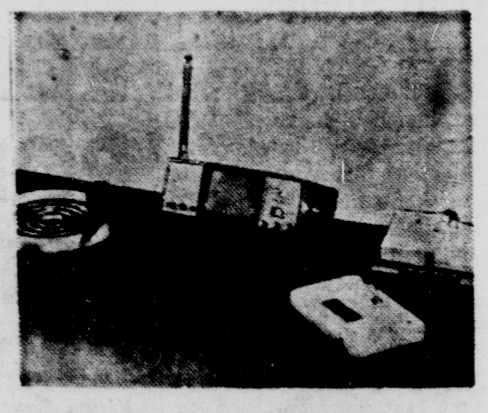
The Sony Micro-TV! you see above has a 4-inch screen.

It demands your attention when you watch it.

And its' easy to ignore when you don't

It lets you be a critic instead of a victim because it doesn't dominate the whole house.

It weighs all of 8 pounds, so when you're up to here with TV, you can put it out of sight. You can help the kids with their homework. Or read a book.



Or study Portugese. Or save yourself for the really great programs.

When something worthwhile does come on, the Sony really shines.

The picture is extraordinary better than anything you've seen. It's almost impossible to make it flip or flop.

There are no tubes to blow; there are no tubes at all.

There are transistors instead, made only by us and installed by hand.

The transistors let the Sony work on batteries as well as AC, so you can see the better programs in your car, on your boat or even in the middle of nowhere.

RACIAL ISSUE CONCERNS POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Edler G. Hawkins, first Negro to be elected to the high est office of a predominantly-white American church body, recently returned to the United States after a seven-week tour of the Middle East and Europe. In Rome, he had a 20-minute private audience with Pope Paul VI.

The Rev. Hawkins is moderator of the 176th United Presbyterian General Assembly and pastor of the St. Augustine Presbyterian church here.

Pope Paul is "deeply concerned" about the resolution of America's struggle for racial justice, Dr. Hawkins said, and "on the personal level, the Pope expressed pleasure at my election, as a Negro, to the post of moderator."

Unifying Moves Seen by Rusk In Viet Nam

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk believes the United States is making some headway in persuading the divided leaders of South Viet Nam to declare a moratorium on their disputes and seek unity for the war against Communist guerrillas.

In the aftermath of Sunday's uprising in Saigon, Rusk told a news conference Monday that the U.S. government hopes the abortive rebellion against Premier Nguyen Khanh will have a stabilizing effect upon South Viet Nam.

Rusk reportedly believes that the danger of open fighting between anti-Communist elements on Sunday will now have a unifying effect in the South Vietnamese capital.

"It was important and gratifying" he said, "that these recent incidents did not lead to armed conflict and to violence among elements of the armed forces, and we hope that these incidents will have a stabilizing effect, and people, having now seen this prospect of violence which was avoided, will now recognize the importance of getting on with the thorough consultation and movement toward a stable and more permanent constitutional system."

As to what the United States is now doing about the situation, Rusk said that the differences among the leaders "are of secondary importance compared with the overriding necessity of saving the country, establishing its security, maintaining its independence."

He made it clear that U.S. diplomats in Saigon have been taking this line with all the Vietnamese leaders, urging them to work or political stability.

"And therefore we would hope," he continued, "that these lesser differences would be put on ice, that a moratorium would be declared on them, until the main job of building a secure and independent country has been accomplished.

"We have tried to make that clear. And I think that we have made some headway on that point."

In response to questions, Rusk said it is important that all elements of the population, including Buddhists and Catholics, be represented in a projected new council to be formed by the present regime to develop a new constitution for South Viet Nam.

World War I Veteran Regains His Hearing

WERRINGTON, England (AP) — For the first time in 46 years, Richard Duckett can hear.

Duckett, now 73, lost his hearing after a head wound in a World War I bombardment in France in 1918.

The other day he wakened and was startled to hear the ticking of a clock.

"At 5 o'clock in the morning," he said, "I put on a pair of boots and went out and stamped on a concrete path. It was true. I could hear my footsteps."

Duckett's doctor said the old soldier's recovery was "quite inexplicable."

Duckett reported that the sweetest of sounds are "my wife's voice, the wind in the trees and the happy laughter of the neighborhood children."

MY ANSWER

QUESTION: I want to meditate, pray and read my Bible daily, but I find it difficult to keep my mind from straying. How can I overcome this? —S. M.

ANSWER: The Bible tells us that there are spiritual forces at work in the world to hinder us from communion and fellowship with God. The Bible also says that we are "to contend for the faith that was once delivered unto the saints."

Out of my own experience I will make three suggestions:

First, set aside a definite time for your Bible reading and prayer. Make an appointment with God, and keep it as strictly as you do any other appointment. The early morning hours are especially conducive to study and meditation.

Second, recognize that Satan will try to hinder your private devotions more than any other exercise. Be prepared for interruptions, such as ringing doorbells and phones. Let them wait, for the heavenly Guest should have priority over all others.

Third, have a plan for your devotions. Start with the book OF John and read a chapter a day. Allot time for meditation, letting the Holy Spirit "lead you into all truth." Then, when you pray, don't do all the talking. "Be still," the Psalmist said, "and know that I am God." Let God give you the marching orders for the day.

Cab Drivers Robbed; Tipped by Gunmen

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cab Driver Charles Blasko, 57, picked up two men Monday and drove to a destination several blocks away.

There one of the men pointed a pistol at him and took $17.

Before fleeing the men tossed him $1.50—90 cents for the meter reading and a 60-cent tip.

Military Teams Train Troopers For Maneuvers

Amphibious preparations began in the 1st Brigade this week with a team of Army, Navy and Marine personnel reporting to Ft. Carson to help train the next group of 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) men scheduled for maneuvers.

Brigade headquarters, 1st Battalion, 11th Infantry, 1st Battalion, 61st Infantry, and support troops began training Sept. 14 for Exercise Bandwagon to begin in late October at Coronado, Calif.

The basic amphibious course is being given by Capt. M. J. Dube, Gunnery Sgt. F. D. Holewski, Cpl. J. C. Wolf, Lance Cpl. L. G. Creek and Lance Cpl. J. W. Parker. They will be at Carson through Saturday.

The interservice team giving instructions on organized landing force staff planning (Staff VII) is headed by Army Lt. Col. L. E. Arczynski. His instructors include Army Majors David Bird, E. L. Butler Jr., T. O. Buchanan and Capt. J. F. Teed;

Navy Lt. Com. W. E. Arns, Lt. S. J. Grosscup Jr. and HMCM W. W. Hall;

Marine Majors H. J. McMullen and W. E. Weber, Sgt. T.L. Yadon, and PFC J. E. Hodges.

The interservice staff was visited Monday by their commanding general from the Naval Amphibious Base, Coronado, Brige Gen. R. R. Van Stockum, the base top noncommissioned officer, Sgt. Major James Whalen, and members of Gen. Van Stockum's staff.

'Flying Doctor' Says Mission Is Accomplished

CHICAGO (AP) — A flying doctor from Chicago who commuted 300 miles twice weekly this summer to end a physician shortage in a small town area east central Illinois decided "mission accomplished" today.

Dr. John E. Roche said he will stop part-timing as a country doctor at Allerton, population 282, because Dr. Verdamae McKee has started general practice at Sidell, a town of 614 six miles from Allerton. Allerton is 150 miles south of Chicago.

"It looks like she's well settled and will stay, so I'm planning to withdraw soon," Dr. Roche said today. "The only reason I went down there was because they needed a doctor so desperately. Now they have a full- time general practitioner and I don't want to take patients from her."

Dr. Roche, 39-year-old native of Cuba, became the first doctor to serve the area in more than 20 years after responding to an advertisement in the journal of the American Medical Association.

The physician-aviator has piloted his single-engine plane from Chicago to Allerton each Wednesday and Saturday since mid-July.

"It was a losing proposition from a financial standpoint," Dr. Roche said in an interview "but I had expected that. The idea was to get something started there. I wish the new doctor had settled in Allerton but Sidell is only six miles away."

Dr. McKee, who has been with the Illinois Department of Mental Health for several years, said she had been wanting to go into private practice and had selected Sidell because it is the home town of her husband, a laboratory technician.

Dr. Roche feels that some unexpected benefit derived from his efforts downstate.

"They lengthened the landing strip from 1,000 to 2,500 feet and now tractor salesmen and others are making landings there," he said. "Everyone seems to feel that the town has picked up a bit."

How was the general health in Allerton, some 35 miles from Danville where the nearest doctor was available?

"Well, based on the more than 70 patients I saw, they hadn't paid much attention to their health unless they became quite ill," Dr. Roche said. "I found a number cases of high blood pressure the patients didn't know they had."

What will Dr. Roche do on his days off after he drops his part-time practice?

"Maybe I'll have to get a few rounds of golf before the season ends," he said.

D.C. WASH

By GERRY VAN DER HEUVEL

WASHINGTON — Lynda Bird Johnson, the President's 20-year-old daughter, left New York Sunday to represent her father at the wedding of the 18-year-old Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark to King Constantine of Greece.

Lynda has very fond and vivid memories of a visit she had last year with the three Danish princesses at Fredensborg Castle, the royal summer home north of Copenhagen. The girls, she says, were full of talk and excitement over the engagement of the then 17-year-old Anne-Marie to the then Greek prince.

Lynda, too, was newly engaged to Lt. Bernard Rosenbach and, although neither girl had definite wedding plans, there was all the anticipation and enthusiastic speculation that only four teen-age girls can muster.

A few months later both girls' lives had undergone enormous changes. Lynda's father became President and somewhat later she broke her engagement to Rosenbach. On the death of King Paul of Greece, Anne-Marie found herself no longer engaged to marry a prince, but a king. As a queen of Greece she will be the world's youngest.

On the earlier visit Lynda gave Princess Anne-Marie Margrethe and Bendikte, three wooden bears carved by Amanda Crow, an American Indian. This time and for this occasion the gift will be somewhat more elaborate.

JOHNSONS SENDING BOWL WITH PRESIDENTIAL SEAL

President and Mrs. Johnson are sending a large, 24-inch silver Revere bowl with the Presidential seal on it and inscribed with the signatures of the President and First Lady. Lynda is also taking a silver-framed picture of the four Johnsons, also with the Presidential seal and signed by all of them.

The President's tall, dark-haired daughter flew to Athens Sunday evening after an action-packed weekend of parading and politicking on behalf of her father in Kentucky and Tennessee. She stopped off at home just long enough to change suitcases.

Then, with the long white silk sheath with three-quarter-length sleeves and a matching coat that she will wear at the wedding tucked under her arm, she was off for New York, where she joined William G. Helis, Jr., the President's other personal representative to the wedding.

Helis, a Louisiana oil magnate of Greek descent, is an official consultant to the king. His daughter, Cassandra, 26, a student at the University of Lucerne, Switzerland, and Chief of Protocol and Mrs. Angie Biddle Duke will complete the party.

Speaking of bright and sparkling young people, Washington was pleasantly dazzled this week by Bette Lord and her sister, Chin-yee Bao, the young authors of "Eight Moon," the remarkable autobiography of a young Red Chinese schoolgirl told with an assist from her American - Chinese sister and soon to be published by Harper & Rowe.

Chin-yee, who is better known as Sansan — meaning third daughter — came down from Teaneck, N.J., to help launch the book.

After less than two years in the U.S. the girl, who was schooled in Communist China, is fast becoming a typical American teenager. She is now a senior in high school in Teaneck and is hoping like mad to get into an Eastern woman's college next year. She is pretty, eager, unsure of herself at times, very poised at others.

What makes her exceptional is her story and the impact it will have in this country, if only because of the paucity of information on the everyday life of the average Chinese under Red domination.

"Every teen-age daughter in this country should read this book," Mme Claire Chennault, Chinese widow of the famed World War II airman, told us feelingly. "All of them take everything they have for granted."

HARD TO PICTURE SANSAN AS RED CHINA SCHOOLGIRL

Looking at Sansan, a petite young girl in a rose-colored silk dress with a white orchid pinned at the shoulder, it was hard to picture her as the Red China schoolgirl whose class went en masse to work on the farms around Tientsin, taking on such tasks as hauling and spreading human fertilizer; whose everyday fare in 1960 and 1961 consisted of two to four ounces of vegetables for the three people in her family, plus corn husk muffins, made by mixing ground-up corn husks with water, rolling them in a ball and baking them.

Sansan was left temporarily with relatives when her father and mother and two sisters came to the United States. The Korean War made the separation permanent until a subterfuge, devised by her mother, worked to get the girl to Hong Kong and then to the U.S.

Mme Sandys Bao looked at her daughter with much the same reaction we had.

"To think," she said, 'that two years ago at this time Sansan was still in Red China. I was in Hong Kong waiting for her and very worried. Everything was very uncertain."

RACED STORK TO FINISH BOOK—IT ENDED IN DRAW

Bette Lord, the as-told-to half of the writing team, lives here in Washington with her foreign service officer husband, Winston Lord, and their four-month-old daughter. Bette raced the stork in completing the book. It ended in a draw.

Mrs. Oswald Lord, former U.S. delegate to the Human Rights Council of the United Nations, and mother of Winston, proudly pointed out that her granddaughter — Elizabeth Pillsbury Lord — is named for her side of the family.

President Johnson is counting on his women folk to play a major role in his plans for winning the South. Not only was Luci much in evidence in New Orleans last week at the launching of a cargo ship, and Lynda doing her bit at a chili luncheon in Louisville and a barbecue in Nashville this weekend, but Lady Bird's office has just announced plans for a four-day 1,682-mile whistle-stop tour thru the South. The girls will join her for part of the trip, as their school schedules allow.

Americans Listen To Music 22 Hours Weekly

The average American listens to music 22 hours a week — and at least a third of it is music not of his own choice.

In addition to music on the radio, TV and phonograph, Americans are forced to listen to canned music in public places ranging from supermarkets to elevators — an "most of the time it's music not particularly to their liking," reports Karl W. Jensen, president of Jensen Industries, leading manufacturers of phonograph needles.

The Jensen survey of U.S. listening habits found most "free choice" listening was done on car radios, the least in symphony concert halls. Popular music ranging from the Beatles to Elvis Presley accounts for four-fifths of all music listening with classical music far behind in the total music appreciation picture, lagging behind jazz and folk music in its total audience.

"Music has so permeated our daily living that there are some Americans who spend all their waking hours hearing some kind of music, starting with clock radios when they arise, a transistor at breakfast, the car radio on the way to work, piped-in music in the office or factory broken up by more music in a restaurant at lunch, the car radio again going home and then more transistor melodies at dinner topped off by singing commercials on their TV set until bedtime," says Jensen.

"Being in the phonograph accesory business, I am not one to downgrade the cultural benefits of music, but really, enough is enough! Between 'I Enjoy Being a Girl' to wake up by and 'Double Your Pleasure, Double Your Fun' to wind up a day, Americans are being over-saturated with music and I for one am ready to stand up and say so.

"Extremism in pursuit of music certainly can be a vice. The pleasures in music are to be found in periodic relaxed listening in moderation. However, when music becomes a steady unending din, it is banal bore." bore."

Jensen's study of music-listening habits are based on a sampling of purchasers of phonograph needles. By age groups, teenagers proved to be the bracket which spent most hours listening to music while the senior set spent least time in music appreciation.

"However, the quantity of teenage listening is not matched by the quality," observed Jensen who himself confesses to a preference for classical.

Most listening is on car radios, of which there are now 50,000,000, and transistors, with four out of five of them made in Japan. A total of 200 million radios, one for every person in the U.S., has been sold since World War II, and actually three is more individual listening to radios today than before the war.

C. Sonneland, mayor of Canon City; and Dr. J. F. Vincent.

Retiring directors are Ferd Mueller of Harbison-Walker Refractories; Robert Emmerson of Emmerson Furniture; Robert Botten field of Fremont County National Bank; Lewe's Becker of Becker Typewriter; Russel Stiles of Royal Gorge Agency; and George Turner of El Canon Holsteins.

MEDICS END YEAR — Dr. Vernon Bolton, center, retiring president of the Colorado Medical Society, discusses achievements of the past year with two other Colorado Springs physicians who hold offices in the state organization. Dr. William Day, left, is treasurer of the Colorado Medical Society and Dr. Walter Herold is vice speaker of the House of Delegates and nominee for the speaker's post. The three men are participating in the annual convention being held this week at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Dr. Vernon Bolton Will Preside at Medical Meet

Dr. Vernon Bolton, Colorado Springs radiologist, will preside at the annual meeting of the Colorado Medical Society, being held at the Broadmoor Hotel this week. During the final session on Saturday, he will turn the meeting over to his successor, Dr. Samuel Childs of Denver.

The outstanding achievement of the organization during Dr. Bolton's tenure was described by him as the state wide implementation of the Kerr-Mills legislation, which provides medical aid to needy residents over the age of 65.

The Colorado Medical Society worked closely with legislators for many months prior to the passage of the legislation. Doctors throughout the state launched public speaking programs to obtain support for the legislation.

One of the most active of these speakers bureaus was in the Pikes Peak Region, according to Dr. Bolton.

Through the new law federal funds are matched by the state to provide hospitalization and other benefits to those meeting the income qualifications.

"Our next step is to achieve simplification of the paper work involved both for physicians and the welfare departments which process the forms," Dr. Bolton said.

Studying mental health needs in the state was another program launched during Dr. Bolton's year in office.

"Last Spring a state wide meeting attended by experts and laymen from every part of the state focused attention on needs, plans and progress in this field," he added.

Dr. Bolton, who is chief of the department of radiology at St. Francis Hospital, explained that plans have been made to launch a program to educate teenagers about the danger of smoking. The Colorado Medical Society will have speakers and films available for this project planned for school use.

"The program is being aimed at this age group in the hope that young people will not start to smoke at all. So often, once you've started, you are hooked," he pointed out.

The annual meeting will attract physicians from the entire state. Approximately 100 members of the El Paso County Medical Society will attend part or all of the sessions which begin Wednesday and end Saturday afternoon.

Proclamation Issued for Observance

President Johnson has proclaimed the week beginning Thursday through Sept. 23 as Constitution Week, to commemorate the 177th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution.

Mayor Harry W. Hoth issued a proclamation Tuesday for Constitution Week observances in Colorado Springs.

It would be appropriate for all citizens, in recognition of the heritage of freedom and liberty as set forth in the Constitution, to display the flag on Constitution Day, Thursday, and for the balance of the week.

Citizens may also observe Constitution Week by doing their part to promote a better understanding of the Constitution and by appreciating the advantages of being an American.

21 Enrolled In School for Practical Nurses

Twenty-one students have enrolled in the new School of Practical Nursing, located in St. Francis Hospital. The school, which opened Sept. 8, is part of Colorado Springs School District 11, and was founded under the Manpower Development and Training Act, with 100 per cent financial reimbursement from the federal government.

Members of the first class were chosen from nearly 150 applicants and were selected according to their educational background and tested aptitudes. They will spend a full year in classes and will have clinical bedside training under two full-time instructors, Barbara Christianson and Deborah Eitel, both registered nurses.

In addition, they will study nutrition under part-time instructor Jean Keller, A.D.A.

All classes and 11 months of clinical training will be taken at St. Francis Hospital, with one month at either the Kair Moor or the Norton Nursing Home. At the end of the year they will be eligible to take the examination which will certify them as licensed practical nurses, capable of caring efficiently for the disabled and the sick.

The Manpower Development and Training Act, under which the school is being financed, draws from the growing number of untrained and unemployed young people, and prepares them to fill a local labor need.

Pharmacies To Introduce Tip Tax Service

Selected pharmacies throughout the region will soon introduce a unique free tax saving service to their customers. "Tip," as the plan is called, stands for Tax Information Plan.

The exclusive Plan is being offered by Davis Bros., Inc., Denver-based wholesale Drug firm, through their drug store customers in the area which they serve. Davis Bros.' offices and warehouses are located in Albuquerque, N. M.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; El Paso, Tex. and Missoula, Mont.; as well as Denver.

Although the United States Internal Revenue Department wants only the exact amount due from each taxpayer, the law requires that he be able to substantiate all deductions, should any questions be raised.

Most taxpayers find it comparatively easy to verify interest payments, charitable donations, educational expenses, etc. However, when it comes to drugs and medicines, keeping exact records is a virtual impossibility for the average person. This complex problem is further complicated by the fact that hundreds of items carried by the average pharmacy are deductible nuder Federal law.

According to William Davis, vice presiednt of Davis Bros., the purpose of Tip is to bring order out of chaos and make it easy for the taxpayer to accurately fill out his return and claim any amount of money to which he may be entitled.

This is the way Tip works. When you mkae a purchase at a pharmacy offering Tip, an IBM form will be filled out. You will receive the original, a copy will remain in the pharmacy's files and the third copy will go to the computer headquarters at Davis Bros. There, an IBM computer will break down the total and give a result showing tax deductible purchases.

This breakdown will be rendered to you regularly. At the end of each December your total tax deductible purchases for the year from the pharmacy will be totaled and you will receive a statement showing total deductible drug purchases for the taxable year.

You simply use this figure in making the appropriate calculations according to the instructions on the income tax return form. The statement provided, along with the accom panying receipts, constitutes proof of purchase, should the government ever question your return.

The same information will be equally valuable should illness force you to file a claim under a medical insurance program. All such programs require verification of medical and drug expenses. Tip will put this information at your fingertips.

When a man or woman reaches 65 years of age, a concurrent advance in medical and drug expenses usually follows. This increase comes at a time when most people's incomes are decreasing.

By using Rip, older people, who receive more generous deductions than younger taxpayers, will no longer need a bookkeeper to gain this tax refund. Tip also records purchases which few people realize are deductible. This includes such items as aspirin, bandages, etc.

Young couples with small children have many unexpected medical expenses. There is everything from childhood diseases to skinned knees, skin rashes and sudden fevers.

Parents faced with these health problems of their children do not usually take time to job down all they spend on medications and medical supplies. Tip relieves anxious parents of this chore.

Tip is a big help in setting up the family budget. Take the month by month drug and medical expenditure and add to this the amount you pay for medical and hospitalization plans, dental bills and physician's payments.

Allow an additional 15 per cent to 20 per cent of that total for the unexpected and you have a workable rule of thumb, something which most families are lacking today.

Paintings Worth Million Stolen From Collector

ROME (AP) — Search was pressed today for an international ring of thieves blamed for stealing 16 paintings by some of Italy's greatest Renaissance artists from an Italian collector.

The value of the paintings stolen Monday night from Prince Alessandro Torlonia was estimated at first at $360,000. Art experts said later they might be worth more than a million dollars.

Prince Torlonia, who is considered Italy's richest man, said paintings included works attributed to such artists as Raphael, Guido Reni, Ribera and Andrea Mantegna.

Lists and photographs of the stolen paintings were sent to Interpol, the international police organization, for distribution in Europe and America. Usually stolen masterpieces are put on clandestine sale abroad.

Police said the thieves might even have been commissioned in advance to steal the painting. They took only smaller canvases and passed up several valuable larger paintings, including one attributed to Rembrandt.

Louisiana Governor To Remain 'Neutral'

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana, a Democrat, says he's going to be neutral in the presidential race.

The governor said in a statement Tuesday that Louisiana voters to a large extent have already decided whether they'll support President Johnson or his Republican challenger, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Goldwater is given a good chance to carry traditionally Democratic Louisiana because of voter discontent over the new federal civil rights law.

McKeithen said his first goal was to fulfill his state program.

Gov. Rosselini Wins Washington State Demo Vote

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Gov. Albert D. Rosellini will face Daniel J. Evans, House floor leader in the last state legislature, in November's gubernatorial election.

The Democratic governor, seeking an unprecedented third consecutive term, was an easy winner in Tuesday's primary, turning back four contenders.

Evans, a Seattle engineer, defeated Richard G. Christensen, a former Lutheran minister who lost narrowly to veteran Sen. Warren G. Magnuson in 1962, for the Republican nomination.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson won the Democratic nomination for senator with ease. He will be opposed by Lloyd J. Andrews, former state superintendent of public instruction, in November.

Reps. Jack Westland, Thor Tollefson, Thomas Pelly, Catherine May and K. W. Stinson, all Republicans, and Democrat Julia Butler Hansen were unopposed.

Burtons Find Audience at Film Location

By BOB THOMAS

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — The scene is bizarre, like something out of a movie.

After a morning of filming locations for "The Sandpiper" in a rocky cove, Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton climbed the bluff to sit down to lunch at one of the picnic tables set up for the movie company. A hundred yards away is California Highway 1 and it is lined with tourists who stare at the famous pair.

The stars sip their wine, a French rose, eat heartily of the plain location lunch, and regale their fellow workers and a few visitors with stories. Burton is a noted raconteur; his wife keeps up with his repartee.

The Burtons are not unaware of the audience on the highway.

"Notice the ones with binoculars," he says. "Yesterday there was a fellow up there with a huge spyglass. As I was leaving for the set, the wind was just right and I could hear his comment to his companion: 'Yes, he is pockmarked.'"

Elizabeth adds: "I was going into my trailer the day before when I heard a bunch of girls screaming, 'Liz! Liz!' Ilookedup and gave a little wave, and one of them said, 'We think you're still pretty.' I went into the trailer feeling very creaky in the bones and I started to count the gray in my hair."

There are indeed a few strands of gray in her hair, but at 32 she is in splended shape. A fortnight of diet and exercise at their Puerto Vallarta villa put both the Burtons in trim for "The Sandpiper."

They will need to be in trim for their future schedule. After locations in Monterey and Big Sur, they will film interiors in Paris. Burton will go immediately into "The Spy who Came In From the Cold," which will shoot in London, Ireland and Munich.

The pair return to California next spring when she will star in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf?" with Jack Lemmon as the probable costar. The casting may cause some lifted eyebrows, since the role in the Edward Albee play has been taken by fortyish actresses.

The Burtons plan next summer to re-team in a movie version of "The Taming of the Shrew" to be made in Italy.

How does Burton think his wife will fare with the Bard?

"Well, since she made her debut reading poetry in New York, she has her feet wet. And she has a raucous voice, so that's a good start for playing the shrew."

MILLINOCKET, Maine (AP) — This hike in the woods went from Georgia to Maine, and from March to September along the historic Appalachian Trail.

Tattooed Man Found to Be 'Impulsive'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Beware of the tattooed man. Although he gets decorated to achieve a sense of belonging, he may be marked for trouble.

This was part of the findings of three university professors who made a study of 400 patients in a Veterans Administration hospital. Sixty - five of the men had one or more tattoos.

Taking part in the research were Dr. Joe Yamamoto, University of Southern California School of Medicine; Dr. William Seeman, Department of Psychology, University of Cincinnati, and Dr. Boyd K. Lester, Department of Psychiatry, Tulane University Medical School.

Definite behavior deviation patterns were apparent when the tattooed men were contrasted with an equal number of their unblemished brethren at the hospital.

Most of the marked men, who received their blue and red skin markings between the ages of 19 and 21, indicated they got tattooed on an impulse along with the desire to belong, to drink, and in order to make a hit with girls.

Despite a stated desire to have a more "masculine image," the survey showed the men were more frequently divorced or single and having more difficulty in their relationships with women then the unmarked patients. The tattooed men, who exhibited more nervousness, often came from broken homes.

The research team found the tattooed man often was a truant in his younger days and was more often arrested and sent to jail. His earlier years included arrests — more because of drinking than any other cause. The marked man was described by the research team as "impulsive" and more willing to act out his desires and frustrations.

On the affirmative side of the study, the team found the marked man served in the armed forces for an equal length of time, attained similar rank and achieved similar vocational and educationl goals as his fellow men.

Although symbolic of masculine status in our society, the psychiatrists do not believe the tattoo ever will achieve a mark of distinction comparable to the eye patch or the sabre scar.

Writers Not Immune From Big Bamboozle

By SAM CAMPBELL

Occasionally, mistakes happen. When serious flaws occur in this space, I endeavor to set the record straight at the earliest opportunity.

Early in June, I wrote a few paragraphs on how the mass media are used to bamboozle the reader.

"The method," that column stated, "is known to the trade as 'orchestration,' the presentation of a single point of view in different words, from a variety of sources, through many channels for the purpose of attaining a premeditated result."

Most newspapermen, it was pointed out, are innocent participants in this process. They simply do not know what is going on. If they only stopped to think who benefits from a contrived chorus of the mass media, they would not be so easily used.

Since financial writers are supposed to be in the habit of thinking, it might be supposed that the foregoing description does not apply to persons in this category of news handling. At least, the statement failed to specify that it does apply to all sections of the mass media, especially including financial writers.

That oversight, though unintentional, is serious enough to warrant correction.

In order to show that financial writers do not necessarily participate in the thought process because they happen to be engaged in an occupation that requires it, let me quote you a lucid passage that appeared in a sister newspaper under the byline of Sylvia Porter.

Miss Porter argues that a voluntary plan of Social Security never would work and this is the argument she uses:

"Who would remain in a voluntary system? Primarily those whom the insurance industry calls 'Poor risks' — older workers who are most likely to get benefit 'bargains' in return for comparatively small contributions. These bargains will be eliminated in the years ahead, because future beneficiaries will have contributed over their entire working lifetime. But we're still in the system's growth period — and today is a 'poor risk' who can expect future benefits greater than his total contributions.

"Obviously, no insurance plan — public or private — can survive without 'good' as well as 'poor' risks. No medical insurance plan could survive if only the sick were included, no automobile insurance could exist only for the accident-prone. No life insurance company could stay in business if it sold policies only to those who died young." (End of quote).

So what Miss Porter has done is to cite a number of outstanding voluntary insurance systems (medical, auto, life,) as proof that another such voluntary system cannot exist. I don't know how a person could be more contradictory in fewer words. This ia a prime example of reverse rationality where the "thinker" knows his conclusion before he has found the reasons for it.

That happens with all of us from time to time, I suppose, but really if a person is scratching around for reasons to prop up his preconceived notion, he ought to be careful to pick out the right ones.

Good Neighbor Builds Tree House

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A small, one-room house with a cedar shingle roof, sitting about 15 feet above the ground in the craggy arms of a towering soft maple tree, is a home away from home for a group of Kansas City children.

"I did it for the kids," Julian Lynch explained today. He referred to some 45 children in the 5400 block on Wyandotte in the southwest part of the city.

Lynch, 39, said "the idea for the tree house came from a young son of a next-door neighbor, Thomas Reardon. The youngster and another boy came to me last winter and asked if I would help them build one."

There were no suitable trees in the Lynch's backyard, but the maple in the Reardons' yard was ideal. The Reardons' have seven children and their yard is a gathering place for most of the neighborhood kids.

Lynch has a daughter, 17, and a boy 14, but they are "sophisticated" teen-agers with only a casual interest in tree houses.

Lynch went to work on the tree house about two months ago.

"I even took some time off from the office," said Lynch. "I think my boss thought I was a little nuts, but I took him out to see it one afternoon and he was rather impressed." Lynch is traffic manager for Capitol Truck Lines.

The redwood, spruce and fir tree house is 6 feet wide, 8 feet long and almost 6 feet tall. Built-ins include a fold-out table and two bench-like seats.

There are 22 steps leading up to the doorway of the tree house. An electric light hangs above the entrance. It can be turned off or on in the tree house or from a switch conveniently placed at the side of the Reardon's house.

"The party the kids gave me was a very nice surprise," said Lynch.

There was singing, the pledge of allegiance to the flag, a ribbon cutting, and Lynch broke a bottle of champagne on the stairway.

Lynch also was the recipient of a token from the children: a red felt triangle inscribed "Good Neighbor Award."

Four-Year-Old Boy Says Dad Shot Him

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The 4-year-old boy pointed to scars on his wrist, hands, and arms, and then lifted his shirt.

"See," he told the judge. "He made a big scab here." He pointed to a large abdominal scar.

Dark-haired Paul Mendez testified Tuesday in Superior Court that his father shot him seven times last July 6.

William Mendez, 48, a merchant seaman, is on trial for assault with intent to commit murder. He is accused of firing seven shots into the boy while they were on a stroll.

Mendez, separated from his wife, reportedly shot the boy to prevent his return to the custody of his mother, Ruth Mendez.

Dr. Edgar A. Storli, San Mateo surgeon, testified he removed bullets from the boy's lower chest, abdoman, arms

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

I've been making cornbread pones and cooking cornbread in iron skillets for 20 years, but not until this week did I learn how to keep pones from sticking to the iron pan.

Some precious reader told me to grease the heavy pan first, then to sprinkle it with corn meal (as you would ordinarily flour a cake pan), put it in the oven or broiler until the corn meal turned brown, and then pour in the batter. She said the pone would never stick, but would come out with the flip of a knife.

Naturally, I doubted it. Who wouldn't?

Well I tried it and hereafter will never cook cornbread pones or cornbread in a skillet any other way.

For the first time in over twenty years, the pones didn't stick or break, but came out just like our dear reader said . . . with a slight flick of the knife.

Not only that, but I found the pans easier to wash! The cornbread doesn't stick to the pans.

I will love this woman to my dying day and that's just how long I intend to keep eating cornbread now that I've found an easy way. —Cornbread Heloise

---

P.S. And just for variation, try adding a dash of vanilla to the batter. I did and it was wonderful.

I have also used sage in cornmeal batter when having fowl and dressing, or pork chops.

And what's wrong with trying other extracts, such as lemon, when serving fish . . .

Dear Heloise:

Before using tweezers, try squeezing and pulling the inside of the tweezer's points along the sticky side of a piece of adhesive tape.

You'd be surprised how much better a grip this gives the tweezers. —Alice Woolaway

Dear Heloise:

When children are ill and must stay in bed, it is difficult to give them fruit juices or other liquids without having some spill on the bed or on the child's night clothes.

I solved this problem by punching a hole in the screw cap of a half-pint jar with an ice pick. Then I poured the liquid into the jar, put the lid on tightly, and inserted a drinking straw through the hole in the lid.

Children love this idea, and so do I . . . no more spills. —Martha

Dear Heloise:

I found the simplest way to cover a hot water bottle is to take two finger-tip towels (they are an exact fit), sew the two sides and one end together, and that's it.

With either snaps or zipper, or just safety pins to fasten the open end, it's done in a jiffy. And nothing could be easier to launder. —R.H.

Also . . . the softness of the towels makes the hot water bottle more comfy! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When cutting plastic bleach and detergent bottles with scissors or a knife for various uses, heat the bottle under hot water first.

The bottles can even be held under the warm water while cutting, and it is almost like cutting paper. —L.C.

1935 Coins Cannot Be Produced Anymore

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Buseau of the Mint almost came up with a surefire way to trick coin collectors out of hoarding next year's new silver dollars.

The mint, which has irritated collectors by deciding to keep stamping "1964" on John F. Kennedy memorial half-dollars next year, has been trying to stop the hoarding of the 45 million new silver dollars that also will be the first coined by the United States since 1935 and, for that reason, may be snapped up by collectors.

In testimony before the House Appropriations subcommittee recently, officials of the mint said they considered a plan to stamp the new silver dollars with the date "1935" so collectors would have no reason to save them.

But they had to give the plan up, because the old 1935 die has been destroyed.

Anti-Smoking Drive Proposed in Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service says it needs $1.9 million this fiscal year to start informing young school children and others about the dangers of smoking.

It says the money won't be used in a crash program but as the start of a long and hard drive to curb the American smoking habit.

But the service's request for the money, made at a closed-door meeting of a House Appropriations subcommittee last Aug. 14, was opposed both by the Tobacco Institute and a group of 42 congressmen from North and South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Missouri, Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The subcommittee released a transcript of the hearing today.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

No Rest for the Blessed

DEAR ABBY: I am 31, have been married for 12 years and have ten children. The baby is just three months old and I just found out I am pregnant again. I love children and so does my husband. We always said we wanted a large family, but we didn't really want this many. My mother helps me out when she can, but she isn't too strong and the children make her nervous. My husband's mother is dead so she's no help at all. My husband is good to me, but he has to hold two jobs to make ends meet, so he isn't home much, and when he is, he's awfully tired. There's a lot of work around here, Abby, and I never seem to get done. My doctor says that children are a gift from heaven, and a woman who's able to have them should accept as many as she is blessed with, but I think we have enough. What am I to do? —WORN OUT

DEAR WORN: Children are indeed a "gift" from heaven, but the money required to feed, clothe, and educate them has to come out of somebody's pocket. If it's not contrary to your religion, call your PLANNED PARENTHOOD CENTER. If none is listed in your telephone book, write to their national headquarters: Planned Parenthood Federation of America, 515 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York, and ask where the one nearest you is located. Pay them a visit. You'll be glad you did. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: We are a young couple who have been married eight years. We recently bought a home and are now wondering if we made a good choice. Our house is in a very nice neighborhood (we thought) inhabited mostly by retired couples. The day after we moved in we found a note which said, "The neighborhood welcomes you, but we would appreciate it if the Mister would put a shirt on when he works in the yard." It was unsigned. My husband said he would dress as he pleased. We live in Florida and think it is our right to enjoy the sunshine. How should we handle this note? —FLORIDIANS

DEAR FLORIDIANS: The same way I recommend ALL unsigned notes should be handled. Ignore it.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a boy respects a girl less if she smokes? —JUST CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Yes. And I'll bet if she quits, he kisses her more.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M.G.C.: Don't put your trust in money. Put your money in trust.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PAINTING TIPS

CHICAGO (UPI) — If you're going to paint your home this summer, here are some "smooth" painting tips from the customer services division of Armstrong Paints:

—On exterior wood siding, paint with the grain, and deposit paint in several spots, joining them by brushing for smoothness. On horizontal clapboard siding, paint the bottom of each board and then the face. Work from a dry area into one that has just been painted.

—End each stroke with a lifting motion to keep from depositing too much paint at the end of the stroke.

—Use both sides of each brushful. This, too, will tend to even out the job by blending the segment being painted into the part previously painted.

—Prepare the surface properly and carefully follow all directions printed on the can.

Theta Lambdas Plan Project For Handicapped

The first meeting of the year for Theta Lambda Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha was held in the board room of the Northern National Bank, with Mrs. K. L. Waldron as hostess. Mrs. Kenneth Koontz, president, presided at the business meeting.

Each member will donate one green stamp book to obtain a gym-slide combination for an eight-year-old handicapped girl. Helping to provide clothing, medical expenses, etc., for this child will be the philanthropic project for the chapter this year.

The Gold Bond Stamp chairman reported 1870 points were turned in toward the project. Self improvement was selected as the educational theme for the year.

Members present were Mrs. Jerry Zeigler, Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Al Britton, Mrs. Russell Fife, Mrs. Charles Batley, Mrs. Charles Stringer, Mrs. La Clede Jensen, and Mrs. Kenneth Koontz. Mrs. Jean Steel was a guest. Theta Lambda Chapter will be hostess for the first meeting of the year of the Pikes Peak Area Council, Sept. 28, at the Northern National Bank.

Leather Takes Lead in Fall Leisure-Wear

The fashion-wise man buying clothes for his leisure hours this fall is demanding: "Take me to your leather."

The emphasis on "line" in men's clothing has brought about a look of casual distinction in sportwear, notes Leather Industries of America. New leather jackets and coats in buttery-soft suedes, smooth cabrettas and leather-and-knit combinations handsomely embody this quality.

Ideal whether you're raking the yard or roaming the autumn countryside, this fall's suede and smooth leather jackets come in many lengths and styles. Self-covered buttons or a zippered closing may be featured; pocket treatments take many forms; knit insets may or may not be used. The range of color is rich and varied. Whatever the style, a lightweight leather jacket offers warmth without weight against brisk fall breezes.

If a more formal look is desired, there is a suede leather jacket in deep brown, elegantly tailored along conventional sports jacket lines.

Making a new garment out of an older one? After you have ripped the old one apart, wash and carefully press each piece. Then, if possible, reverse the material when cutting. The wrong side will be much brighter than the right one.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	1 ♠	2 ♡	2 ♠
4 ♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠

Although he was confronted with an apparently hopeless cause, South the declarer in a four heart contract maintained a stiff upper lip, and when West gave him the benefit of a slight opening he was quick to capitalize on his opportunity.

West opened the jack of spades which was taken by declarer's ace. South led the queen of trumps. West played the ace and returned the ten of spades which was ruffed in the closed hand. South shifted to a small club and West put up the king to lead another spade reducing declarer to two trumps.

Prospects were pretty dim for South since he had already lost two tricks, and he was confronted with two prospective losers in diamonds. Declarer gave no outward sign of concern, however, as he drew the outstanding trumps ending up in the dummy and led a small diamond. He played the ten of diamonds from his hand and West was in with the king.

West made the apparently safe exit of a club to the dummy's queen; however, when North's last heart was played East found hiself caught in a vise. On the second and third round of trumps he had been able to let go of a spade and a diamond. On the fourth heart there was no safe discard left to him. Fearing to throw another diamond from the queen-jack, he chose to part with a club. South discarded the nine of diamonds, returned to his hand with the ace and took the last two tricks with the ace and eight of clubs.

West could have broken up the squeeze by returning a diamond when he was in with the king of that suit, for this would have deprived South of his side entry before the squeeze card could be led. West's fear of putting his partner in the middle by leading a diamond was groundless for, if East's diamond holding is finessable, there is nothing to prevent declarer from making the same play for himself.

FASHION MEMOS — Paul Steiner, author of "175 Little-Known Facts About John F. Kennedy" wore some neckties that were a little on the wild side to art exhibits to see how people would react. He found that some of the weirdest "works of art" were accepted readily by the viewers, his ties created more of a sensation.

Actor George Hamilton usually is a neat dresser, but to get in the mood to play a certain role in a recent film, he wore his hair long and tried to enter a Nashville, Tenn., nightclub in blue jeans and sweat-shirt. He was naturally refused admission.

Modacrylic fibers (Dynel, Verel) require the lowest ironing temperature, approximately 225 degrees, for satisfactory results. The highest temperature, 350 degrees, is needed for satisfactory results with cotton and linen.

Correct Wedding Attire Essential

There are two governing factors that dictate the choice of the bridegroom's wedding attire; one is the time of day when the ceremony is to be performed, the other is the type of gown worn by the bride.

The specific type of daytime or evening clothes is determined by the bride's gown. If it is a long - trained, veiled, formal type, the bridegroom's outfit should be formal, too. His outfit should also relate to her if the gown is semiformal or informal. For both formal and semiformal daytime weddings, the best man, ushers and fathers of both the bride and bridegroom, wear the same basic outfit as the bridegroom's. However, even though the ushers', cutaways or stollers may vary in detailing, their shirts, collars and ties should be alike. The ties or ascots worn by the bridegroom, father of the bride and father of the groom, may each be different from those worn by the ushers, as long as they are the correct type.

The time of day rule is rather obvious. If the wedding is held in the morning or afternoon, daytime rules obtain. If it is held after 6 P.M., evening clothes are in order, reminds the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear.

Among the things to avoid are: the bridegroom wearing an incorrect accessory (such as wearing a white bow-tie with a tuxedo; the use of sticks during the cermony, a ridiculous substitute for military sabers); do not permit breach of any of the rules for evening wear as a concession to the wedding or for convenience.

It is often asked in case's in which the cermony takes place before 6 P.M., and the festivities extend well into the evening, if it is required to change from daytime to semiformal clothes to similar types of evening clothes . . . Ans.: NO.

By the same token, some wedding parties are tempted to wear formal or semiformal evening attire before 6 P.M., because they know the celebration will continue into the night . . . it is authoritatively considered very bad form, regardless of the season.

Graham Gets Blessing From Catholic Prelate

BOSTON (AP) — When evangelist Billy Graham, a Southern Baptist, opens a "crusade for Christ" in Boston Friday, he'll have the blessings of Richard Cardinal Cushing.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, said Graham's preaching "will surely be of great importance for many Christians in the Boston area."

Caroline Kennedy Goes to School In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The Convent of the Sacred Heart, a Catholic school for girls, has a new pupil — Caroline Kennedy.

Hand-in-hand with her mother, the 6-year-old daughter of the late President John F. Kennedy went to her first day of school Tuesday. She wore the school uniform, a gray flannel Eton jacket, matching pleated skirt and a white blouse.

Some nuns and pupils watched from a second-story window of the school at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 91st Street as Caroline arrived.

Caroline's aunt, Mrs. Peter Lawford, wife of the actor, and Sydney Lawford, 8, accompanied Caroline and her mother. Sydney is entering the school, too.

The two girls moved through the chattering groups of pupils with apparent ease. Caroline entered the second grade. Last year, she attended special classes at the White House.

"She will be treated just like all the rest," said the school secretary. "She will be mixed in with the other girls."

The private school, in a city where attempts to improve the racial balance in public schools has triggered boycotts, has a number of Negro pupils from families whose fathers are with African delegations to the United Nations. There also are some Asian pupils.

Mrs. Kennedy also visited the campaign headquarters of her brother-in-law, Robert F. Kennedy, Democratic senatorial candidate. She took along John Jr., 4.

They spent 10 minutes in the headquarters. When they left, a cheering crowd of 500 surged against Mrs. Kennedy and seemed about to make her lose her balance. But she got to a car, holding John by the hand.

The police apparently had not been notified of her appearance.

Asked what she would do in Kennedy's campaign, she said: "I'll do whatever they ask me."

Aviation Heir Leaves Fortune of $5 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — Chance M. Vought Jr. inherited an aviation fortune of $3 million in 1930.

He was worth $5 when he died of diabetes last April 6 at 37, according to papers filed with his will in surrogate's court Tuesday.

The will, written in 1953, divided his estate among his second wife, from whom he was estranged, three children, his mother and a brother.

Vought, once a leading figure in cafe society, spent most of his last two years in jail for failing to pay $250 a week alimony.

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK — It has suddenly dawned on us that all the people we talk to know exactly how they are going to vote on November 3. In the six weeks since the Republican convention, we have not come across one unmade - up mind.

So, we have been thinking that it might be a good idea to call off the election campaign completely this year and use the money for something more profitable instead, like maybe moving Cyprus to the World's Fair or vice versa.

And quite naturally, we mentioned our thoughts about the campaign to Max Rosey. (Sooner or later, we mention all our thoughts to Max Rosey. In our opinion, Mr. Rosey is truly a man for all seasons, except mid-winter when it is too cold to loiter on Broadway.)

And as this is the political season. Mr. Rosey is the national campaign manager for Henry B. Krajewski, erstwhile pig farmer from Secaucus, N.J., and three-time presidental candidate on the Poor Man's Party ticket.

"Call of the campaign?" Mr. Rosey asked in obvious astonishment. "I have never heard of anything so politically unculcated."

"Unculcated?" we asked, trying to visualize the word.

"Certainly," he explained. "If you did not have an election campaign, how would the people know how to vote?"

"Everybody seems to know already," we said.

"Which everybody?" he asked

"Everybody you talk to."

"Well, that is your whole trouble," he said. "Everybody is not the people. Everybody is who you talk to. The people are somebody else. Nobody talks to the people except political candidates."

"That's nonsense," we said.

"You think so?" he asked. "Then tell me something. You ever know any people who voted for my candidate, Henry B. Krajewski, erstwhile pig farmer of Secaucus, N.J.?"

"No," we said.

"Then how come he got 10,000 votes in 1956?" Mr. Rosey demanded. "And tell me something else. Did you ever see a movie called 'Ben Hur?' "

"No," we said.

"So did I," he said. "So how come it won an Academy Ward? Explain that. Well you can't because it's not what me and you say. It's what the people say. And they can't say anything till they hear what the candidates say about Bobby Baker and Irving Renewal."

"Irving Renewal?" we asked, the name having a familiar ring.

"Certainly," he said. "It's personalities that count with the people just as much as the issues. That is why you positively cannot disperse with the campaign. And I do not mind telling you that I would like to sec the personalties before I make up my mind."

"Make up your mind?" we repeated. "What about your own candidate, Mr. Krajewski?"

"Who, HBK?" Mr. Rosey said. "I have known him many years and I can tell you absolutely that he never makes up his mind until the campaign is over."

Iron Curtain Is Pierced by American Radio

By EMIL R SVEILIS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Movi Waszyngton. Slysza panstwo gzos Ameryki" — "Amerika vola Ceskoslovensko!" — "Itt Washington hangja" — "Si ir Americas bals no Vasingtonas" —"Seein' Amerika haal—Washington."

Mumbo - jumbo? Not at all. It's the United States Information Agency's Voice of America, VOA, indentifying itself in Polish, Czechoslovakian, Hungarian, Latvian and Estonian.

The translation reads; "This is the voice of America from Washington."

From June 10 to June 17, the voice announced on its Russian language broadcast that it would give away the new John F. Kennedy memorial stamp, free, for the asking.

VOA said it bought 600 such post cards and attached the Kennedy stamps to them.

The following week, a spokesman said, a similar offer was made by the voice's East European section which includes Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Albania, Armenia, Estonia, Georgia, Latvia, Lithuania and Ukraine.

"As of now" he said, "the voice has received 150 requests from Russia and more than 600 from the East European countries." He said this was probably only the beginning.

A message on the cards sent behind the Iron Curtain said the stamp was issued on May 29, 1964, as part of the nationwide observance of the late president's 47th birthday anniversary. The quote on the stamp, "And the glow from that fire can truly light the world," comes from President Kennedy's inaugural address, it added.

Soon after VOA broadcasts announced the giveaway, hundreds of letters poured in requesting the stamp. Many made personal comments.

A young miner in Czechoslovakia wrote that since he could not pay his own respects at the late president's grave, he would at least like to accept the offer of the stamp to keep in his album.

Another said: "I would like a copy of the stamp to hold in memory of the man who . . . gave mankind the faith in peace . . . and showed a road to a better nation."

A woman in Poland wrote that John F. Kennedy was as close to the Poles as a brother. Apparently this statement is true. During his recent trip through Europe, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was received as "a brother."

Even in the United States, demand for the Kennedy stamp has not ceased.

The Post Office Department said three huge printing presses still were running 24 hours a day. The total number of stamps to be printed will be more than 500 million.

"Never before," said Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, "has it been necessary to use three presses in the production of a single color stamp."

VOA said that before June last year, Communists were constantly jamming the voice, but suddenly stopped on June 19, 1963, without any apparent reason.

'Patience' May Mean Victory In Viet Nam

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

South Viet Nam's — and Southeast Asia's — future may now depend upon who has more patience: The Chinese and North Vietnamese Communists or the Americans.

High U.S. officials speak of the possibility of negotiation to end the frustrating, expensive war, with a big if — if the Communists will leave their neighbors alone. There seems little prospect of that.

But if this talk is taken in Peking and Hanoi as a sign that U.S. patience is wearing thin the result can be a considerably stepped up effort to push the conflict to a conference table.

Ho Chi Minh's North Vietnamese Communists already have displayed much patience. They invested 20 years and resources they could ill afford in the attempt to take over all Indochina. There is not the slightest sign that they intend to stop short of anything but an agreement which would leave South Viet Nam at their mercy.

Ho likely would welcome a conference, however. He already has laid down his terms and repeats them at very opportunity. Ho says all foreign military personnel and equipment must be withdrawn from South Viet Nam.

And then comes the hooker: "Let the people of South Viet Nam settle their own affairs on the basis of national independence, democracy, peace and nutrality, so they can later attain peaceful reunification in accordance with the program of the NLFSV (the National Liberation Front for South Viet Nam.)"

This is doubletalk. In this language, independence, peace and democracy all translate to "Communist," Runification in accordance with the NLFSV program would mean surrender to the Communists, since that is the cover front for the Communist Viet Cong gurrillas.

He might accept less at a conference table, but not much less. Ho has much patience.

U.S. policy makers indicate resignation to the idea that military efforts alone cannot win the Indochina war.

Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, who has just returned to Saigon after conferring with administration leaders, expressed confidence that the war would "end victoriously from our point of view."

But Taylor says the political situation in South Viet Nam must be made stable. Second, Communist guerrilla forces must be cleaerd out of the four provinces immediately around Saigon.

South Viet Nam is not only a house divided, it is a house splintered. The dilemma is awesome. Instability springs from dissatisfaction among educated elements with lack of representative government.

But can a regime up to its neck in civil war afford the luxury of an attempt at parliamentary democracy? Indeed, can there be anything like representative government in a nation which has lost control of much of its territory to a determined enemy.

Obviously, the enemy must be cleared out if the nation is to be politically stable. But at best that will take a long time.

Yet time is an important commodity. It permits the patient Communist campaign of attrition against the nerves and staying power of south Viet Nam to do its work.

Originally, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Virginia, Maryland and New York claimed parts of what is now Pennsylvania.

New Traffic Signal to Be Installed

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith said Tuesday that a new traffic signal will be installed before the end of the month at Pikes Peak Avenue and North Circle Drive.

Also to be installed are "walk" and "don't walk" pedestrian signals for the pirmary purpose of directing Will Rogers School pupils when to cross Pikes Peak Avenue when walking to and from school.

Smith said there would not be pedestrian signals for North Circle Drive. This is being done purposely so children living on the east side of North Circle will remain on the east side of the thoroughfare and cross at the existing push-button signal installed for this purpose at the school.

Once the new traffic signal has been installed, Smith said, the "reduce speed to 20 MPH" installation at Pikes Peak and Hayman Avenues will be removed. Then children will be directed to use the signalized crossing at Pikes Peak Avenue and North Circle Drive.

The City Traffic Engineering Department has been keeping an eye on the Pikes Peak Avenue-North Circle Drive intersection for some time, and in August of last year they determined traffic volume did not warrant signalization.

By May 1964 studies revealed that the intersection met or closely approached traffic volume for signalization. There were five accidents at the intersection from January 1963 to May 1964.

Since May, Smith added, there have been six accidents at the intersection resulting in five injuries.

Defendant Will Appear for Himself at Trial

Jack Hedgecock, 60, of 2306 E. Platte Ave., was granted permission Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher to appear for himself in a jury trial on Oct. 23.

Hedegcock is charged with operating without a fitters' license as required by the city. His trial is set for 9 a.m.

Judge Asher advised Hedgecock to appear in court at 9 a.m. Oct. 20 for the jury selections.

Attorney Tom Gresham will defend Charles Brown, 16, of 3 Penrose Blvd., in a jury trial at 9 a.m. Oct. 21 on a charge of careless driving.

At 9 a.m. Oct. 22 will be held the jury trial of Gilbert Dillon, 22, 2419 W. Vermijo St., who is charged with reckless driving. Dillon will be represented by attorney Wayne Hodson.

There was a mix-up in court Tuesday on the jury trial of Johnny Taylor, 38, 313 E. Vermijo St., who is charged with disorderly conduct, riotous conduct, and breach of peace.

Attorney George Silvola maintained he had withdrawn the jury request for Taylor and the case had been set for a trial before Judge Asher. Court records did not show that the jury request had been withdrawn, but the judge allowed this and set the case for Sept. 25.

Silvola said the complaining witness wanted the charges dropped, but Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac objected because of Taylor's record. Isaac said he didn't think the City of Colorado Springs would benefit from a dismissal of the charges.

Judge Asher denied Silvola's motion for dismissal and the trial will go on as set on Sept. 25.

Man Found Guilty on Reckless Count

Kenneth Alexander, 48, 729 W. Cucharras St., was found guilty of reckless driving by Judge Allan Asher Tuesday in Municipal Court on a complaint by Mary King of 305 E. Las Vegas St.

Mrs. King testified that on Aug. 19, while driving in the left lane over the viaduct on West Colorado Avenue, Alexander cut in front of her from the right lane because of a slow truck in front of his car, causing her to come to a complete stop.

She said Alexander made no signals and after he pulled in front of her car, he then pulled back into the right lane in front of the truck. She also charged the man with reckless driving, but Judge Asher handed down a not guilty finding on this.

In other cases Tuesday, Judge Asher handed down guilty findings against the following: Jonathon Downing, 19, 618 Pioneer Lane, failure to yield the right of way, $10;

Deputy Attorney Bob Isaac defended for the city.

Mrs. Patricia Hallam of Denver changed her plea to guilty to a reckless driving charge and was fined $50 with $25 suspended. Isaac dropped the careless driving charge. Disposition on a charge of injury to city property was continued until Sept. 25.

Judge Asher found Larrry Fenner, 20, Ft. Carson, not guilty of a careless driving charge but told the soldier he could consider this a warning.

By mutual request, charges of reckless driving Ruby Hunter, 35, 2816 Garland Ter., and Kenneth Shafer, 42, 523 E. Kiowa St., had brought against each other were dismissed.

United Fund Drive Launched On Summit of Pikes Peak

The $484,000 United Fund Campaign was launched Tuesday from the summit of Pikes Peak.

Two cog trains provided by the Broadmoor disappeared in the afternoon into the fog shrouding Mount Manitou. The passengers were businessmen, campaign leaders and representatives of the news media and military installations.

Falling snow was encountered at 11,000 feet as the grade increased and trains were climbing a foot for every four feet of track.

The trains reached the 14,110-foot summit and everyone hurried through the 25-degree air into the warm summit house. There were a few snowballs tossed.

Maj. Gen. A. J. Maroun, commander of Ft. Carson, pulled a symbolic switch and two bulbs were lighted on the Mount Manitou Incline.

The lights on the large campaign indicator showed that $70,000 had been raised to launch the United Fund.

For the third consecutive year the first light glowed as tribute to the military and civilian personnel of Ft. Carson who pledged $35,000 to assist the 33 health, welfare and character building agencies of the United Fund.

The second light represented the combined gifts reported by all other drive divisions. The largest single contributor other than Ft. Carson was the management and employees of Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co., who reported over $12,000.

This was announced during the "summit meeting" by William Pfeiffer of Harris-Upham Co., campaign chairman.

"We think this is unique and everyone is having a good time," Pfeiffer commented.

Mayor Harry Hoth praised the United Fund for its "balanced program meeting human needs" and designated the next 30 days "United Fund Month."

United Fund President James Russell presided over the brief ceremony in the summit house.

Then everyone piled back in the trains for the trip down the Peak.

Des Moines Man Heads Claim Association

Kenneth Barrows of Des Moines, a vice president of Bankers Life Co. was named president of the International Claim Association, now holding its 55th annual meeting at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Barrows succeeds William J. McBurney, executive general manager of the Prudential Insurance Co. of Newark, N.J.

A business meeting and the election of association officers climaxed the I.C.A.'s three-day meet. Activities included major speeches, and workshops in individual health insurance, group insurance and life insurance claims.

Roy Davis Bids Nostalgic Farewell To Antlers in Speech Tuesday Night

A nostalgic farewell to the Antlers Hotel, doomed to demolition, was heard by members of the Historical Society of the Pikes Peak Region Tuesday night when Roy A. Davis, long a leader in the community and state business, civic and political affairs, contrasted bustling Colorado Springs of 1964 with the "simple life" in a city of 29,000 in 1916.

Whatever the future dictates as its destiny, the Antlers Hotel will survive as long as there are those who remember or read from Pikes Peak Region history the hallmark it represents in the building of pioneer and modern Colorado Springs, he said.

"There probably isn't a single street in all the world so vividly pictured on colored postcards as our own Pikes Peak Avenue, looking westward to and then up and above the Antlers Hotel. Its architectural beauty is reminiscent of that once confined to European spas. Its red tile roof and exotic turrets stand etched against the background of the world's most famous mountain peak.

"It was here at the Antlers, nationally and internationally known, that some of the most ambitious programs for community development were charted.

"It was within the hallowed precincts of this wonderful hostelry that the social whirl swept to new heights at the turn of the century. It was here too that romance blossomed and glorious honeymoons were spent.

"It was here that businessmen held conferences for pushing the community forward, and it was at the Antlers that politicos of both political parties gathered in smoke-filled rooms for consultation on plans and platforms that would 'save the nation,' solve all our problems, and above all else be properly weighted with such promises as would prove of greatest voter appeal."

Davis remembered the famed cuisine of Matre de Bergere that delighted gourmets.

"Mushroom soup cost 60 cents, no small price a half century ago. "But fashioned and served Antlers style, it was worth it," he recalled.

"Who among pioneers will ever forget when the Antlers was the pride and joy of all the community? Who would erase from memory if they could the recollection of dapper Frank Loper in plum and gold uniform ushering into the lobby the great and near - great from many states and nations? And who can but remember him who stood at the helm of this famous old hostelry — crusty, sagacious George A. Krause?"

Davis reminded his audience that "the old order changeth" and suggested: "As we look back, let us immediately look forward to tomorrow with high hopes and great expectations."

Recalling the Colorado Springs of a half century ago, Davis said: "Majestic old Pikes Peak looked down upon us exactly as it does today. But then it saw no thriving metropolis of military installations, no expanding industry and business, no population bursting at the seams.

"Rather, it saw a Colorado Springs with a population of 29,000 whose greatest fame was as a health and tourist center, where tuberculous patients came to regain health and where the natives were content to 'live off each other' most of the year while waiting for a tourist season of two or three months to bolster the sagging economy."

Without radio or TV, there was more time to become acquainted with one another and a greater spirit of friendliness existed, Davis said.

"Somehow, in our simple way we went on having lots of fun and enjoying tranquility without tranquilizers.

"It wasn't thought necessary in those long ago days to serve cocktails at every social gathering in order to promote geniality or to prevent people from becoming bored with each other.

"There was neither Volstead act or the 18th Amendment in those days but Colorado Springs was theoretically dry, but one had only to know the fellow at the soda fountain to get a stimulating beverage in a beef - tea cup.

"Many tourists were a bit perplexed why so many patrons of the soda fountain drank beef tea during the hot summer months and were further bewildered with the price of 25 cents."

Back in 1916, Davis recalled, the city had 8 or 10 blocks of paving. El Paso County had 2,120 motor vehicles. This year the county motor vehicles topped 84,000. Colorado has more automobiles today than the entire country's total in 1916.

Transportation then was on street cars, with fares a nickel in town and 10 cents to Manitou Springs; bank deposits were $14 million, less than a tenth of today's figure; no parking meters and no traffic cops were needed; rump roasts sold for 17 cents a pound; movie admission was 10 cents.

"We didn't make much money in those days, but we didn't need much to provide life's necessities and quite a few luxuries. In the spring of 1916, one of our leading merchants was closing out his stock of Knox and Stetson winter hats at $1.85 and his remaining stock of Hart, Shaffner and Marx winter suits and overcoats at $10."

Taxes were neither as numer-

suits and overcoats at $10."

Taxes were neither as numerous nor as burdensome — no state income tax, no gasoline tax, no sales tax or cigaret tax.

Davis said his first federal income tax payment was $36.14. On the same income today, the tax would be $900.

"In 1916, 71 per cent of our taxpayers had an income of less than $2,500 a year. Only 8 per cent could boast an income in excess of $5,000. A married man with an annual net income of $10,000 paid an income tax of $60.

"At that time the government had money but the average citizen was either broke or badly bent. Today, the government is broke and if we don't have money, it doesn't prevent us from pretending we do."

Davis recalled the thrill of watching horse-drawn fire wagongs, the fun of joining thousands of fans packing Pikes Peak Avenue to watch World Series plays on the Evening Telegraph's electric scoreboard, rides on open air street cars to free dances at Stratton Park pavilion, and the Sunday afternoon pastime of watching the girls stroll by the Busy Corner.

"Many a budding romance flowered at the Busy Corner in those early times. The girls dressed much differently then, leaving much to the imagination. Perhaps it was better that way. We know that today's electric calculating machines and the one-piece bathing suit have eliminated a lot of guess work."

Checkmates Are Checked In 'Cannon' City Monday

The wizardry of this electronic age still has to contend with the frailty of humanity, as was revealed Monday night in Canon City.

A group of electric guitarists and bass players, calling themselves "The Checkmates," showed up in the city Monday night to present a highly-touted act to Canon City youngsters.

The act, featuring "contemporary" dancing for the group's youthful enthusiasts, was much heralded over the electronic marvel of the age — radio station KOMA in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Scores of KOMA listening Canon City teenagers waited with anticipation for Monday night, said by the announcer to be the date set for The Checkmates, a wild, swinging, musical group. Many of the Checkmate fans saved money, especially for the occasion.

The trouble is that when the nine-member teen-aged group showed up, there was no place to plug in their instruments.

Somehow in the long distance arranging and publicity, The Checkmates forgot to check with the group's advance man, who did not arrive in Canon City to make arrangements for a hall for the performance.

The announcements over the Oklahoma radio station said the show would start at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Annex building in Canon City — and that is where carloads of teen-agers waited.

Mrs. Betty Brotherton, finance officer for the City of Canon City, said she received a call from Tulsa, Okla., about three weeks ago, requesting the hall be reserved for The Checkmates. She explained that certain arrangements had to be made, and was assured a representative would be out to make them.

No one ever showed up — except The Checkmates' who arrived at the scene, crowded with Canon City youngsters surrounding the dark and empty Annex building.

Although most of the city's young people knew of the show, only a few adults, those who are "in," or who happened to hear KOMA beaming out its message, were aware of The Checkmates, and their planned arrival.

One youthful listener even called the station by long-distance phone to tell the announcer he was pronouncing Canon City wrong. He was saying "Cannon City," not "Canyon City."

Mrs. Brotherton said the leader of the group, Ray Ruff, told her their advance man should have shown up to make arrangements. Required by the city is a $75 deposit for the building, a dancing license, and two officers to keep watch in the crowd.

Leo Sellers, an officer who was off-duty, said he agreed to a last minute request to patrol the dance with another off-duty officer, but just after he prepared a freshly pressed uniform, he was notified that the show would not go on.

Apparently the group decided last minute arrangements would be too difficult to manage, and called the whole thing off — at least temporarily. Mrs. Brotherton said The Checkmates have tentatively made arrangements to use the hall on Friday Nov. 13.

There was some talk among the teen-agers that the Checkmates would "respond to the loyalty of their fans in Canon City," and be back Sunday evening, but Mrs. Brotherton said, as yet, the group did not make a reservation that night for the hall.

Tuesday night The Checkmates plan to appear in Lamar, and Wednesday night in Enid, Okla.

After their scheduled performance fizzled out The Checkmates did what many teenagers do when they find themselves at loose ends — they went to the movies.

Wrongful Death Suit Filed in District Court

A $30,219.67 wrongful death suit was filed in District Court Tuesday by Elvira Sanchez against Donald C. Phillips.

Mrs. Sanchez who is the mother of six minor children and wife of the late Lee G. Sanchez who died May 23, alleges that her husband's death was due to the negligence of the defendant who hit him with his car.

According to the complaint the accident happened on South Tejon Street and Phillips was driving too fast, failed to maintain control of his vehicle and failed to give the victim "a timely signal" by blowing on his horn or taking other action.

Former Union Boss Loses Court Appeal

MONTREAL (AP) — Hal C. Banks, onetime boss of the Seafarers' International Union, failed to show up in court Tuesday and lost his appeal of a five-year prison sentence.

The American-born Banks was convicted earlier this year of conspiracy to assault an organizer for a rival union in 1957. Justice Lucien Tremblay of the Quebec Court of Appeals dismissed the appeal.

Banks, 56, has been missing since mid-July. The prosecution initiated steps for forfeiture of his $25,000 bail.

Accused Killer Charged With Two More Deaths

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A Negro who pleaded guilty to two murders but went free because of the U.S. Supreme Court's Gideon decision, has been charged with killing two more persons.

Wallace Pless, 65, is charged with shooting Carrie Stinson, 50, and Precious Rollins, 47, Monday night.

Pless, whose criminal record started in 1917 when he was sentenced to five years for manslaughter, pleaded guilty in 1956 to killing Pearly Hall and John Lee. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was not represented by an attorney.

Last year, the Supreme Court ruled that penniless persons convicted without an attorney were denied constitutional rights. The decision was made in the case of Clarence Earl Gideon of Panama City, Fla., who had been convicted of breaking and entering.

Pless won a new trial. The charges were reduced to second-degree murder. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years probation.

Looking at Hollywood

HEDDA DONS COURTIN' HAT TO JOIN TIV's HILLBILLIES

HOLLYWOOD — When Paul Henning phoned a few months ago and said he'd like to write me into a Beverly Hillbillies TV show, I thought he was kidding. He made good and last week I put on my courtin' hat and worked in one of the craziest capers the Clampett clan ever turned out. Jed buys himself a movie studio; I go all out to save it; he makes a picture with the family, silent style; and away we went.

Buddy Ebsen pulled a little surprise the first day by inviting me to his bungalow for champagne and tacos with Irene Rayn and Max Baer. Donna Douglas had something else on her mind. When Henning's pretty blonde daughter Carol, who works in the office, delivered the mail, she got champagne, too.

Everybody in England knew Buddy when he took the family there this summer. They were all lined up with other tourists for a trip through the duke of Bedford's estate, Woburn Abbey. The duchess, who was selling postcards, recognized him, pulled them all out of the line and took them to private quarters for lunch. They had a smashing time, so Ebsen invited them to Hollywood. "We'll put you in the Hillbillies," he promised. They can't wait.

Buddy asked if I ever watched a country horse race in Ireland: "Darndest thing you ever saw. Dozens of kids get right out on the track and the guards shoo 'em off a split second before the horses dash by. They go up a hill and down a valley and you can't even see them. Before they return the kids are back on the track. People come to the races in pony carts, dog carts, on mule back, in every conveyance you've ever seen and some you haven't."

Irene Ryan told me how she looks after Max Baer on their personal appearances. He's mighty popular with all the girls, but Granny keeps them at their distance. I asked him why he had never married: "My dad told me not to unless I found a girl I couldn't live without." Max and his father were very close. He's a good friend of young John Barrymore, who frequently sleeps and eats in his apartment. "I had the advantage of a wonderful father," says Max. "Jack rarely saw his."

Donna Douglas is a lovely girl, and really does have a special touch with critters. She hypnotizes the beasts. There was a lion on the set that went for everybody; but she led him right out a door. As they made their exit they were smiling at each other. She spends most of her money flying down south to be with her 9-year-old son who lives with her parents. Once Max asked her for a date. When he arrived at her house, she said, "Were going to church." And they did.

Florence Celebrates 37th Annual Pioneer Days Event

With a neck-sanpping roar of deck-flying Air Force jets and the wail of sirens, the 37th annual Pioneer Days celebration was launched Saturday morning on Main Street of Florence with a colorful parade which attracted thousands of persons from the surrounding area.

Led by the 179th Army Band from Ft. Carson, the parade included bands from Florence, Canon City, and Widefield as well as twirling groups from thoughout Fremont County.

Politicians, Boy Scout, antique car clubs, and several mounted groups added to the colorful half-hour long parade.

Top prize money for the best pioneer theme floats went to Beta Sigma Phi, first; Florence Eagles Auxiliary, second; Knights of Columbus, third.

Business firms throughout the community also decoarted their store windows for the occasion and prizes were awarded the top three firms in this division including L. L. Tripp Insurance, first; Town Liquor Store, second; and Vona's Flower Shop, third.

Immediately following the parade at 11:30, over a hundred pioneer residents of the area, those who have lived in sFremont or Custer counties over 60 years, were registered at Pioneer Park and served a luncheon by the Pioneer Day Association assisted by the Eagles Auxiliary.

J. Walter Martin, Florence postmaster, served as master of ceremonies at the program which followed at 1:30 p.m. Mayor Charles Cristelli gave the welcome address to the old timers followed by a word of greeting from Pioneer Day President Harley Carmichael.

The pioneer king and queen for the day, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bigelow, were introduced to the crowd and a variety of music and entertainment skits were offered.

With the park program concluded at 2:45, the dedication of the new Pioneer Museum on South Pikes was held at 3 p.m.

The Pioneer Players, a group of Florence folks interted in theatre porductions, staged a melodrama Saturday night at the Florence high school auditorium entitled, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," or "Tempted, Tried and True." A dance at the Florence school gym concluded the first of the two day celebration.

Scheduled Sunday was the much-touted Victor to Florence Pony Express race which started at Victory at 10:30 a.m. Last year four riders entered the race but only three completed the gruelling 40-mile test of endurance.

A box social was held at Pioneer Park Sunday at noon and a Jackpot Gymkhana wound up the colorful event Sunady afternoon at the Florence rodeo grounds south of the city. The gymkhana was put on by members of the Florence Saddle and Roping Club for the Pioneer Day Board.

STICKY STRINGS REACHING FOR LIFE ON MARS

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is developing a package of life-seeking sticky strings as one experiment planned for a spacecraft intended to land on Mars in 1969.

When the unmanned craft lands on the Martian surface, explosive charges will shoot each of the three strings out 50 feet. The strings will be reeled in mechanically, with the sticky substance picking up soil particles.

Inside the spacecraft, the particles will be doused with a sterile broth laced with radioisotopes. Should the Martian soil contain any living organisms, they should begin to grow within four hours and produce a radio active gas. The gas would be detected by a transistorized geiger counter and the information radioed to earth.

The experiment could provide other planet.

Broadway Stars Grow Slower Than on Films

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Two of the brightest young musical comedy performers, headed for major stardom, are Bernice Massi of "What Makes Sammy Run?" and Dick Patterson of "Fade Out, Fade In." If each plays 8 performances a week for 52 weeks, and every seat is sold for every performance, by the end of the year Bernice will have been seen by 520,416 people and Dick by 653,952.

It's possible to be a steady Broadway performer, but it's the nature of the business for it to take a much longer time for that magic box-office lure of a "name" to grow.

Bernice Massi, a tall, shapely, attractive brunette, is presently the biggest witch on Broadway. 'In "What Makes Sammy Run?" she portrays a glamorous, depraved tarantula of a female who brings to Steve Lawrence, as running Sammy Glick, a well-deserved comeuppance.

She's a powerful performer, with a big voice, as she has proved in "Sammy," and her earlier Broadway appearance in Richard Rodgers' "No Strings." There she played a loud, extremely rish, man-crazy Texan. She was a nicer girl than she is in "Sammy," but still not as nice as she is in real life.

"There's another side of me no one knows," she smiles, as she says that she would like very much to play a nice girl on Broadway, adding, "Oh, how I would love to do a straight show."

It was "No Strings" which brought Bernice out of the mire of small parts and to the attention of major Broadway producers. Richard Rodgers recalls her audition: "We saw her and fell in love and accepted her. She's a strong performer, and a darling girl. There are certain roles she can't play, but there are certain things she can do better than anyone else. And she is well behaved. A nice kid."

Bernice was born in Camden, N.J., to a non-theater family. "But I am not looked on as the black sheep. My family always encouraged me in my ambitions."

She is one of the few performers to come out of the chorus to leading roles. (A show business gag has it that stars usually aren't good enough singers to be in the chorus.) After the usual struggle, she joined the Ray Charles Singers, and for the next year and a half she was on weekly television backing up such singers as Steve Lawrence, Eydie Gorme, Sally Ann Howes and Jayne Morgan, as well as Perry Como.

Bernice says she is generally inhibited on television as a result of the second Como show. "They put me directly behind Perry to see how I photographed. After the rehearsal Ray Charles said, 'She looks very good, but I can't hear anyone else singing.' "

She also says that she is a loser as far as a motion picture career goes. "I keep hearing that I am up for movies. I heard I was up for a picture with Rock Hudson, and another one with Elvis Presley. But I never met with a casting director or had a screen test."

Bernice would also like to convince Broadway casting directors that she considers herself an actress who sings and moves well. But an actress first. "I understudied Anne Bancroft in 'Two For the Seesaw.' That should prove that I am a straight actress, but I have trouble convincing people of this."

Newspaper Says UCLA Had 12 Men

LOS ANGELES (AP)—UCLA has denied a charge that it had a 12th man illegally on the field—and that the 12th man helped make a tackle—at a critical point in the Bruins' game against the Pittsburgh Panthers last Saturday.

The Pittsburgh Post Gazette said Tuesday that the villain was quarterback Larry Zeno, who had a hand in every point the Bruins scored in their 17-12 upset victory over Pitt.

The newspaper said Zeno came off the UCLA bench in the final minute of the game and helped stop Pittsburgh quarterback Fred Mazurek, keeping him from going out of bounds and also keeping the clock running.

The clock ran out with Pitt on the Bruin 21.

Pittsburgh oCach John Michelosen said the game movies show that a UCLA player "does come off the bench and goes on the field."

Zeno had passed for both UCLA touchdowns and had kicked a field goal and two conversions.

First Three AL Teams Near Deadlock in Race

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eight percentage points blanket the three American League pennant contenders today and it's more than a Chance happening.

A good part of the credit, of course, belongs to Dean Chance, the Los Angeles Angels' marvelous right-hander whose two-hit, 7-0 mastery of New York Tuesday night helped send the Yankees reeling into third place in the flag race.

But Minnesota's Rich Rollins, who drove in both runs in a 2-1 close call over Baltimore that prevented the Orioles from padding their lead, rates a nod. So do Smoky Burgess, a 37-year-old AL "rookie," and Marv Staehle, a first-time swinger, who lifted the Chicago White Sox back into the second spot by engineering a 3-2, 10-inning verdict over Detroit.

The White Sox' victory put them one percentage point ahead of the Yankees, who trail the Orioles by seven points and 1½ games. Chicago and Baltimore each have 14 games left, five less than New York.

Chance, the league's top winer and No. 1 Yankee killer, breezed to his 19th victory and 10th shutout. Four victories and three whitewash jobs have come against the Yanks, who have managed one run — a Mickey Mantle homer — in 50 turns at bat against the fireballing Angel.

Rollins' seventh inning double pulled the Twins into a 1-1 tie at Baltimore and his triple in the ninth broke the deadlock.

Burgess, whom the White Sox acquired from Pittsburgh Monday in an inter-league waiver deal, and Staehle, brought up Tuesday from their Indianapolis farm club, delivered key hits in their first league appearances.

Smoky's pinch hit homer off Tiger ace Dave Wickersham tied the score at 2-2 in the eighth and Staehle's pinch hit single in the 10th scored J.C. Martin with the run that broke it up.

Boston rookie Ed Connolly fired a two-hitter against Kansas City and the Red Sox cracked 14 hits for an 8-0 victory in the only other game played. The Washington-Cleveland game was rained out.

Bobby Richard'son's infield single in the fourth and opposing pitcher Al Downing's seventh inning single were the only hits off Chance, who lowered his major league-leading earned run average to 1.49. Even more impressive are his figures against the Yankees.

Chance was locked in a 1-0 York is 0.18 and the Yankees have a meager .086 batting average in five season encounters with him. He set LA season records of 253 2-3 innings pitched and 187 strikeouts Tuesday night, fanning eight.

Chance was lock d in a 1-0 duel with Downing, whose seven strikeouts boosted his league-leading total to 196, until Joe Adcock triggered a six-run ninth inning explosion with his 21st home run. Before the inning was over, Willie Smith had pinch-hit a bases-loaded triple off reliever Hal Reniff and the Angels were home free.

Minnesota used six pitchers to hold the Orioles, Al Worthington getting the final out in the ninth with the tying run on third base. Rollins' ninth-inning triple off Harvey Haddix, third of four Baltimore hurlers, followed a pinch single by Frank Kostro.

Back-to-back doubles by rookie Jay Ward and Rollins in the seventh matched the Orioles' run in the third, fashioned on a single by Jack Brandt, a sacrifice, intentional walk and Bob Johnson's RBI single.

Chicago's Martin opened the 10th with a single off Wickersham, who failed in his bid for victory No. 19. Martin reached second on winning pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm's sacrifice bunt and took third on a passed ball before Staehle came through with a hit to left.

Wickersham checked the White Sox on one run and three hits until Burgess homered in the eighth. The Tigers, held to two hits through six innings by Joel Horlen, scored both their runs in the seventh with the help of Don Buford's throwing error. Bill Freehan's infield hit delivered the first run and the other crossed on an infield out.

Connolly, who has lost 10 of his previous 12 decision, held the Athletics hitless until the sixth, when Bert Campaneris doubled.

BETWEEN THE LINES

CC's Sudden Death

With about the same joy as you would expect in the midst of a funeral parlor, a brief conference was called last week in that part of Cossitt Hall which houses the coaching clique of Colorado College. A decision was soon to be made to at least postpone one of the most imaginative and certainly unusual one-man efforts toward bringing a football team to long lost prominence.

It all started more than a year ago when a rather bright young student at the local college took it upon himself to pull his school off the back pages of sports sections around the region. It ended, at least temporarily, when illness and fate stepped in.

As most regular readers of these pages know, Steve (Sudden Death) Sabol is a CC fullback with perhaps little more than average talents on the football field — but an extraordinary flare of imagination.

A couple years ago he came to Colorado Springs with a special eagerness to make good on the gridiron, gain some renown for himself . . . and uppermost in his mind was a determination to change the attitude of fans toward his school and its athletics.

Steve says he was appalled by the lack of student spirit for the team and the empty seats at Washburn Field when he enrolled at CC. He happened to come here about the same time the Tigers were feeling the pinch of erstwhile glory on one side and the growth of big time football in the immediate area from the other.

It took some cooperation from the athletic department and especially from his coach, Jerry Carle, but this impish young man decided to take matters in his own hands.

The first step was a nickname that would catch the attention of those he was trying to reach. Since these monikers often take time to develop from special traits, it was only natural that he was to dream his own tag of "Sudden Death" since he couldn't wait for the usual and sometimes indefinite process.

Now Mr. Sabol, who actually is from Villanova, Pa., felt this didn't have the proper ring of a sensational football player so he listed himself from Coaltown. But that, too, failed to catch the eyes he was seeking. And then came the brainstorm of Possum Trot, Miss., which he enticed some innocent printer to include after his name in the team's brochure.

At the same time, he went a couple steps further; and this was what really did the trick. The fans that did frequent the CC stadium on game day browsed through the program and found a couple of advertisements that were out of the ordinary — to say the least.

One read: "The Possum Trot Chamber of Commerce congratulates Sudden Death Sabol on a fantastic season." the other was: "The girls on Cobb's Corner wish Sudden Death Sabol a very productive season."

You could guess who placed these ads. And you were right.

This was only the start as far as Sabol was concerned. He had planned other such gimmicks as selling kids T-shirts by the hundred which all were lettered with "I'm a little Pos sum Trotter." Another plan was to place a banner across the street near Colorado College reading "Welcome to the home of Sudden Death Sabol."

And what else was in store during this, his senior season, would defy the imagination of

Callison's Hitting Boosts Phillies

Winning ball games is getting to be a habit with Johnny Callison.

The Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder whose ninth inning homer won the All-Star game for the National League in July, again Tuesday night.

His sixth inning single scored Richie Allen from second base with the run that gave the pennant-bound Phils a 1-0 victory over the Houston Colts.

The Phils now lead the second place St. Louis Cardinals by six games with 17 left to play.

The Cards whipped Milwaukee in both ends of a twi-night doubleheader 11-6 and 3-1. Third place San Francisco beat the New York Mets 3-1 while the Chicago Cubs dimmed Cincinnati's hopes 6-1.

The Giants and Reds now trail the Phils by 7½ and 8½ games, respectively.

Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 5-3 in the other NL game.

Callison's game-winning single followed Allen's lead-off double in the sixth. Dennis Bennett and Jack Baldschun shared the pitching honors for the Phils by yielding only four hits. Bennett, lifted for a pinch-hitter in sixth, gave up three of them.

Baldschun saved the game for Bennett by twice putting down Houston threats. In the eighth Bob Aspromonte walked and went to third on a wild pitch. Anticipating a squeeze play, Baldschun threw three straight pitchouts. Aspromonte broke on the third outside pitch and was an easy out.

Al Spangler singled in the ninth and reached second on Baldschun's second wild pitch. Then Baldschun fanned Joe Gaines for the final out.

A five-run seventh inning gave the Cards their first game win over the Braves. Bob Gibson's four-hitter and Julian Javier's two-run homer defeated the Braves in the nightcap.

Javier's homer off rookie southpaw Wade Blasingame came with Mike Shannon on first and two out. That wiped out a 1-0 Milwaukee lead and accounted for the Cards' 17th victory in their last 22 games.

Juan Marichal pitched a four-hitter and Tom Haller homered for the winning run against the Mets to keep the Giants in contention, at least for second place money.

Larry Jackson became the first 20-game winner in the majors this season as the Cubs drubbed Cincinnati. Jackson yielded six hits, three of them in the first inning that accounted for the Reds' lone tally.

Willie Davis, Ron Fairly and Bart Shirley each got three hits to lead the Dodgers over Pittsburgh. Down 4-0, the Pirates pulled within 4-3 with two runs in the seventh before Bob Miller came in and saved the victory for Larry Miller.

Pro Wrestling Card Scheduled For Next Week

A double main event card is scheduled for next week at the City Auditorium as professional wrestling makes another appearance in Colorado Springs. The four-bout program is set for Thursday, Sept. 24.

As a special attraction, the popular Dory Funk Jr. from Texas will be matched in two bouts, with his first against Tokyo Tom and the nightcap with Larry Hening, a newcomer to the area. The battle with Tokyo Tom is slated for a one hour time limit. Henning boasts the North American championship.

In other bouts, Art Nielson will be another newcomer making his first showing in Colorado Springs. He will go against Ricky Romero in one of the early fights. And the other match pairs Red Raider against Black Bart in what promises to be an exciting feature.

Advance tickets for the pro mat card are on sale at Blick's Sporting Goods, 119 N. Tejon, and Ring Military, 122½ E. Pikes Peak.

Walter Browne is in his 12th year as golf coach at the United State Military Academy course at West Point, N.Y.

T-Birds Make Changes In Starting Backfield

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

When a team loses its first two games decisively, it's usually a sign that something less than a successful season is on the way!

That philosophy does not prevail at Wasson High School this fall, however. From head coach Gib Funk to the lowest reserve, the Thunderbrids figure that the experience gained through com bat with two of the state's finest high school clubs should soon start to pay off — and maybe it will happen this week end when the 'Birds travel north to battle Arvada West of the Jefferson County League.

Wasson's starts to date have resulted in a 19-6 defeat at the hands of Aurora Central and last Friday's 20-7 setback by powerful Lakewood. The latter contest, however, included an effort by the Thunderbirds which Funk called "very encouraging."

It also gave the Wasson staff a line on the youthful club which is almost certain to produce key changes when the 'Birds face a final test this week end before entering South Central League action.

Along those lines Funk revealed late Tuesday that he has been experimenting with a wholesale shuffle in the back field. The key change moves heralded halfback, Jim Smith, to the quarterback slot. The senior veteran, who worked briefly at that position as a sophomore in 1962, has been regarded as the team's slickest runner and one of its most valuable pass receivers. His switch to the signal-calling spot will undoubtedly add versatility to the Wasson attack, giving it a strong threat on rollouts.

Included in the Tuesday move is fullback Bob Toof, who rejoined the Thunderbird lineup for brief work last Friday after a pre season injury. With Smith at quarterback, Toof moves to the vacated left-halfback position. Junior Bob Oyler, who missed the Lakewood game with a muscle-pull, goes in at fullback and Dewey Winter, a 189-pound junior, who ran well against the Tigers, retains his right-halfback slot.

Changes are also contemplated in the line, where the Thunderbird staff saw signs of promise during the Lakewood tilt. Tackle Yogi Grandecourt was praised by his coaches for excellent play both ways. Winter and Terry Skodack were stout players at defensive ends and guard Keith Campbell was also a standout in the T - Birds' fierce, but futile, battle against the talented upstate team.

The caliber of early competition has left the Thunderbirds with something less than their usually impressive offensive figures. This year's club has managed a total of only 298 yards net offense in the first two contests, including just 205 yards on the ground.

A goodly part of the Wasson troubles are told by the 13 fumbles in two games. Five of those were lost in the Aurora Central contest, strongly contributing to that defeat. Wasson lost another bobble against Lakewood.

Smith has been the top all-around offensive player to date. He has a net of 107 yards for a per carry average of 3.8 in the opening contests. Winter, with 46 yards, is next, and Oyler has 42, all coming in the Aurora game.

Smith is also the top pass receiver with three catches for 58 yards. End Mike Martin has gathered in the other three receptions for 35 yards. Rod Wells, the quarterback in those battles, has hit on 6 of 16 attempts.

This weekend's opponent, Arvada West, has split in its first two games. The new Denver suburban school, which is in its second year, lost to Englewood and then whipped West minster 22-0 last week. Arvada West is a veteran club, with good size in the line. Wasson will be shooting for a second straight triumph in the series, after a 41-0 victory last year.

BACK

Doug Heyliger, Cheyenne Mountain halfback, has been named Back of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for performance in the Indians' 41-0 win over Mapleton last Saturday.

In his first starting role, the 150-pound junior combined with fullback Doug Cramblit to spark Cheyenne's potent offense. Heyliger gained 103 yards in just five carries and included was a 56 yard touchdown run and a 54 yard scoring play in which he took a pass from quarterback Ted Garcia. It was his first T. D. scamper, on a reverse late in the first quarter, that really demoralized the Mapleton team.

Others mentioned for the honor this week were Cramblit, who gained 115 yards in the same game, Dan Grigsby of Fountain, Bill Doud of Harrison, Eldon Lee of Widefield, Ben Bryant of Palmer, Jon Sparks and Bill Wood, Air Academy High, Chris White and Gary Dobson of St. Mary's, and Jim Smith f Wasson.

LINEMAN

David Smith, 150-pound senior end of the St. Mary's Pirates, has been named Lineman of the Week by the Gazette-Telegraph Sports Department for his outstanding play in the Bucs' 7-0 triumph over Machebeuf in Denver Sunday.

Smith, who drew the praises of his coaches for his excellent defensive play on one of the Pirates' flanks, was a leader in the line that halted Machebeuf with just 18 net yards from scrimmage during the afternoon. Smith repeatedly broke through a break up the Buffaloes' sweeps before they got started.

The St. Mary's senior was a close choice for the honor over Wasson's Yogi Grandcourt. The Thunderbird senior turned in an outstanding two-way effort against the bigger Lakewood line in Wasson's 20-7 loss Friday. Others who were consideredincluded Rick Sutton of Widefield, Tom McBroom of Harrison, Bill Massarand of Cheyenne Mountain, and defensive ends Dewey Winters and Terry Skodack of Wasson.

Terrors Preparing For Tough Lamar

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

With two apparently strong teams coming up in the next two weeks, Palmer coach Bill Westbay is seeking a plan to eliminate the cause of fumbles in Saturday's loss to Golden.

"We haven't seen films of the game yet," said Westbay. "One fumble was caused by a bad handoff. I believe some others were just dropped.

"We have to stop things like that. We don't have the strength to make mistakes and then overcome them later."

Palmer is preparing this week for Lamar, which clipped Pueblo Centennial, 14-13, last week.

"The score was tight," indicated Westbay. "But Lamar pushed Centennial all over the field."

The next week the Terrors travel to Loveland, which made an impression on the football scene last week by beating Denver East, 12-7. Guessperts are still wondering whether Loveland actually had the strength to manhandle East, or whether the Denver powerhouse had an offday.

Last week's Lamar-Centennial game, teamed with the results of Palmer's game Friday in Wasson Stadium, could give an indication of results three weeks from now. Palmer opens its South Central League season by hosting Centennial on Oct. 2.

If two possibly tough games are something which are not especially looked forward to with joy and eagerness, another event is. Westbay is looking for the return of halfback Bob Wake in two weeks. The 180-pound senior has been out the entire season with an injured knee.

Although Lamar and Loveland are not pushovers on their records, neither is Palmer's 1-1 record an indication of the potential available to play football.

Palmer leads by good margins in five major statistical categories. The Terrors hold advantages in points scored, first downs, total yards gained, yards gained rushing and punting. Terror hurlers have used only nine passes, compared to 25 for two opponents, but had completed six for 65 yards.

The two workhorses for Palmer, fullback Ben Bryant and halfback Dennis Bair, have performed creditably at their chores. Bair who gained only three yards last season, has netted 147 this year for a 6.7 average. Bryant has rolled up 173 yards, not losing one, for a 4.8 per carry average. Bryant has been stopped for no gain only once.

St. Mary's Gets 'Breather' Sunday Against Mt. Carmel

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Chuck Haering's young grid team, owner of two impressive successive wins, gets somewhat of a breather this weekend as the St. Mary's gridders tangle with Mt. Carmel, Sunday at Regis Stadium in Denver.

Kick off time is set for 1 p.m., and the St. Mary's-Mt. Carmel encounter is the opener of a twin bill engagement with Regis meeting Holy Family in the second outing at 3 p.m.

Other Denver Parochial League games on Sunday call for St. Francis pitted against St. Joseph's and Cathedral takes on Annuncion. Both games are scheduled to be played at Mullen Stadium and round out Sunday's slate.

Last week in northern territory, the Colorado Springs Catholic school team passed its second straight test of the season, dumping highly regarded Machebeuf, 7-0. The previous week the Pirates defeated the State Class AA champion Cheyenne Mountain, 12-7, in an inter-city rivalry which saw the St. Mary's aggregation stop the power-running Indian forward attack.

Haering's charges, although lacking offensive drive, once again proved outstanding on defense as the Pirates forward wall contained the Machebeuf eleven to a mere 18 net yards rushing. However, the Buffs' aerial attack penetrated the Bucs' defenses to pick up 118 yards passing on seven pass completions.

The Pirates, on the other hand, couldn't find the working formula via the air which was an integral part of their offense last season with quarter back Jerry Knauf completing 24 of 52 attempts for 530 yards. But the senior St. Mary's field general has yet to hit his receivers with consistency; he's only completed one of eight pass attempts.

Slot back Chris White provided the spark which ignited the St. Mary's offense against Machebeuf last weekend as the 150-pound senior returned a punt 72 yards to score the only TD of the game and put the victory on ice for the Pirates.

Haering related during practice drills Tuesday that he credited the win over Machebeuf as a defensive team effort and lauded end David Smith and White for their endeavors. But the Pirate coach, in his third term at St. Mary's and the school's most successful football coach directing the 1962 team to the DPL championship, indicated that he was disappointed in the offensive showing.

Haering said that the Prates haven't been able to break loose with their scat backs and the middle has been jammed as the opposition stopped their ace fullback, Sam Zavatti. Zavatti was the team's leading ground gainer last season with over 500 yards rushing but the remarkable thing about the then-152 pound fullback was that he only lost seven yards rushing — in two games this season Zavatti has been tagged for five yards lost rushing.

Little Gary Dobson, 125-pound running back, leads the Pirates in rushing this season with 131 net yards on 25 carries for a 5.2 average. Zavatti is second with 81 yards, followed by White with 78 yards.

Pentathlon Team To Be Announced

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Both the national champion and the U.S. modern pentathlon Olympics team will be decided today and defending champion Jim Moore has a 37 point lead going into the final event.

Moore finished third in cross country Tuesday and the 1,213 points he gained boosted his total to 3,932. He replaced Paul Pesthy at the top.

Pesthy could do no better than 940 points in the run and now has a total of 3,895.

Moore is from Erie, Pa., and Pesthy is a Rutgers University student.

Russ Lash of Indianapolis won the cross-country run over a 4,000-meter course, in 13:32 for 1,264 points. It put him ninth in the over all standings.

The Olympic committee will pick four men from the group competing here to represent the United States at Tokyo and will make the announcement tonight after the final event — riding.

Buffaloes Polishing for Opening Game

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Coach Eddie Crowder made one shift in his lineup Tuesday as the University of Colorado Buffs made a last minute effort to polish their play for this Friday's opener against the Southern California Trojans.

Crowder switched sophomore back George Reese of Jackson, Miss., to the running-back position from slot-back.

The coach is expected to name his traveling squad late today. The entir team ran through short practice in drizzle Tuesday.

Only one player was on the doubtful list—senior guard Dick Mankowski who has the flu.

BRUSSELS — New laundries will open in Belgium.

Kennel Mates Hold Spotlight at RMKC

After hitting the high Quiniela pay-off for the season at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club in the second race Tuesday, night, the 11th race recorded the first dead heat of the current meet which was markings its 21st night.

Frank F. Pierce's Jamaica King and Joe Mamino's Kissin Count teamed up in the second race to bring in the 1-7 Quinlela combination for a pay-off of $240.20, passing the old record of $197.40 set in the first days of the meet. Jamaica King paid $39.80, $9.40 and $8.80 with Kissin Count paying $7.80 and $9.20.

Alderson and Lentz's Marker Ten had won the first race from the number 8 box to make the 8-7 Daily Double pay $398.60.

In the 11th race, win honors went to the Star Club Kennel's Casandra from the number 7 box at $24, $7.20 and $4.40. For place finish it was a dead heat, the first of the season with the number three greyhound, She's Slave W. paying $3.60 and $3.60 and the number six greyhound, Wealthy Son, paying $5.60 and $4.60.

The split Quiniela paid $21.40 on the 3-7 and $42.60 on the 6-7. For the Twin Quin, it was the second straight night for a split pool. The 6-8 with the 3-7 paid $307 and the 6-8 with the 6-7 paid $688.40.

In the ninth race feature, the win went to Another Johnny as he made his eighth effort and seventh money finish on the RMKC oval. He has now tallied four wins, two place finishes and a show.

Two Rebels Pace Amateur Golf

CLEVELAND (AP) — The National Amateur Golf Championship has a television rating about as high as a United Nations debate on low life in the Upper Volta, but you'd never know if by watching the players.

"I'm afraid they tend to think they're on television," said Joe Dey, head man of the U.S. Golf Association.

"And of course they copy what they see the pros do on TV."

Dey was sighing about the slow play of the amatuers.

Only last week, Arnold Palmer was fuming about the sick snail's pace the pros set these days — and the amateurs are dragging along right behind.

When the boys got through straggling around the Canterbury course Tuesday, it took a score of 153 for the 36 holes to qualify for the title bracket.

Exactly 64 players of the field of 150 got in at 153 or better, so there was no need for a playoff in the gloom.

Two young southerners, Marvin Giles III of Lynchburg, Va., and Robert Greenwood Jr., of Cookeville, Tenn., led the way with scores of 143, one over par.

All the name players made it. Bill Campbell had 146, Downing Gray 147, Billy Joe Patton and Dr. Ed Updegraff 148 and defender Deane Beman 149.

The 64 survivors go into match play now, with two 18 hole matches today and two Thursday. The semifinals and finals — all at 36 holes — are Friday and Saturday.

Match play should speed up the action, but during the qualifying stroke play, it was beginning to look like the winner would come in with the yule tide.

Dey described the pace of play this way:

"A fellow hit his ball on the green, and he marks it with a coin, and he cleans it. Then he look the putt over.

"That takes so long it will soon require a degree in civil engineering to putt.

"He misses, say from 20 feet. He's a foot short, so he marks the ball again, and cleans it off. Then he puts it down, surveys again, and putts.

"You have three fellows do that every green and it takes time."

Dey said it was all within the rules, and none of the golfers was holding up any other. "There are no gaps," he said. "We keep them moving right along. Everybody is keeping up. Everybody's slow, I'm afraid."

Dey said the recent rules changes allowing a player to clean his ball on the putting green any time, picked up first by the pros and now by the amateurs, is responsible for the slowness.

"I'm worried about what it's doing to the game," Dey said.

anyone but the one and only Sudden Death Sabol. As sports editor of the school's paper, The Tiger, he was not only interviewed on a regular basis but also acted as the questioner. Some of his articles may have lacked somewhat in journalistic tradition, but they were always controversial and likewise thoroughly read by the students and others who happened across copies.

His story has been flashed across the land by the major news services and in many cases it was probably the only time Colorado College gained column space in papers outside the immediate area. And then this summer he influenced a nationally distributed slick magazine, Sport, to print this unusual story of his publicity campaign.

To shorten a long, long tale of his efforts to bring himself and his team into the limelight, illness has cut his plans before the climax. With the best saved for last, and Sabol elected by his teammates as this year's captain, he was stricken with hepatitis just after school was dismissed for the summer.

He tried vainly to keep his sickness a secret, despite being hospitalized for several weeks. Only his parents, who certainly approved of his ingenuity but frowned occasionally at the bills, and his coach were aware of the energy sapping liver disease.

Finally off his back, Sudden Death did extensive road work, tried lifting weights which had increased his bulk to an effective 205 pounds from a former 165, and he gulped vitamin pills by the handful. It was still too much to overcome in that short time, however.

"Steve came out for practice this fall without saying a word," Carle said. "But he wasn't fooling anyone. His strength was gone and he was running with about the power of a wet noodle in his legs.

"It was obvious something was wrong and everyone knew it. So I called him aside and told him for his own good and for the team he would have to level with his teammates and tell them what was the matter," Carle said. "He had another physical examination, here, and was advised that not only should he give up football this year but that he was also too weak to successfully carry a full load in studies."

Thus it was that Steve (Sudden Death) Sabol was forced to leave Colorado College at what might have been his greatest moment of triumph. He had accomplished, to a point, what he was trying to do. He had brought attention to his school and its team — even with a few snickers. There undoubtedly was far more to come.

One might think that the theatricals of the past year or so would be devised by a self centered nut or some kind. But not so, says his coach.

"If I had 11 guys with the same attitude as Sabol I wouldn't have a worry in the world," said Carle. "He was all for the team . . . and he thought this was the best way for them all. He would do anything asked as long as it would help the team, and I mean that sincerely.

"Steve may have had some shortcomings as a player," Carle said. "But take for instance his punting. We needed a kicker, so all summer he worked on it and finally became one of the best we've ever had. I would have liked to keep him on the squad this fall just for his kicking if nothing else."

The Tigers open their abbreviated schedule this Saturday night on Washburn Field against Concordia Lutheran, and Sabol has indicated he will remain long enough to help his team mates through that one. Then he will depart for Villanova, Pa., or possibly Possum Trot — but he's promised that the strength of a year's recovery from his illness will bring him back to CC with more new ideas on this personal campaign to change the image of his school's athletics.

British Lose Hope In America's Cup

LONDON (AP) — Sovereign's defeat by Constellation in the first race of the America's Cup series brought familiar groans from the British today and hardly a hope that the cup will be won from the United States.

The London Times correspondent reported from Newport, R.I.: "The most dismal predictions of British supporters were confirmed."

British Make Second Attempt Today At Defeating U. S.'s Constellation

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The British pride themselves on never having lost a war.

They've never won an America's Cup, either, and they may need their finest yachting hour to take the trophy to the home it left, so far for good, 114 years ago.

Constellation, the defender of the New York Yacht Club, showed the waterborne equivalent of her heels Tuesday to Sovereign, the English challenger of the Royal Thames Yacht Club. But the British spurned their right for a day's postponement and will go at Constellation again this afternoon.

The closest the two yachts got to each other after the start Tuesday was at a post-race news conference attended by Eric Ridder and Bob Bavier, the U.S. 12-meter's helmsmen, and Peter Scott, the man at the wheel of Sovereign.

All three complained about interference from the spectator fleet (as ancient a complaint in cup history as the weather) and all said they were encouraged.

"Because we won," said Ridder.

And, said Scott, "the most encouraging thing for us was she didn't beat us by any more."

Nonetheless there wasn't much to cheer about in the British camp at Constellation's margin at the finish of the 24.3 mile opening race in the best-of-seven series. It was 5 minutes, 34 seconds, which represents a distance of about a mile in the 10-knot west southwesterly winds that blew all sky blue afternoon on Rhode Island Sound.

Bavier, 46-year-old advertising manager for Yachting Magazine, won the start after the two yachts circled for some time in ring-around-the-rosey maneuvering.

"I was getting giddy," cracked Scott. Bavier had the windward berth and although Sovereign was in free air to leeward, Constellation soon crept ahead forcing the challenger to tack to get free of the leader's slipstream.

From then on the defender turned it on, pointing as high and sometimes higher than Sovereign and travelling faster. On only one of the legs, a broad reach to the third mark, did Constellation not fail to increase her margin.

On the first leg, a windward beat, Sovereign showed that fears of the proper fit of her sails were not just pierhead rumors. Her genoa jib constantly backwinded her mainsail, disastrously cutting her efficiency. A different jib on the fourth leg fit better but by then Constellation was fast disappearing over the horizon.

Scott said his mainsail didn't appear ill-fitting because he had chosen it in anticipation of stronger winds.

"I'm afraid that's just its normal behavior," he said.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed some firmer tendencies early this afternoon although the list was irregularly lower on balance. Trading was moderate.

A Friday strike deadline in the Ford labor negotiations and the possibility of a strike by office workers against Chrysler were dampening factors. So was a high Jewish holy day.

Chrysler gyrated between a loss exceeding a point and a fractional net gain, showing a thin edge to the upside in the afternoon. Ford and General Motors were fractional losers.

American Motors was getting a big play from traders and was ahead about a point in heavy trading. Studebaker was firm.

Steels were steady, chemicals began to shift to a higher tone despite a loss exceeding 2 points by Du Pont.

Despite selective improvement, the trend was generally lower among rails and nonferrous metals. Electronics and drugs were mostly lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .5 at 321.8 with industrials down .8, rails down .4 and utilities down .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .27 at 862.26.

Stocks not represented in the averages produced some good gainers. Among them, IBM and Xerox were up about 3 each. Control Data gained a fraction.

Gains of about a point were made by Anaconda, U.S. Rubber and International Harvester.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange in quiet trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds were steady.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices showed a little rallying tendency in the grain futures market in early afternoon dealings today on the Board of Trade.

Brokers said the support for wheat appeared to have been mostly from commercial accounts but that speculators again had provided the demand for soybeans in a generally mixed trade.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 17, corn 93, oats none, rye 2, barley 6, soybeans none.

Panic Averted In Real Estate Integration

By ED STAATS

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two years ago Negro families began edging into the all-white South MacGregor area in search of nicer homes in a better neighborhood.

They were attracted by the comfortable houses, spacious lawns, tall pines and moss-decked oaks, all a few blocks from downtown Houston.

Residents attempted to keep the neighborhood all-white. But as fast as the Negroes moved in, whites sold their houses, often at a great loss, and started moving out.

Then a small but determined group of white residents who love their homes, the winding streets and the convenience to the heart of Houston decided they weren't going to leave.

A movement known as the South MacGregor Promotion Committee was formed last spring to halt the exodus of property owners.

Now, after a summer-long "working experiment in democracy," as some call it, one of every four homes in the neighborhood has a 16X24-inch sign in the front yard. It states proudly in big red letters: "This is our home. It is not for sale."

During the past year values of the homes, by Federal Housing Administration appraisal, have increased an average of $1,500 to $2,000.

About 175 of the 1,000 families in the area of 15 to 25-year-old homes are Negro, says George Martin, 44, an oil company research chemist. He is one of the originators of the promotion committee.

Julia Carman, 39, one of the first to show interest in the problem facing the community, said the committee's purpose was "to save our homes and to maintain our neighborhood as a good place to live, in the spirit of goodwill, and to make every effort to allay suspicions and mutual distrust."

Mrs. Carman, a mother of two, and other homeowners unfrightened by the prospect of Negroes living next door started talking together last April.

The committee was formed and later was joined by three civic clubs whose chief purpose is to enforce deed restrictions in the absence of zoning laws.

"Our first job was to sell the proposition to whites," Mrs. Carman recalled.

"One of the important beliefs of white residents of an area undergoing integration is that property values will decline disastrously with the onset of integration," she said.

"Therefore in order to save one's financial shirt it is thought necessary to sell out fast and cheap before property values decline yet further."

She said, however, "If residents accept newcomers without hysteria, the value of their property will remain stable or may increase."

That's what is happening now, she said.

She said the signs let real estate men know the owners don't want to sell and demonstrate to uncertain residents they won't be the last white family in an all-Negro community.

Despite the committee's efforts, about 60 to 70 for sale signs remain in the neighborhood, but property values are holding up. About 20 homes have been sold or leased to whites during the summer.

"Our only intention is to settle the neighborhood so only the normal turnover takes place," Mrs. Carman said.

"As an extra dividend we are getting acquainted and we like each other."

Man, Woman Injured in Car Accident

A man and woman were injured late Tuesday when the car they were in went out of control and rammed a large concrete block, police reported.

Donald H. Bryce, 28, of 152 Everett Dr., suffered severe face lacerations and Loreto Smith, 37, of 38 Easy St., a passenger in the Bryce car, had face cuts and chest and right arm injuries, police said.

Bryce was northbound on 1 N. Fountain County Rd. when he lost control on a left - hand curve, skidded 67 feet, bounced across railroad tracks, and rammed a large concrete block at 11:20 p.m. Tuesday, according to police.

The two were taken to Memorial Hospital.

Woman Reports Cash Taken From Room

Ellie Myers, 2410 N. Wahsatch St., reported to the sheriff's department Tuesday that $50 in cash had been stolen from her while she was staying at the Albert Pick Motel, 5700 N. Nevada Ave.

She said the theft happened Aug. 25 when she left her room unlocked for a few minutes.

Litton VP is Honored for 10-year Service

James W. Weidenman, vice-president of Litton Precision Products, Inc., including Clifton Precision of Colorado Springs, was honored today for his 10 years of service in Litton Industries by Litton president Roy L. Ash.

Weidenman received a gold service emblem from Ash in a ceremony also attended by Harry J. Gray, senior vice-president of Litton and head of its Components Group, which includes Litton Precision Products.

In his present capacity Weidenman has overall supervision of three Litton divisions: the Clifton Precision Products division, Mt. Vernon., N.Y.; and the Encoder division, Van Nuys, Calif.

Weidenman joined Litton in 1954, soon after the company was founded. His first assignment was as plant manager of the Potentiometer division which achieved an outstanding growth record under his supervision.

A native of Spring Valley, N.Y., Weidenman attended the public schools there and was graduated from Cooper' Union college with a B.S. degree in Electrical Engineering. He later did postgraduate work in business administration at Hofstra University.

Weidenman is married to the former Dorothy Powers. They have five children, ranging in age from seven to 14.

Deputy Sheriff Larry Holien said the theft happened sometime between Aug. 25 and Sept. 8 but was not reported until Tuesday.

PIPE DREAM — The American Indian, puffing contentedly on a corn cob pipe while waiting for game to appear, shared the same fate that pipe smokers have shared for the last hundred years. He had to knock the pipe against something hard and scrape it to clean it out. Fred Bowers, president of Bowers Lighter Company, Kalamazoo, Mich., has hit upon the idea of a self-cleaning pipe, the first pipe improvement in over a century. Smokers of a Bowers corn cob pipe simply twist the bottom and the pipe cleans itself. As with many new concepts, simplicity is the keyword to this ingenious cleaning process. Attached to the pipe's rotating bottom are two stainless steel arms. When rotated, they do the cleaning job. Patents are pending on this process.

Workers Seek Cash Over Fringe Benefits

More and more executives and workers want to be rewarded for their efforts with cash rather than fringe benefits, The Insider's Newsletter said today.

Employees no longer find pension plans, insurance benefits, stock options and the like as attractive as they did. They want disposable income, and a lot more of it, according to The Newsletter.

The cry for higher wages is already the loudest heard in current labor negotiations, but labor is not alone. Recent trend analyses reveal that executives, too, want immediate rather than deferred compensation.

Both groups feel they have been neglected when it comes to direct income. They point out out that since 1958 profits have jumped 1.3 per cent, while wages for labor rose just 20 per cent and compensation for executives only 1.7 per cent.

Executives also cite the new tax law that has dulled much of the shine in stock options, and the $50,000 ceiling on company-paid-policies that has diminished the attraction of insurance benefits.

Strong Demand Firms Paper Price Picture

Mounting demand for paper and paperboard as a result of the business uptrend points to generally firm prices — and probably some further selective advances — in coming months, according to the United Business Service.

The Boston - based advisory firm points out that the industry as a whole is operating around 95 per cent of rated capacity, and unfilled orders for virtually all major products are at very high levels.

Total domestic output of paper and paperboard this year is expected to rise to about 41 million tons, a 5 per cent gain over the record 39 million tons in 1963.

Most paper industry officials contend that higher prices are overdue in view of the steady uptrend in costs. But they also acknowledge that it is still difficult to make increases "stick" because of the bitter competition generated by the continued, even though reduced, amount of excess capacity.

However, prices on corrugated cartons were recently raised 3 per cent, and a 5 per cent hike has been posted on several types of paper bags effective October 1. With demand strong, further efforts to effect moderate price increases are in prospect.

From a longer term viewpoint, some concern is being voiced about the scope of new expansion plans by some paper producers. Capital outlays scheduled so far this year total about $930 million, one-third more than in 1963. These programs are being based on the industry's projection of 55 million tons annual demand for paper by 1970, a 34 per cent gain over 1964.

There are some fears this may prove too optimistic, thus bring a repetition of the 1955-60 "expansion binge" which created such severe excess capacity and price - cutting problems. For the near term, however, firm to higher prices — and fewer discounts — are likely.

Strike Hedge Steel Buying Threatens Supply

Building of steel inventories this fall threatens to tighten steel supplies, Iron Age magazine reports.

The national metalworking weekly says that even now printed delivery schedules mean little and that several products are on semi-allocation. These are in addition to steel plates, which have been on allocation for some time.

As yet, the real explosion has not been touched off. Order rates are holding firm and point to gains in shipments in September and October. For the most part, inventory programs have not reached the actual order stage.

But some specific programs have been outlined. And if there is no prolonged labor trouble in the auto industry, the big steel consuming auto companies will start building stocks this fall with their eyes on next year's steel labor negotiations.

Generally, delivery prmises have lengthened two weeks in the past month for a number of products, without any inventory buying. Production continues to gain and most of the summer's decline has been wiped out.

Looking ahead to the expected inventory buildup, one analyst predicts that the industry will be operating at an annual rate of 143 million tons in November.

If this figure is even approached, all predictions for this year's production will be left far behind — as will the old record of 117 million tons.

If a general wave of protective buying starts, the steel market could get out of control. There is some slack for added tonnage. But the products that are already tight could be in very short supply.

In a typical inventory building program, one automaker expects to add five days of supply in October and continue to accumulate stocks to May 1, the earliest possible date of a steel strike.

But few specific orders have been placed and these plans have to be considered tentative until all the auto labor contracts are signed and sealed. Meanwhile, the automakers have passed the word to major suppliers that they expect to be protected by adequate steel stocks at the supplier level.

Iron Age says that the tightness of the plate market is now world-wide and could possibly extend to other products.

Domestic users probing the foreign plate market find that they are quoted no earlier delivery by foreign sources and no price advantage.

One sidelight here is that the narrowing of the price gap between foreign and domestic steels for some products means that foreign competition would not deter a domestic price increase under these market conditions.

Porosity of the entire pot containing your house plant is important for two reasons — (1) To assure constant even drainage of excess water and leaching out of harmful salts (the white frost on the outside of your clay pot) and (2) To provide for oxygen, or air exchange through the pot walls.

Shortage of Soil Moisture Hits Eastern Slope Crops

The following is a report on crop conditions throughout Colorado as compiled by the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Colorado Department of Agriculture.

Dryland crops on the Eastern Slope deteriorated sharply during August as the shortage of soil moisture became more critical. Rainfall was badly needed in this area to promote further growth and development.

On the Western Slope, August moisture was generally adequate to maintain crop growth. Irrigation water supplies were somewhat limited, but with careful use, farmers were able to prevent serious deterioration of irrigated crops.

However, water was diverted from low priority crops to higher priority crops. As of Sept. 1, another month of frost-free temperatures was needed for sorghum and corn to mature grain.

Corn prospects declined during August as the continued drought took its toll. Grain production is now estimated at 9,880,000 bushels, 15 per cent less than the 1963 crop of 11,590,00 bushels and 30 per cent less than the 1958-62 average.

Water supplies were adequate during August to prevent deterioration of prospects of irrigated acreage but dryland acreage fell off sharply. Average yield on irrigated acreage is estimated at 72.0 bushels per acre, the same as a month ago, but dryland acreage is expected to average 13.0 bushels, 4 bushels less than on Aug. 1. Much of the corn still needed frost-free temperatures through September to mature a grain crop.

A spring wheat crop of 549,000 bushels is predicted. This is 22 per cent more than the 1963 crop of 450,000 bushels, but still 22 per cent less than the five-year average of 701,000 bushels. Irrigated acreage is expected to yield an average of 36.0 bushels per acre while dryland acreage is expected to average 17.0 bushels per acre.

Colorado's 1964 sorghum grain production is estimated at 9,990,000 bushels. This is 8 per cent larger than the 1963 crop of 9,242,000 bushels and surpasses the five-year average by 3 per cent. Irrigated acreage showed considerable improvement during August, but dryland sorghum just managed to hold on.

All acreage was expected to yield an average of 30.0 bushels per acre compared with last year's 30.5 bushel yield. The 56.0 bushels exceeds last year's 51.0 bushel return, but dryland acreage at 14.0 bushels was considerably below the 1963 figure of 20.1 bushels. Dryland sorghum has managed to "hang on" surprisingly well, but further deterioration and abandonment can be expected if rain is not received immediately.

This year's barley crop is expected to total 12,000,000 bushels, 24 per cent more than last year's output, but 22 per cent short of the 1958-62 average of 15,470,000 bushels. Yields are expected to average 30.0 bushels, one-half bushels less than a year ago. Oat production is also expected to fall below the average. Production at 3,145,00 bushels is 32 per cent less than the five-year average, but exceeds by 8 per cent the 1963 crop of 2,916,000 bushels. An average yield of 37.0 bushels per acre is estimated compared with the 1963 yield of 36.0 bushels and the five-year average of 37.5 bushels.

Sugar beet prospects indicate a harvest of 3,094,000 tons. This is practically the same as the 1963 crop of 3,103,000 tons, and 21 per cent greater than the five-year average of 2,549,00 tons. Water supplies were sufficient in most localities to maintain growth and development of beets. Generour rains in the mountains kept stream flows coming back and supplies in the Arkansas Valley were better than had been anticipated earlier.

Production of dry beans is now estimated at 2,195,000 bags (100 pounds clean basis), 2 per cent less than the 1963 crop of 2,236,000 bags Irrigated acreage made excellent growth during August and a record-high yield per acre of 1,750 pounds is predicted. Dryland beans in the Southwest were slowed by cool night temperatures late in August and pods were not filling as well as desired. Consequently, prospects were reduced and a yield of 500 pounds per acre is estimated compared with 583 pounds for last year's excellent crop.

Prospects for fall potatoes declined during August to an estimated 7,200,000 cwt. This is 15 per cent below the 1963 crop of 8,460,000 cwt. The decline in production from earlier prospects resulted from freeze damage which occurred on Aug. 21 and several subsequent dates. About 15 per cent of the fields were entirely killed, 75 per cent of the acreage sustained varying degrees of damage and about 10 per cent was not harmed. An estimated average return per acre of 200 cwt. is 35 bags less than a year ago. Late summer potato production is now placed at 2,565,000 cwt., 6 per cent more than the 1963 crop. A yield of 190 cwt. is expected, just two bags less than realized a year ago.

Production of all hay is estimated at 2,700,00 tons, 4 per cent more than last year, but 3 per cent less than the five-year average. This is practically the same as a month ago as yields were turning out as had been anticipated.

A shortage of moisture has reduced the tonnage to an average of 1.71 tons per acre compared with the 1.75 ton yield a year ago and the 1.82 ton yield for the five-year average. Alfalfa hay production is placed at 1,845,00 tons, 1 per cent more than in 1963 but 6 per cent less than the 1958-62 average. Late cuttings have been hurt by a irrigation water to other crops.

Picking of early peaches was underway during August and early returns indicate a crop of 1,300,000 bushels. This far exceeds the very poor 1963 output of 400,000 bushels, but falls 20 per cent below the five-year average of 1,624,00 bushels. Apples failed to size as expected during the month and the production outlook has been reduced to 1,600,00 bushels. This is 28 per cent more than the previous year and 41 per cent above the five-year average.

Late Summer Watering Not Good for Trees

FORT COLLINS — Trees and shrubs will withstand the ravages of winter better if you do not water them in the late summer and early fall.

Late season watering produces soft or succulent wood susceptible to winter injury, according to C. M. Drage, Colorado State University extension horticulturist. Conifers and the main stems of broadleaf plants are particularly susceptible to this kind of winter injury.

Damage on conifers is most frequently noticed on the southwest side of the foliage. Arborviates are also quite susceptible to winter damage called winter-burn, scorch or desiccation. The main stem and limbs of deciduous trees — particularly young fruit trees — often show symptoms of frostcracks and sunscald during the winter, Drage explains.

Rapid temperature changes are the cause of winter-burn on the southwest side of many evergreen shrubs, according to research from the University of Minnesota. Researchers report that leaf temperatures on a sunny winter day may exceed 70 degrees F. even though the air temperature is below freezing. When the sun sets in the evening the leaf temperature drops rapidly and injury results. Thus, according to the Minnesota research, winter-burn is not directly the result of wind and-or desiccation.

Much of the winter damage to trees and shrubs can be prevented by withholding water until leaves have fallen. The, late fall and winter watering can be started again if necessary. Any fertilization should be restricted to the early spring, the horticulturist cautions.

Home, sweet home, is not the safest place to be. Hazzards abound in every room. In an all-out effort to avert accidents, 4-H Safety members this year are calling attention to chemicals, drugs and cosmetics commonly found in bathroom, kitchen, bedroom and livingroom. Believe it or not, there are at least 250,000 products for home use which are harmful if MISUSED. The National 4-H Safety Development Committee and General Motors, sponsor of the 4-H Safety program for 20 consecutive years, are cooperating in a four-year plan to prevent accidents.

Veterinarian Honored by State Medical Group

Kenneth W. Smith of Colorado State University has been honored as "veterinarian of the Year" by the Colorado Veterinarian of the Year" by the Colorado Veterinary Medicine Assn. He received the honor at the association's annual meeting at Denver recently.

Dr. Smith, 53, is a professor of clinics and surgery, College of Veterinary Medicine, at CSU. After receiving his D.V.M. degree here in 1932, he first joined the CSU faculty in 1937. He also holds a M. S. degree from Ohio State University.

The award, made annually by the group of state veterinarians, is in recognition of contributions to the profession in Colorado.

Dr. Smith is a past president of the Colorado association and a member of the Council of Veterinary Services of the American Veterinary Medicine Assn.

He and his wife, Nina, have three sons, all now living away from home.

CARVE FROM PLASTER

This winter try your skill at carving interesting figures and shapes from lightweight blocks of vermiculite plaster. Simply dry mix four parts of vermiculite and two parts sand with one part plaster of Paris. Slowly add water and mix to a creamy consistency. Pour into a shoe box or similar container. After the mixture hardens, in about 30 minutes, tear away the box and start carving with an ordinary pocket knife or carving tools.

FB President Raps Failure Of Wheat Plan

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, last week sent the following telegram to President Lyndon B. Johnson:

"The current wheat program, enacted this year by the Congress in spite of the overwhelming disapproval of producers in the 1963 referendum, is a failure. The proponents of this complicated program claimed it would raise farm income. It has had the opposite effect. Market prices have been depressed and the sale of CCC wheat stocks is depressing the market even further. It is interfering with our ability to export wheat.

"It is the prime cause of an increase in flour and bread prices. It is greatly disrupting the whole wheat economy. Only about one-third of the 1,729,864 eligible wheat farmers are participating in the program, but all are being penalized. Farmers are making preparations for the 1965 crop. They should not be saddled with this program for 1965. It will further depress wheat farmers' income.

"I, therefore, respectfully recommend to you that you ask the Congress, while it is still in session, to repeal the legislation under which this program is being operated and substitue a price support program based on the market. Such a program is embodied in the wheat provisions of S. 1617, H. R. 6540, and other bills now before the Congress."

These proposals call for the repeal of the establishment of acreage allotments and marketing quotas. Price supports for wheat shall be set at the U. S. farm price equivalent of the average world market price during the immediately preceding three years, and Commodity Credit Corporation stocks of wheat shall not be sold for domestic use at less than 115 per cent of the current support price plus reasonable carrying charges, under the above plans.

Urban, suburban and rural boys work together in 4-H Clubs. They have a choice of nearly 50 projects ranging from electricity to livestock.

Retail Beef Price Hikes Point Up Buying Options

By HUGH WINN
Livestock Marketing Specialist
Colorado State University

As retail beef prices begin to rise after a long slump in cattle markets, budget conscious Coloradoans will be searching for ways to stretch their beef-buying dollars.

Questions which usually arise following an upturn in retail beef prices include: Would it be cheaper to buy a carcass from a locker?. . .a live animals from a producer?. . .or continue to shop the retail markets?

Answers to these questions depend largely on the individual, but the following hypothetical beef buying alternatives may assist the family budget balancer.

Each of the examples is based on buying all the cuts found in a 600-pound dressed carcass. This, of course, includes not only steaks and roasts, but also the economy cuts. The beef and service prices quoted many vary slightly from place to place.

Naturally, few individuals would buy an entire carcass or its equivalent for home use, so a reasonable approximation of costs for a particular circumstance can be obtained by simple mathematics or assuming a half-carcass split with a friend or neighbor.

Alternative 1: Locker Beef—Let's start the investigation of beef buying options by assuming you purchase a 600 - pound "high good" or "choice" carcass from a local locker plant for 51 cents per pound. Your total initial cost for the carcass would total $306, but to this you must add a locker storage fee which runs about $26 a year.

Even if you intend putting the meat in a home freezer, it would be wise to charge the strange fee against the depreciation and operation of the appliance to get en accurate esimate of this option. The locker buying alternative would thus net you about 412 pounds of table - ready beef (the carcass weight less bone and waste) for approximately $332.

Alternative 2: Buying a Live Steer — Perhaps you know a farmer who will sell you a live animal. How will this compare with purchasing a dressed carcass?

Let's assume that the animal weighs 1,000 pounds before slaughter and is purchased for 25 cents per pound or a total cost of $250. This steer, for comparative purposes, also produces a 600-pound carcass which cuts into 442 pounds of table-ready meat.

However, in order to get the meat ready for the table, you will have slaughtering, cutting, wrapping, freezing, and storage costs. These expenses will total about $78. Again, we assume that even if you do not use locker storage, a depreciation and operating expense adjustment is made for home storage.

The total cost of this alternative is approximately $328.

Alternative 3: Retail Markets — For the final alternative, let's assume you walk up to the counter of your retail market and announce you wish to buy all the cuts found on a 600 - pound beef carcass. Again you will receive about 442 pounds of table-ready meat.

If we further assume regular retail prices (no specials), this alternative would cost about $341.

A close look at these examples shows that there is not a great deal of difference between the costs of various beef-buying options. Therefore, final judgment on each alternative probably should be made on other advantages and disadvantages.

For example, buying a carcass from a local locker and storing it there should mean some kind of a meat guarantee, insurance against spoilage and no freezer repair worries. However, you would be limited to cuts from a single carcass and may find trips to the locker inconvenient.

Home storage of large supplies of beef would help solve the convenience problem but freezer costs and depreciation may influence your decision on this option.

Although retail market purchases of beef are slightly higher, shopping the "specials" may reduce some of the comparative cost difference. In addition, the purchaser would not have a large sum of money tied up in an entire carcass and could pick cuts from many different animals.

In summary, the actual cost differences in the various options are not large enough to make a beef buying decision on cost alone. Usually the price emphasis develops when a neighbor announces he has purchased a side of beef for 34 cents per pound, but fails to tell you that it was not government graded and is probably cow beef.

Government graded beef handled by reputable suppliers will be your best long-run purchase regardless of which buying option you choose.

Miracle Coating

Replaces House Paint

Textured Coatings of America has developed a remarkable product for exterior walls that virtually eliminates outside painting for many years to come and is factory guaranteed for 10 full years. This product, called TEX-COTE, combines the long lasting properties of fiberglass, asbestos, mica, and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Guided Missiles

Guided Missile Manufacturers for the United States Government have found TEX-COTE a superior product for insulation of heat shields used in the space program.

Throughout the country School Boards have found textured coatings so economical and lasting over the past several years that they are now specifying this type of material for school buildings.

Many thousands of textured coating applications have been made on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, and these buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The United States Government and large corporations, such as Shell Oil Company, Pacific Telephone Company and Thunderbird International Hotels are using TEX-COTE. This remarkable exterior surfacing provides water-proofing, insulation and beauty, far outlasting any ordinary paint.

Comes In Colors

TEX - COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors — and does not change the structural lines of the building. Actually it adds beauty to any home or structure and increases its value.

Waterproofs, Insulates Fire Retardant

In addition to beauty, TEX-COTE has the additional advantages of water-proofing and insulation. Through the use of silicones, a modern day scientific advance, a water repellent "blanket" envelopes the entire building so that no moisture can penetrate and damage the interior of the home. Through the use of fiberglass and perlite, highly efficient insulating material, the building becomes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter.

Applied With a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

Factory Guaranteed

Every TEX-COTE job is registered and factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling. TEX-COTE is the only coating with this unqualified guarantee

No Obligation

Applications of TEX-COTE are being made in this area by COLORADO COATING CO., approved applicators. Free information on how easily you may have TEX-COTE applied at low bank terms with no down payment may be obtained by calling 633-6585 or by mailing coupon below.

Democrats and Republicans List Farm Planks for '64

Here are the farm plans in the 1964 platforms of the two major U. S. political parties as reprinted from the Aug. 31 issues of the Cooperative Consumer:

DEMOCRATS — "The roots of our economy and our life as a people lie deep in the soil of America's farmland. Our policies and programs must continue to recognize the significant role of agriculture and rural life.

To achieve the goals of higher incomes to the farm and ranch, particularly the family - sized farm, lower prices for the consumer and lower costs to the government, we will continue to carry forward this three-dimensional program:

1. Commodity programs to strengthen the farm income structure and reach the goal of parity of income in every aspect of American agriculture. We will continue to explore and develop new domestic and foreign markets for the products of our farms and ranches.

2. Consumer programs including expansions of the food stamp program and the school lunch and other surplus food programs, and acceleration of research into new industrial use of farm products, to assure maximum use of an abundance of wholesome foods at fair prices, here and abroad. We will also study new low - cost methods and techniques of food distribution for the benefit of our housewives to better feed their families.

3. Community programs and agricultural cooperatives to assure rural America decent housing, economic security and full partnership in the building of the great society. We pledge our continued support of the Rural Telephone Administration and the Rural Electification Administration, one of the great contributions of the Democratic party to the comfort and well-being of America."

REPUBLICANS — "We pledge:

—to provide our farmers, who have contributed so much to the strength of our nation, with maximum opportunity to exercise their own management decisions on their own farms, while resisting all efforts to impose upon them further federal controls.

—greater emphasis on overseas sale of surplus farm commodities to friendly countries through long - term credits repayable in dollars under the Republican Food for Peace program.

—development of truly voluntary commodity programs for commercial agriculture, including payments in kind out of government - owned surpluses, diversion of unneeded land to conservation uses, price supports free of political manipulation in order to stimulate and attain fair market prices, together with adequate credit facilities and continued support of farmer - owned and operated cooperatives, including rural electric and telephone facilities, while resisting all efforts to make the farmer dependent, for his economic survival, upon either compensatory payments by the federal government or upon the whim of the Secretary of Agriculture."

Clover Mites Seeking Warm Winter Homes

Tiny creatures called clover mites will soon be looking for warm winter quarters and many Colorado homes will be on their visiting list.

If you don't appreciate the little reddish - brown visitors, you will have to do more than hang out a "no vacancy" sign, suggests Bill Hantsbarger, Colorado State University extension entomologist.

Actually, the mites are harmless to people and furnishings, the entomologist explains, but if you have ever stepped on one you have probably resolved immediate eviction.

As with any other unwanted guest, it is easier to keep mites from getting a foot in the door that expelling them once they have called your house their home. And the problem will "multiply" once the tiny pests discover your warm home is conducive to egg - laying.

Spraying along foundations with approved control materials like chlorobenzilate, Kelthane or Dimite should form a barier which will stop these intruders outside your home, Hantsbarger states. One part chemical to 10 parts of water is the recommended mixture. The best time to spray is when the temperature is above 50 degrees F.

Painting this same chemical mixture around basement windows and other entry areas may also help stop the migration into your home. Exterior portions of the house exposed to the warm sun are the biggest trouble spots.

The chemicals recommended are quite safe is used properly, the entomologist notes. Wash hands after use, avoid contaminating foodstuffs and keep unused materials out of the reach of children and pets.

Further imformation on clover mite control is given in Extension Pamphlet 21, which is available at your county extension office.

WATERING TIPS

You can tell when your plants need water by testing top soil with your thumb. If it's dry to the touch, soak the soil freely with water at room temperature, until water runs out the bottom drainage hole of the clay pot. Let excess moisture drain into a matching clay saucer, but be sure and drain the saucer after half an hour, so roots won't drown. Plants like moisture in the surrounding air, but not too much for too long at their roots.

4-H Club Adult Volunteers Carry Bulk of Work Load

Without volunteer adult club leaders carrying the burden of the load the 4-H program would be non-existent in El Paso County, according to Extension Agent Forest McWilliams.

On the eve of National 4-H Club Week, which runs from Sept. 26 through Oct. 3, El Paso County has 146 adult leaders and 73 junior leaders contributing their time to the program. Enrollment this year has reached a new high of 772, approximately 100 more than last year, McWilliams said.

C. G. Staver, state 4-H leader, credits the adult leaders as being "the real heroes of the state's 4-H youth program."

Currently, more than 4,300 men and women are serving as volunteer leaders in the state and a considerable share of the public recognition should go to these individuals, Staver continues.

Last year more than 1,600 Colorado youth joined the 4-H program and boosted the statewide enrollment to 25,322 boys and girls, the highest point in history. This increase in enrollment means more 4-H leaders are needed to provide additional opportunities for boys and girls in the youth program, Staver explains. As more adults contribute leadership, better instruction is provided for members.

The number of junior leaders has more than doubled in the past few years to 2,184 this year. Junior leaders actively assist adult leaders of local clubs and also assume partial responsibility for younger members in carrying out community programs.

Any adult who would like to be a 4-H leader should contact either McWilliams or Stanley Stolte at the County Extension Office. If there is no 4-H Club in the area, one can be formed through cooperation with the above individuals.

Farm and Ranch Youngsters Win At Angus Show

A large crowd of Colorado farm and ranch youngsters were on hand for the recent Golden Trend Angus Show in Fort Collins sponsored by the Northeast Colorado Junior Angus Association. They took part in a variety of Angus cattle contests.

Selected as the champion steer at the show was a 905-pound entry of 19-year-old Larry Lind of Eaton. His calf was produced in the John Mallon Angus herd at Walden. Larry also showed the champion bull of the show, Luxury's Edwin GF. The reserve steer winner was shown by Marilyn Witzel, Windsor. Her calf came from the Jim Strekel herd at Berthoud.

The champion Angus heifer of the show was Larrick's Blackcap Bessie 2, exhibited by Jim Larrick of Englewood. Anna Mary Wysowatcky, Denver, showed the reserve champion heifer of the show, Golden Trend Honeybear. The reserve champion bull, King Bardolier GB, was an entry of Gary Bernhardt, Greeley.

Anna Coleman of Fort Collins won the showmanship contest and Larry Lind was second.

Two heifers and a steer were presented to youngsters based on their 4-H Club work with Angus cattle including record books, showmanship and individual placings in this year's Golden Trend Show. The heifers were donated by Haystakc Angus Ranch, Platteville, and Karen Shields, Fort Collins. The winners were Jim Larrick and Larry Lind. The steer, donated by the Allard Cattle Co., Walden, was won by Marilyn Wietzel.

Selected as the Golden Trend Angus Queen for the coming year was Ginger Simpson, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Simpson, Fort Collins.

300 Registered Breeding Bulls To Undergo Test

MEAD — Approximately 300 bulls from registered beef breeding herds of many states will go on 140-day official performance test at the new Criterion Bull Analysis testing station near here in October.

Announcement of the project came this week from Jim Drayson and Ardon Hopkins, founders and operators of Criterion, Colorado's first commercial performance testing station for bulls. Drayson is also founder and operator of the Drayson School for Cowmen.

Criterion is laid out on 40 acres with approximately three acres for each bull lot, with each lot designed to accommodate 30 bulls. An auction is planned at the end of each test for those breeders who wish to merchandise at the testing station any bulls tested.

The first test will be for bulls calved between Jan. 1 and June 1, 1964. These will be received at Criterion between Oct. 10 and Oct. 20. Approximately three weeks of adjustment period will be allotted. Charges will be based on daily yardage and feed consumed.

Drayson and Hopkins emphasize that they welcome inquiries about the project.

Making speeches, modeling dresses, and building radios are among the many activities of 4-H Club members. Support 4-H during National 4-H Club Week, Sept. 26 — Oct. 3.

Wheat Growers May Modify Cropping Pattern

Colorado winter wheat producers participating in the signup now underway for the 1965 program may modify their acreage diversion or overplanting intensions next spring.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced this is being done so winter wheat growers will have the same opportunity as the spring wheat and feed grain growers in selecting a cropping pattern based on feed grain program and other information available at signup time next spring.

Winter wheat producers need to signup this fall where enrollment is scheduled then. A major purpose of prompt signup is to qualify a producer for participation in the wheat program's price supprt loan program, and diversion and certificate payments. The first step for participation is the actual signup.

Farmers in the 1965 wheat and feed grain programs can elect to substitute wheat for feed grain, or feed grain for wheat; in addition, farmers who so elect in advance at their first signup can overplant their wheat allotment by 50 per cent and store the excess under bond.

Under the 1965 wheat program modification, farmers who sign up this fall may change their commitments concerning acreage diversion and overplanting at any time prior to the close of the feed grain program signup period next spring.

Weed Control Results Shown At Rocky Ford

ROCKY FORD — Nearly 70 visitors heard researchers tell of new crop variety and weed control work at a field day at Colorado State University's Arkansas Valley Branch Experiment Station here Thursday, Sept. 10.

P. Eugene Heikes, CSU extension weed specialist, Fort Collins, told the group weeds are today's biggest obstacle in increasing crop production and farm income.

He said researchers were able to greatly increase alfalfa production at the ranch station by effectively controlling Tansy mustard weeds. Heikes also noted that chemical control of weeds in onions might well mean the difference between being able to raise onions or not, because cost of hand controlling weeds is prohibitive. Experiments have shown, he said, that weeds can be controlled ino nions by chemical means.

Merrill Ross, CSU plant physiologist, Fort Collins, discussed experimental projects in weed control conducted at the Arkansas Valley Station. He said Tansy mustard in alfalfa was best controlled through winter treatments, when the alfalfa was dorment.

Ross also said a combination of two chemicals, Tillam and Diphenamid, has given best weed control in tomatoes. Dacthal remains the best chemical for controlling weeds in onions. However, he added, higher rates of application are required in Colorado — twice much asinsomeareas. as as much as in some areas.

A surprise speaker at the field day was Vincent O. Chukwueke, head of research at the agricultural experiment station in Eastern Nigeria.

Chukwueke, who is completing a six month tour of U.S. agricultural research facilities, said that his primary purpose here was to "pick the brains" of U. S. agriculture scientists.

He said there can be little or no agriculture without research, and that research is useless unless the information developed is made available to farmers for their use. He said researchers in Eastern Nigeria, as in the U. S., strive to provide all possible research results to farmers for practical application of new findings.

Chukwueke commented that problems of the two nations vary considerably, however — his area of the country receives over 90 inches of rainfall yearly.

Visitors also saw alfalfa variety and insect control plots, corn test plots, experimental tomato varieties, onion plots, and CSU's experimentation harvester.

The 4-H member pledges: "My head to clearer thinking; my heart to greater loyalty; my hands to larger service, and my health to better living."

Saturday Was Busy Day for Fremont Posse

Saturday was a busy day for members of the Fremont County Sheriff's Posse.

The group had barely finished riding in the Pioneer Day parade in Florence, when it loaded up its horses and traveled to Castle Rock to enter the Colorado State Sheriff's Posse Rodeo.

The local posse made arrangements to appear last in some of the events because of the late time the group was able to arrive.

Eddie Stewart, president of the posse, Ken Kissinger and Sheriff Tom Coleman formed a winning team, taking ribbons for third place in the wild cow milking contest.

Coleman won second place in the pole bending event.

Other events staged were ribbon roping, team tying and rescue racing with entries by members of sheriffs' possees from throughout Colorado.

Also participating from the Canon City area were Clarence Tipton, John Chess and Russ Mace.

The local group attended a Saturday night banquet, closing the rode.

Evans Blasts Chenoweth On Goldwater

Democratic congrehsional candidate Frank E. Evans said today that his opponent, Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth has apparently "zippered himself to the coattails" of Senator Barry Goldwater.

Evans said that by Chenoweth's strong defense of Goldwater, it seems that he has "associated himself with the rash of irresponsible allegations, charges, insinuations and hip shooting of the GOP candidates."

The speech today by the 41-year-old Evans before the West Side Rotary club marked the opening of the major portion of his campaign to unseat the 67-year-old veteran who has been in Washington for more than 20 years.

"On 25 major issues, the Republican presidential nominee voted in opposition to the Republican majority position 23 times," Evans stated.

"That's why Sen. Thomas Kuchel, Republican from California, called Goldwater 'Mr. Anti-Republican in the U.S. Senate.'

"This is the man my opponent has embraced defended and apparently supports."

Evans said the most basic of all choices to be made on November 3 is whether to support President Johnson in his position that control of this nation's nuclear arsenal must remain in the hands of the President of the United States.

"You can, if you will, support that casual from the hip approach and relinquish control of this country's atomic arsenal to a NATO comamnder, as suggested by the GOP candidate," said Evans.

"Or you can support the position of President Johnson and President Eisenhower who say responsiblility for use of our nuclear weapons must remain solely that of the President of the United States.

"I support President Johson's position, and I can only assume that ym opponent supports Sen. Goldwater, judging from the ve- against moderate Republicans who opposed the GOP presidential nominee.

"You have a choice in November — and of all the choices you must make, this is the most important — a juvenile obsession with nuclear weaponry or nuclear deterrence — under mature and responsible leadership.

"President Johnson offers that responsible leadership." according to Evans, "while the GOP nominee offers contradictions, cynicism, half-promises and confusion."

Evans, a two term member of Colorado's House of Representatives from Pueblo, won the Democratic party designation as Congressional candidate with an overwhelming 10-to-1 victory over his primary opponent Henry Oldshaw of Rye, Colo.

Students Mix Sports With Politics

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma University student Democrats mixed politics with sports Tuesday.

They want an Oklahoma football victory over Texas but oppose former OU grid coach Bud Wilkinson, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, GOP candidate for president.

The students came up with some new auto bumper signs that read: "Beat Barry, Bud and Texas."

Vatican Council Turns to Role Of Virgin Mary

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council turned today to the role of the Virgin Mary in the Roman Catholic Church. Far less difficulty was expected than when the subject was first raised before the bishops a year ago.

By the narrow margin of 1,114-1,074, the council voted last year to include Mary's role in the redemption of mankind within the schema De Ecclesia, on the nature of the church rather than making it the subject of a separate schema.

The minority contended that to include the Marian topic in the more general schema would lessen Mary's position of veneration.

Opponents argued that a separate schema would put undue emphasis on Mary's position. Several bishops said Catholics in some parts of Latin America already tend to place Mary on a plane with Christ.

The subject is of particular importance to leaders in the Christian unity movement, since many Protestants think Catholic veneration of Mary sometimes approaches worship.

Franziskus Cardinal Koenig of Vienna said last spring the new version of the council document on Mary would probably need little discussion by the full council, whose third session got to work Tuesday.

"We have found a draft which satisfied both trends," said the Austrian cardinal.

The original Marian schema was described as amounting to a new dogma on Mary, as co-redeemer of mankind with Christ because she was His earthly mother.

Cardinal Koenig, who sponsored the move to include Mary in the schema on the church, said recently: "It was not a question of more or less veneration of Our Lady, but of different emphases and points of view that have to be considered in veneration of Our Lady today."

The council speedily disposed of discussion of the seventh chapter of De Ecclesia concerned with the theology of death and judgment and the links between the Church on earth and its members in heaven.

Suggested changes in the wording or emphasis of that chapter must be put into the chapter by a council commission. The chapter will be returned to the council to be voted on.

Dual Building Permits Cited as Growth Problem

Dual building permits required by the city and El Paso County have created problems in obtaining new industry for the region, said the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce directors in a letter to county commissioners and the mayor and city councilmen.

C of C and Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Colorado Springs directors favor a unified city-county building code.

The builders expressed their views in a telegram to Mayor Harry W. Hoth, saying they have "endorsed the concept of a unified building code for the city and county with one administrative and enforcement agency only."

The letter from the Chamber board made it clear that the group has been studying the problem for some time and that different building codes in the city and county had created problems, particularly in the acquisition of new industry for the region. The letter went on to say:

"During the past few years many of the technical and mechanical problems of locating and constructing industrial plants in our community have been brought directly to our attention, causing us to feel that the successful long-range business and industrial development of our community is directly related to such improvements in community operation as a unified building code and intelligent long-range community planning.

"While it is true that a gratifying number of new industries have recently selected our region for plant installations in spite of our many problems, such mechanical problems have nevertheless been high-lighted during this time and we will be remiss in our responsibility to the community if we do not profit from our mistakes and our experiences.

"We must take advantage of such opportunities to improve conditions for future growth and progress. More than anything else, we are now conscious of the very keen competition currently being offered by other cities across the country who are also in search of new industry and we should seriously consider keeping pace with municipal regulations and procedures at least comparable to our competitors.

"In our recent reviews of previous attempts to accomplish a unified building code in El Paso County over the past 10 years, it seems that on various occasions the county would have considered not only a building code of some kind but also looked with favor on participating in a unified city county code such as we now seek. We are reliably informed that the county will consider favorably such a program of currently effective national building codes to be used as a basis for such codes.

"Our study over the past eight months show that these same conditions seem to still prevail today. We have sponsored a number of informal meetings and hearings relating to the matter between county commissioners, the City Electrical Board and various other city and county officials, all resulting in the following current situation:

"El Paso County Commissioners now seem interested in adopting a building code at this time and will seriously consider a unified building code with the city, utilizing central inspection and adminstration program being worked out to mutual advantage.

The letter from the Chamber said "time is of the essence if the matter is to receive official consideration" in time to establsh budget and administration requirements for working out a unified code during the coming fiscal year.

County Units Got Rebate On Auto Fees

El Paso County this week got back $126,148.50 in exchange for the additional $1.50 price tag on auto registration fees up to June 30, said Eleanor Oak, chief deputy county clerk in the office of Harriet Beals, county clerk and recorder.

The pro-rated amounts were turned over to treasurers in El Paso County, City of Colorado Springs, and seven other towns in the Pikes Peak Region.

The additional fee collected is exclusively earmarked for maintenance and building of roads and bridges. The law requiring the additional fee was introduced in 1960-62 but was dropped in 1963. Gov. John Love reinstated collection of the additional fee at the start of 1964, Mrs. Oak said.

The rebate and amounts went to:

El Paso County, $52,549.50; Colorado Springs, $67,608; Manitou Springs, $3,186; Fountain, $1,234.50; Calhan, $498; Palmer Lake, $445.50; Green Mountain Falls, $271.50; Monument, $256.50 and Ramah, $99.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH

Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Theory of Government

It is important to understand the theory of government.

Government is always a group of men, a minority, which offers to protect the majority in return for a fee paid partly in money and partly in prestige.

To simplify the role of government in order to facilitate understanding, we discover that government has a single characteristic which is not found in other and more peaceful organizations. Government executes its decisions, not by the consent of the people, but in spite of their lack of consent.

This is the fact. It is a fact that is carefully disguised and studiously camouflaged.

The reason for this kind of behavior relates to archaic theories of protection which have gone hand in glove with government since the days of Sargon I and before. Because government views its role, not really as a protector, but as a retaliator, government always reserves to itself the privilege of trespass.

Government takes action, not to protect, but to invade the privacy and the effects of the wrong-doer. Because government always acts in this manner, it grows accustomed to the concept of a "right" of trespass. It MUST invade the premises and the rights of the wrongdoer. This is implicit in any system of retributive justice.

Having established itself on the basis of "lex talionis" (laws of retaliation), government collects its fees in the same manner. Government does not seek support of the populace; it demands that support. And it obtains the funds it seeks and the power it must have by holding the populace in subservience and by equating a failure to obey a government order with positive crime.

Thus, the man who resists the government tax collector is treated by the government in the same manner as it would treat a bank robber or an embezzler.

Having reserved to itself the privilege of trespass (in order to apprehend a criminal), government extends its privilege of trespass in order to acquire the funds by means of which it operates.

Thus government becomes a repository of force.

Most people today do not see the implications contained in this simple recitation. They believe with conviction and sincerity that government is "popular" and that the people themselves always approve of the government.

This illusion is nourished by elections, wherein various members of the ruling oligarchy are selected by a popular demonstration leading to a majority.

Through this process, people are led to believe that they ARE the government. In actual fact, the function of the government is never questioned and never on trial; all that is tested in an election, is the popularity of certain persons who may or may not be chosen to positions of power.

Thus, the people participate in setting up a particular administration of the government, without in the least reaching the more basic questions underlying any agency of force.

The entire function of government is confined to the obtaining of monopoly decisions, which will be enforced. The role of politics in any government, is the role played by various persons in office in which they attempt to outline the policy or practice to be followed and to obtain universal support for that policy.

Government actions all center on monopoly. Even in democratic or republican governments, majority elections quickly lead to monopoly results. The losers in any such contest MUST, according to the rules of the game, submit peacefully and willingly to the victors. Winner takes all.

In its own way, government attempts to accomplish its monopoly results through the most feasible and economic means available. It will endeavor to obtain a monopoly of policy by means of persuasion and argument. Failing this, it will and does resort to patronage. If this does not produce the desired result, an election can be risked. Failing here, governments resort to war.

War is nothing more than political action taken from the chambers of debate and tested on the field of battle by employment of arms. Firm in the operation of any and all governments is the concept of totality, of monopoly.

Without much doubt, the merit of the democratic procedure, the test of strength by popular plebiscites, is one of the cheapest and best ways to discover which side is strong enough to obtain what it wants by force, without actually using the force.

Such procedures, of course, never examine the real issues and never discover what is right. What is strong enough to win, wins. What is right is another matter entirely.

No Guarantee

Freedom to make mistakes is important. There is no guarantee that a choice made will always be correct. We learn by trial and error far more than we learn by trial and success.

An Intellectual Revolution

Men are motivated by ideas, not by conspiracies.

It is claimed, over and over again, that the strength of the communist movement arises from its conspiratorial nature. We will contend that this conclusion is not so.

The problem of creating a disciplined "hard core" of conspirators is so great that no conspiracy in history has ever been able to attract more than a tiny group to carry out a plot. This includes the communist movement.

The strength of communism lies in the ideas it proffers. The entire communist movement has gained ground through the spreading of share-the-wealth schemes or through appealing to the crass materialism of men who want something for nothing.

Communism contends that the workers have been mistreated by the capitalists. It offers the panacea that if communism or doctrinaire socialism is accepted, the worker will get the profits of the capitalists as well as his own wage. It was and is the contention of the ideologists of collectivism that profits are evil and that a "dollar of profit is an unpaid wage."

This is the banner that flies at the head of communism's advancing columns.

"Join us," is the cry, "and you will have a better world in which the goods that are produced will be produced for social service and not for profit."

Added to this is the theme: "Government is the proper agency to manage all production. Put the tools in the hands of government, which represents all the people, and production will occur for use, and distribution will occur, not on the basis of your earnings, but on the basis of your 'needs.' "

For several decades, opposition to communism came principally from those who could be classified as frightened people. They saw in this doctrine nothing particularly startling, but they saw in the Soviet Union an alien spirit, out to conquer the world by force of arms. Russia was equated with communism. And communism's ideas were forgotten in a fearful cry of "conspiracy."

Within the last ten years a beginning has been made against the ideas of socialism and communism. Two organizations led in the development of this intellectual front. These were the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York, and the American Economic Foundation of New York City. Both of these groups offered intelligent arguments in favor of private enterprise, private ownership of the tools of production. They championed the concept of profits and showed their necessity.

A small segment of the business community responded to these foundations. But the effect was limited. Only a relative few responded to these appeals. The rank and file was largely unaffected.

More recently a few additional organizations have emerged which are stoutly opposed to ideological communism or socialism. Perhaps the most popular has been the Nathaniel Branden Institute, inspired by Ayn Rand. The Rand approach has the merit of offering intellectual excitement to the rather staid and prosaic arguments of the earlier foundations. Rand is a novelist and her writing is fascinating, if inconsistent at times. Her novels are now widely read, have become best sellers and are being pored over by a host of college students. Rand, as a motivational force, has yet to be fully appreciated.

Joseph Galambos, an ex-astro physicist, pounced on the idea of the free market and with crushing logic has extolled the virtues of private enterprise. His courses, offered under the aegis of the Free Enterprise Institute of Los Angeles, have already attracted several thousand devotees.

Here and there in various colleges and universities, a few professors have emerged who are now challenging the socialist pap of the popular Keynesian view.

The virtue of private property is now no longer a dead issue. Ideas of private ownership and management of property are skittering around the nation, carried by many likely and unlikely people. The relatively few who took an interest in the educational approach to freedom and free enterprise have expanded many times.

It is from this ideological matrix that changes are proceeding. A true intellectual revolution is in the making.

Accidents That Can Be Avoided

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Many of the accidents that occur on our highways have no excuse whatever for happening. For instance, I have read of accidents, including fatalities, that were caused by a bee or hornet or wasp being in the car and buzzing around and frightening the occupants, and especially the driver. Those present in the car usually start trying to "kill the darn thing before it stings somebody," and they try swatting it with anything that comes to hand. The driver gets excited and makes passes at the bee and the bee gets frustrated and buzzes ever more alarmingly, and the first thing they know, an accident has happened.

Now, no insect that carries a stinger is going to sting anyone without provocation. If you start fighting him and get him angry, he just might sting you. Otherwise, he may light on your tender skin and not even think of stinging. Don't get excited, you can let him out gently and easily at the next stop. If someone in the car "just can not stand bees," the sensible thing to do is pull off the road, come to a stop and all get out and leave the car doors open. The bee will soon find his way to freedom.

And suppose the bee does sting somebody? Is that as bad as an accident with broken bones and a thousand or two car damage? Except in rare cases, a sting doesn't amount to much and one soon gets over it. People daily pay doctors to puncture their hides with needles that usually sting worse than most insects.

Another thing that causes many needless accidents are animals on the highways. I am not referring to wild animals, although they cause their share of them, but to the domesticated ones that should be kept off the roads. Most owners generally make some effort to keep their horses and cows away from the lines of travel. But they do get in the way sometimes and they do cause accidents and even deaths, not only their own, but humans also. A little more care on the owner's part would have eliminated the danger.

But many people who value their dogs, intrinsically and sentimentally, more than the average horse or cow is valued, let them run where they will without the slightest restraint, especially in the rural districts. The average dog, "on his own" and living near a main highway, probably makes a traffic hazard of himself 20 to 40 times per day just cruising back and forth across the road. And if said dog gets killed, the car driver is always a dirty so-and-so.

But how many times have you nearly wrecked your car to avoid hitting a dog? It has happened to me quite a few times. So far, I have been lucky, and so has the dog. There have been many serious and fatal accidents caused by dogs on the roads. If it is a big dog that is hit, the car is very likely to be wrecked anyhow. And if the driver in an attempt to miss the dog loses control of the car, loss of life can easily be the result — and has been nobody knows how many thousands of times.

I love dogs and have owned many of them, and I believe they have thoroughly earned their honored and respected place in our world as "man's best friend." But if man were the best friend of the dog, men would endeavor to keep their precious best friends off the highways. There are probably as many people killed trying to miss a dog as there are dogs that weren't missed.

Last Saturday there occurred a three car smash-up square in front of our house on Highway 24 that wouldn't have happened if a driver hadn't been trying to keep from running down a five-pound size dog. The dog was hit, anyway, but so far as we know, was not killed though it appeared to have a broken leg.

If people love their dogs as much as they say they do, why do they let them roam at will? If they don't love them, why don't they shoot them or have the Humane Society destroy them humanely instead of letting them become traffic hazards and, perhaps, cause the deaths of several people?

In the accident I mentioned, the blame should not be placed entirely upon the dog, however. One of the gravest dangers in traffic and apparently one of the hardest to prevent, is following too close. When the driver i front slammed on his brakes to avoid killing the dog, the two cars directly behind him were unable to slow down quick enough to avoid hitting the car in front. And so about $500 damage was done to the three cars because there was a dog on the road and because the two following cars were too close for safety. It's a funny thing about driving, but if you are following the car ahead at a safe distance you will soon have three other cars between you and the one you were following in the first place. If you then drop back again to a safe distance, the same thing happens. And if you keep dropping back you will be a half hour late for your appointment, or for work or wherever you may be going.

And yet we all know that many, many accidents are caused by following too close. Learning safe driving habits would eliminate nearly all the accidents. But by the time many of us have "learned our lesson," we are already dead.

Question Box

QUESTION NO. 581: "If the present administration were truly concerned about the welfare of minority groups wouldn't a 'right - to - work' law be more helpful than the civil rights act? Where one eats may be important, but first one needs a job to be sure his family will eat."

ANSWER: We believe a "right - to - work" law would be more helpful than the civil rights law for all persons, regardless of to which minority group they belong.

However, lest some may think "right - to - work" legislation guarantees individuals employment, it should be pointed out that such laws only guarantee that a person may not be discriminated against in employment because of either membership or non - membership in unions. They tend to give workers some control over their own union officials since they can quit the union without losing their jobs if they consider the union's activities not in the members' best interests.

Present laws make it a crime for an employer to refuse to hire a man because he belongs to a union; but permit him to refuse to hire one who is not a union member. This is legalized discrimination. And this is the type of legislation which should be repealed.

What is needed is repeal of all legislation which interferes with the rights of individuals to make contracts. If an individual is willing to work for a specific amount, there should be no legislation to require the employer to pay a higher or lower amount because the union has determined a different amount must be paid.

A right - to- work law would be only a partial solution. But, our questioner is correct in implying that it is more important to workers that they not have artificial barriers to employment than that the barriers to public accommodations be removed.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

TO STOP SMOKING

To the Editor:

With another Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking scheduled to start next Sunday night (Sept. 20) at the YMCA, I want to take this opportunity to thank the Gazette Telegraph for its coverage of the programs conducted so successfully in Colorado Springs earlier this year.

Scores of smokers who wanted to rid themselves of a habit which is clearly contrary to good health were helped in these free programs. The news stories which you published about the Five-Day Plan stimulated interest — and participation — in the program. In the last of a series of articles written by Jim Glen of your staff, who attend the five group therapy sessions of the first plan last January, Mr. Glen observed:

"It would seem that if anyone wishes to give up smoking, the plan is the answer."

Sixty-six of the 79 persons who completed that first program said they were succeeding in giving up smoking. The plans normally succeed for 8 of every 10 participants.

Smokers who want to join the Five-Day Plan beginning Sunday may register now at the YMCA. Five nightly meetings will be held, Sunday through Thursday, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Little Theater of the YMCA. Dr. Hubert F. Sturges, M.D., will again join me in presenting the program.

This is a public service activity designed to help people. Your continued attention to the Five-Day Plan will be appreciated by those who seek this help as well as by those who give it. Thank you.

MATH PROBLEM

To the Editor:

There was an article I read that mentioned a 40 million dollar loan to Laos. Now that's not unusual. All the news is full of articles about foreign aid and Laos, being controlled by a communistic government, was no great shock except that there are only 2 million people there.

How is your math?

TWO VIEWS OF CASTRO

To the Editor:

In the September 1958 issue of "American Opinion," Robert Welch remarked upon the sympathetic treatment of Castro in the American press. He went on to say: "Now the evidence from Castro's whole past, that he is a Communist agent carrying out Communist orders and plans, is overwhelming. The evidence from his method of operation is even more so . . ." More than six months later, on April 15, 1959, Hubert Humphrey remarked on the floor of the Senate that Dr. Fidel Castro, the leader of the new Cuban revolution, would arrive in the United States surrounded by honorable men who were the advisers in his government. He warned against this nation's failure to understand the social revolution, and introduced for the record a nine - point program, concluding with the statement: "Let us hope that we will be able to convey our deeply-felt best wishes to Fidel Castro and the Cuban people for the full realization of their aspirations for a democratic and progressive Cuba."

Robert Welch is now, as he was then, vilified as an "extremist" (what-ever that is.)

Hubert Humphrey is now honored as the Democrat nominee for the vice-presidency of the United States.

NEWCOMER NOTES

To the Editor:

Ask anybody and they will say, "Of course, we learned that in school." Ask 2,500 Newcomer investors and you may get an answer like this. We are being taxed into slavery by more and more government, more and more laws, regulations, etc., and the general public is lulled into a false sense of security by all this "legal protection" forced upon the taxpayers "for their own good." And so it happened that 2,500 citizens, most of them local citizens, advanced in age, having faith and trust in our LAW, our government, ours — the American way of life — that many entrusted their life's savings with the Joe Newcomer Finance Co. After all, as most of our inquiries were answered, "How could Joe be in business for ten years and not be honest?" Yes, a very good question. HOW COULD HE?

No, after ten years, to the rescue comes the SEC. Joe and his accomplices took the Fifth Amendment. "That was his right," the SEC explained. The "right" of the lowest form of humanity, one who has deliberately and methodically been stealing money from trusting people, his right apparently has priority over the rights of 2,500 honest taxpayers. A week later the SEC closed his doors. (WE had just moved to Colorado and it was during this week that we made our mistake). The SEC told me, "Why, we were watching Joe for TWO YEARS."

Now, there is no law against being a lousy businessman, and the fact that the SEC closed his operation is proof that he was crooked. Yet Joe did not receive so much as a slap on the wrists. By contrast, about a month after the SEC rescued the JNFC creditors I was driving down town and made a left turn onto a street completely void of traffic. I automatically became a criminal. John Allen vs. the Public, illegal left turn. Ultimatum — pay the fine or go to jail. Newcomer vs. the Public? No such luck. After a year and a half Joe is still missing, along with nearly three million dollars.

To me, the SEC is like a fat parasitic and toothless watchdog, who eats his share and emits a feeble bark long after the burglar is safely out of sight.

Now comes more government protection. The courts take over. We have nothing to say, but are having protection, protection rammed down our throats even if it kills us, and it is. The courts are determined to salvage as much as possible for the creditors. They don't force Joe to show what he did with all the money. They do it the hard way, but not with bookkeepers or accountants. We get a trustee and real attorneys — at a cost of from 20 to 35 dollars per hour EACH. I shudder to think of how many $50 per hour coffee breaks the creditors are asked to pay for. The trustee actually has the gall to think that a year of his time is worth more than the average couple can accumulate in a lifetime. He and his attorney alone are asking for over $70,000. In my opinion, if he got what he deserves it would do him a lot of good — he would lose a lot of weight. He has hardly been working himself to a shadow this past year. But $70,000! Even Joe wasn't stealing our money that fast.

And how important is the savings of 2,500 citizens of the courts? The hearing of August 31 lasted little over a half hour, during which time fellow attorneys testified that they thought fees up to $35 per hour were reasonable to be charged to people who have already lost 90 per cent of their savings. And through this all sat our knight in shining armor, Mr. Rector, attorney for the creditors, and he said NOT A WORD in protest. After all, he too has a claim for over $7,000.

Now if the judge doesn't do something drastic, then everybody will know that nobody gives a d—— if 2,500 citizens are fleeced out of three million dollars, right in the midst of all this costly law and order.

Like maggots on a remaining carcass, we are being stripped down to the very bone.

Small wonder the crime rate has gone up 15 per cent in the past six months. People are having less and less respect for the law and it is deserving less and less respect. In addition to this, the law protects criminals — they have "rights."

Well, it looks like it's up to you now, judge. You have the ball. What you do with it will help a lot of taxpayers (voters) "is our government for or indeed against the people?"

P. S. To him who may have more faith in our system than I, put your money where your mouth is. How much will you give me for $12,000 worth of Newcomer notes?

J. ALLEN
Rt. 4
30 Burrow Rd.

Editor's note: Mr. Allen is entirely correct in stating that the SEC does not protect investors. Certainly, some 2,500 persons in this area who invested in Newcomer notes are in a position to agree. Obviously, many of them would not have invested except they were assured that the government had made everything safe for them.

But Mr. Allen has exceeded the evidence when he concludes that Joe Newcomer is, of necessity, dishonest. It is entirely within the realm of possibility that lacking SEC intrusion, the Newcomer investments might yet have paid off.

The lesson to be learned, if one cares to learn a lesson, is that economic laws are more important to understand than merely having the assurance that we live in a "protected" climate. When 8 per cent interest rates are offered in return for investment capital, it can only mean that money received for this purpose must earn MORE than 8 per cent for the person making the loans. That isn't always easy to do.

High interest payments indicate a shortage of cash. Low interest payments indicate that plenty of cash is on hand. Most investors know that risk increases as interest rates rise. This knowledge can chill optimism and cause many persons to reconsider high interest-paying investments.

Readers Resent Facts

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Every time I read the title, Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Federal Expenditures, I count to one hundred slowly before I begin to write or speak or even think. This committee has existed for a good many years under the chairmanship of "that great southern conservative statesman," Sen. Harry F. Byrd and the fact that a good many people have recited this as an example of the beneficial aspects of political action seems to create confusion, turmoil and unease at some hidden spots in my digestive tract. It is during times like this that I am inclined to mention the era of great unthinkingness and several readers of this column seem to resent the facts.

A lady who seems not to want me to know her name or address, living in the vicinity of Odessa, Texas has accused me of being cynical, lacking in faith in my fellow man, whatever that means, and devoid of a sense of humor. I hope she and others will read the title of that committee again and try to understand what they read: Committee for the REDUCTION of NON-ESSENTIAL federal expenditures. Take another good look. There are NON-ESSENTIAL federal expenses! A committee has been formed to check up on the matter. Supposedly the members wish to reduce those NON-ESSENTIAL expenditures. Obviously, they believe non-essential expenditures are necessary for the operation of the federal government! Certainly no government committee wants to do away with non-essential expenditures! The members of the committee concern themselves with thinking about reducing that which is non-essential and they must define the term narrowly since federal expenditures are ONLY essential to the cost and power and growth of government.

Now, take another look, Ma'am. A feller must have a sense of humor if he can read and understand the facts and view the stupidity of those who refuse to face facts, without blowing a fuse, and I'm not about to blow any fuses just because too many people refuse to learn to think.

Cynical, Ma'am? Just face a few facts, yourself.

From time to time, I have mentioned the increasing affluence of your horribly bloated bureaucracy and this suggests I am cynical, among other things, because I would deny those poor bureaucrats what those who prefer not to think call a living wage. So be it! The number of parasites on the payroll increased by about 2 per cent in ten years. Their pay increase amounted to more than 70 per cent and these figures do NOT include the increases recently voted into law by your elected representatives. The total payroll in the last fiscal year amounted to $16.2 billion and I hope you will remember that F.D.R. castigated Hoover for a TOTAL federal budget of about $3½ billion in 1932.

You may also like to pay a little attention to this. $16.2 billion distributed among 2,488,365 civilians amounts to a whopping big vested interest in elections and this is a great time to try on your own sense of humor. On January 1, 1965 about 1.7 million parasites will begin to enjoy the increases voted by your representatives and maybe that will brighten up your next New Year Day festivities. You bet — laugh, clowns, laugh!

You mention my cynicism, Ma'am. How much are you worried about the fantastic debt your government has fastened upon unborn generations? How much are you worried about the constantly rising rate of crime and suicide, the morally degrading effect of your socialist-fascist government, your share cropper's role in your own native land, your enslavement? Cynical, Ma'am —how frequently are you concerned with the fact that other human beings who are in no way responsible for your children, are COMPELLED to pay for their education? How much respect do you have for the earnings and property of your fellow man when you sanction the right of government to steal from him and urge others to join you at the ballot box?

Yesterday we watched a beautiful, wild bear and laughed at his antics but I find no humor in a senseless, bloated bureaucracy or in the millions of human beings turned into feeding, propagating, unthinking non-entities by their slavemasters!

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

According to Col. Jekins, a hangar display, including personal equipment worn by pilots will be a feature of the day's activities.

A demonstration of Air Force crash-rescue techniques will be held along with a display including one of the base fire trucks. The crash - rescue demonstration will feature a fire-fighting exhibition at the southeast end of the runway. A burned-out airplane fuselage is set on fire for the display.

Transportation will be provided by Kiwanis Clubs from the various participating communities.

IN CASE OF FINANCIAL PUNCTURE GET A BANK RATE LOAN

If you're like most people, you've given up the idea of being the richest man in town. But chances are you're still interested in how you can get the things you need for yourself and your family.
